MRS. KEITH MILLER HELD IN SHOOTING

Today

Our Country Is Intact.
What Ails Us?
Platitudes Won't Do.
The Dollar Too Dear.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

NEWTON, Kan., April 21.

TRAVELING ACROSS this country from West to East it is difficult to believe that anything serious is the matter with it, except the foolishness of its inhabitants.

A few hundred millions of acres of land cultivated, a billion acres waiting to be developed, mines from which billions have been taken in gold, silver, copper, and other mines with more billions waiting to be developed, millions of cattle, sheep, swine, millions of able and patient farmers, millions of skilled mechanics, the ablest engineers, greatest, most perfectly equipped factories in the world, such are a few of our national possessions, to which should be added water falls, oil and coal deposits apparently inexhaustible, to produce the power that industry demands.

WHAT IS the matter with us?

The ancient dinosaur, enormous in build and power, possessed everything except a brain strong enough to direct and protect his great body.

Has this dinosaur nation the same trouble? Do we lack a national intelligence as wide as the country, a governing intellect capable of managing it from Alaska to Florida? Is our trouble a lack of intelligent interest among voters? Do we need a dictator to govern those that will not govern themselves?

THE NATION has more of everything than its people can use, more coal, oil, cotton, wheat, food and wealth of all kinds, land, machinery, skilled workers.

And millions of the people have nothing but worry and fear for the future.

What IS the matter with us?

CHAMBERLAIN, England's Chancellor of the Exchequer, tells the British that they can solve all economic problems with "work, economy, courage and patience."

Victor Murdock, a Kansas editor, remarks:

"Fortunately for these United States the Chamberlain formula is not copyrighted."

MANY PLEASANT platitudes have been uttered concerning "work, economy, courage, patience."

But courage and patience will not fill the stomachs of hungry children. Recommending WORK to millions that would gladly work, but can find no work to do, is a ghastly joke.

Advising economy does not help those that have nothing to save. And if the advice were taken by those that have money, buying and business conditions would be worse.

You cannot cure anything with platitudes.

A farm that needs irrigation cannot be made to pay by work, economy, courage and patience alone. It must also have WATER and plenty of it.

This country needs more CURRENCY, plentiful cash irrigation to stimulate commercial and industrial life.

To raise alfalfa requires 500 pounds of water for every pound of alfalfa harvested. If water cost 1 cent a pint, you couldn't grow alfalfa. Money is too dear in the United States and too hard to get, with the few financial institutions that control it AFRAID TO LEND IT, although the government lends them billions.

IT MUST be remembered that the value of the dollar shifts as does the value of cotton or wheat.

In Dr. Shaw's Review of Reviews for April, in his article, "Is There a Cure for Deflation," Prof. Irving Fisher says:

"When prices go so low that a dollar will buy what once cost a dollar and a half, the dollar has really become a dollar and a half. This has actually happened in the last two years, chiefly because money, or currency, has become scarce."

THE AMOUNT of your debt depends not on the number of dollars, but on the difficulty of getting each dollar that you must pay.

Concerning the national debt, Prof. Fisher says:

"The United States government now owes more than ever before. The public debt was 25 billions in 1919, the maximum number of dollars. But today's debt, 'reduced' supposedly to 17½ billions, is really, in terms of the 1919 dollars, 35 billions."

Deflation, says Prof. Fisher, increases the burden of debt by making it harder to get rid of part of it.

"Deflation weakens every debtor's collateral. It may and often does happen that the stampede to pay off debts actually increases the debt burden. It forces down prices—that it, it increases the dollar's value faster than the number of dollars of debt diminishes."

AS THE DOLLAR increases in value, the lender is able to drive harder bargains and he does it. But in the long run he, too, will suffer.

Says Prof. Fisher:

"When the dollar—the most fundamental standard of measure we have—becomes a dollar and a half, it hurts the business man just as if the yardstick grew to a yard and a half, or the bushel basket to a bushel and a half, and he had to make his deliveries on that basis. Until this bloating of the dollar is

SHORT SALES REVEALED IN SENATE

Army of 24,000 Traders Made 'Bear' Commitments In Day, Senate Told

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—An army of 24,000 short-sellers played the New York Stock Market on April 8 for a decline in prices, the Senate Banking and Currency Committee revealed today in making public all short sales on that day.

The records, turned over by Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, showed that short sellers traded heavily in American Telephone and Telegraph, General Electric, United States Steel, Consolidated Gas and General Motors stock.

The committee gave out the names of short sellers, trading in more than 2,500 shares. It also gave out the names of scores of brokers, who handled the short-selling accounts. There were few well-known names on the list.

Some of the heavier short sellers were listed as American Brush Company, George H. Andrews, Travelers Bank, Mary Wallace, Atina Corporation, Bartlett & Co., E. Breymann, the Bridge Street Corporation, C. E. Chapman, Harry Content, W. S. Crandell, the Crescent Operating Company, T. R. Gilmartin, the Greva Company, M. J. Harrigan, Hamberger & Co., G. M. Moffett, N. W. Peters, S. E. Shannon, B. E. Smith, L. S. Wisner and G. T. Wisner, Jr.

The largest single transaction reported was the short sale of 35,225 shares of General Motors by the Travelers Bank and the next was 13,500 shares of General Motors by B. E. Smith.

Other large short sales transactions were 6,000 Adams Express by S. E. Shahmoon, 5,000 Westing-

MACHINE GUNS ON LINDY PLANE

TRENTON, N. J., April 21.—(INS.)—Indications that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh planned a new flight possibly to make direct contact with the kidnapers who abducted his infant son March 1 were revived today with reports the Lindbergh plane was equipped with two sub machine guns.

Although Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, in charge of New Jersey state police, gave out no official word of this development, it was learned the weapons were taken to Newark airport.

A mysterious visit late last night to the Lindbergh home on Sourland Mountain proved the only other development to become known in the case. The license plates of an automobile in which three men arrived at the house were owned by a man using the New York address of Owney Madden, reputed beer baron. Whether Madden was in the car remained undisclosed.

In Norfolk, Va., the three Lindbergh negotiators were still reported to be active. Their chief, John H. Curtis, was said to be out of the city.

In New York City, Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the case, made several more of his mysterious trips.

Charlie Chaplin Soon To Leave Hospital

SINGAPORE, April 21.—(INS.)—Charlie Chaplin, confined to a hospital here with a mild attack of dengue fever, was reported to be recovering rapidly today. A hospital bulletin said:

"Chaplin is making excellent recovery and will probably leave the hospital Saturday."

Charities Cleared as Baby Dies for Lack of Milk

ERIE, Pa., April 21.—(AP.)—Martin Moka told Coroner W. G. Stroble that his 5-week-old child died today because he could not buy milk and none was provided by charitable organizations.

Moka, who is unemployed, said the milk supply from the County Poor Board stopped and promises of visiting nurses to provide the food were not kept. The poor board has lacked funds to continue relief work.

After investigation, Coroner Stroble exonerated the Poor Board and visiting nurses and said his investigation showed that Mrs. Moka had not asked the charities for milk.

MISS CAROLINE CRITTENDEN

DENIES TROTH TO DIVORCEE

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 21.—(AP.)—Joseph K. Morford, University of Virginia law student, of Lexington, Ky., today denied rumors he is engaged to Miss Caroline Jackson Crittenden, Pittsburgh heiress, whose divorce from Paul Showalter, Arizona cowboy, was recently announced.

In a formal statement, Morford said:

"I cannot understand how such a statement could have originated in view of the fact that the termination of my engagement to Miss Crittenden was formally announced last March. I wish, therefore, unqualifiedly, to reaffirm that the engagement is definitely ended."

STATE TO PUSH MASSIE CASE TO FINISH

Wife's Tearing Up Evidence Won't Lead to Mistrial Plea, Prosecutor Says

International News Service.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 21.—The case against the four Americans accused of the "honor slaying" of Joseph Kahahawai will be allowed to go to the jury without any attempts by the state to win a victory through technical legal evasions, Prosecutor John C. Kelley informed International News Service today. He said:

"We have no intention of taking advantage of any legal technicalities that we believe might possibly be invoked such as motions for the court to declare a mistrial or an instructed verdict as the result of Mrs. Thalia Massie tearing up the paper I handed her."

DRAMATIC SCENE

The prosecutor referred to the dramatic scene that plunged the little courtroom into a turmoil when Mrs. Massie, on the witness stand to testify in behalf of her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and her mother, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, tore into shreds a document purporting to be a report of a psychopathic examination made upon her last summer, and allegedly hinting at a rift in the Massie home.

Lieut. Massie, Mr. Fortescue and two naval enlisted men, Albert S. Jones and E. J. Lord, are on trial accused of killing Joseph Kahahawai, who confessed, Lieut. Massie testified, to leading five noodlums in an attack on his wife. Kelley said:

"The prosecution is trying this case solely on its merits and the issues involved, and I intend to let the jury determine if the defendants are guilty or not."

Mrs. Massie's bold action came after she testified in tears to the Coast Guards Fight To Save 5 in Storm

SAN PEDRO, April 21.—(INS.)—The Coast Guard today was battling to save five men on board the fishing barge Melrose, formerly a San Francisco ferryboat, which was drifting helplessly inshore in a storm of hurricane proportions.

Lives of 20 person on storm-tossed barges were imperiled through inability of coast guardsmen to rescue them because of the tremendous seas.

Harold Lloyd Wires Hope for Tiny Baby

KANSAS CITY, April 21.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. William St. John, parents of Kansas City's one-pound baby, have received sympathy and encouragement from Hollywood.

Harold Lloyd, film comedian, telegraphed the St. Johns that Harold Lloyd, Jr., who weighed less than three pounds at birth a year ago, now tips the scales to 20 pounds.

REALTORS VETO SNODGRASS SUBWAY

Board Agrees With Transit Commission's Objections To Grant Street Route

The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board today threw its support to the City Transit Commission in its opposition to the proposed Brown-Snodgrass subway plan as the commission appeared before Council to answer questions regarding its recent report.

In a letter presented to Council as the meeting opened, the Real Estate Board set forth that the Brown-Snodgrass subway would relieve surface congestion only to a limited extent, that it would not improve existing transportation facilities, and in all probability would not be self-supporting. The route is not suitable for a rapid transit system, the board contends.

The board and the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, through a special committee headed by W. L. Munro, have asked that a public hearing on the subway be set for April 29.

HEARING REQUESTED

The Retail Merchants' Association discussed the subway yesterday, but issued no statement.

The supplemental report of the Transit Commission containing figures on which opposition to the Brown-Snodgrass plan was based will not be ready for Council today. All of the conclusions, however, have been given to Council. As an alternative plan, the Transit Commission will call attention to a plan submitted to Council December ", for a subway under Smithfield street, it is reported.

The Grant street subway can be built within the limit of the $5,880,000 available, Snodgrass has said. All utility lines under the streets can be moved for $600,000, he said, and this has been included in Brown's estimate.

ESTIMATES CONSERVATIVE

He said:

"Our cost estimates are ultra-conservative. Under present competitive conditions, we believe the subway can be built for even less than we first thought."

Second avenue car lines also can be taken into the subway without increasing the estimate, he said. The level of Second avenue at Ross street would make it possible to provide an approach to the Grant street subway at very low cost, he declared.

Short-looping the East End lines is not a necessary feature of the Grant street subway, according to Snodgrass. The cars may be short-looped if it is desired, or may be continued on the present routes, he said.

Marlene Dietrich In Row Over Role

HOLLYWOOD, April 21.—(AP.)—Marlene Dietrich, German-born film actress, and her director, Josef von Sternberg, were reported at odds today with their studio over a film story, with the studio giving them an ultimatum unless they started work by Monday their pay would cease.

The actress was said to have protested she did not consider the story suitable for her talents.

MRS. J. M. KEITH-MILLER ..... AN AVIATOR FOUND SHOT

POLICE ATTACK PHILA. PARADES

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—(AP.)—A score of persons were injured and 23 others, six of them women, were arrested today when police broke up two groups of marchers in what was termed by authorities "a plot to mass radicals for a march on City Hall."

The disturbances broke out within a block of City Hall when a parade of about 200 marchers, who said they belonged to the "Workers' ex-Service Men's League, Philadelphia Post No. 1," refused to obey a police order to disperse.

The group was marching west on Arch street toward Broad street. Details of mounted and foot policemen, swinging riot sticks and blackjacks, charged the workers and sent them scurrying in all directions. Then another group of about 500 appeared and police again charged to rout them.

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP.)—Disorder broke out this afternoon at a demonstration for unemployment relief at City Hall, when a group of several hundred Communists broke through police lines. Police instantly charged the crowd, and blackjacks and batons were swung repeatedly on the heads of demonstrators.

MOONEY LEARNS FATE TODAY

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 21.—(AP.)—Results of his test of the accuracy of the scales of justice in the case of Tom Mooney were to be announced today by the Governor of California.

Some time between 3 and 7 p. m., eastern time, Gov. James Rolph, Jr., is expected to speak the words that would mean freedom or continued imprisonment for California's most widely known convict.

In the executive's inner reception room, newspapermen gathered to hear the decision. Desks were pushed aside so telegraph instruments could be placed in readiness to flash the news.

Meanwhile, in San Quentin Prison, Thomas J. Mooney, former labor leader and convicted dynamiter, went about his usual duties—those of the prison "vegetable man."

In Folsom Prison, another man to whom the decision may mean much, waited. He is Warren K. Billings, who, like Mooney, is serving a life sentence. Both were convicted in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day parade bombing, which claimed 10 lives and injured 40 persons.

Mail Pilot Killed In Airport Crash

FORT WAYNE, Ind., April 21.—(INS.)—Lieut. George Hill, 34, of South Bend, pilot of a Trans-America Airline mail plane, was fatally injured when his ship crashed from a height of 300 feet at the municipal airport here today. It was believed his motor stalled.

PILOT KILLED SELF, SAYS AVIATRIX

Lancaster, Also Quizzed, Opposed Pair's Plan to Wed, Missives Reveal

MIAMI, Fla., April 21.—(AP.)—Haden Clarke, 31, aviation pilot and free lance writer, was shot and fatally wounded shortly before dawn today at the house where he was living with Capt. W. N. Lancaster, former British flier, and Mrs. Jessie M. Keith Miller, Australian aviatrix. He died a few hours later in a hospital from the bullet wound in the head.

Mrs. Keith Miller and Lancaster were held by county authorities for investigation. Each expressed belief Clarke took his own life. Similar belief was expressed by his mother, Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke, instructor in journalism at the University of Miami.

TWO NOTES FOUND

Two notes were found, apparently written by Clarke. One was addressed to "Chubbie" (Mrs. Keith Miller's nickname) and said in effect he could not continue his present economic situation. The other read:

"Bill, I can't make the grade. Tell Chubbie of our talk. My advice is, never leave her again."

It was signed "H."

Clarke had been helping the aviatrix write the story of her life.

J. B. Rowland, investigator for the state attorney's office, said he also found in the house letters from Clarke and Mrs. Keith Miller to Lancaster in St. Louis, stating Clarke and she wished to be married. A telegram signed by Lancaster and sent from St. Louis, Rowland continued, urged Clarke and the aviatrix to delay their wedding until he arrived, and added that his only desire was for their happiness.

Lancaster arrived here by airplane last night from St. Louis.

A pistol found under Clarke's body was identified by Lancaster as his.

WAKENED BY LANCASTER

In a statement to police, Mrs. Keith Miller said she was awakened shortly before daylight by Lancaster, who told her Clark had shot himself.

She said she went with Lancaster to the place where Clark

Bored Infant Flying To Miami From N. J.

NEWARK, N. J., April 21.—(INS.)—An 18-passenger Curtis Condor airplane took off from Newark Airport today, bound for Jacksonville, Fla., with one very bored and nonchalant passenger aboard.

He was 16-month-old Howard Wade, Jr., whose parents put him in charge of the hostess of the plane. Young Wade is bound for Miami, but he will stop off at Jacksonville tonight, presumably to see the town, and then continue to Miami tomorrow, where he will be met by his grandmother.

15 Killed in Court By Collapse of Roof

BASTIA, Corsica, April 21.—(AP.)—At least 15 persons, including two attorneys, were killed in the collapse of a ceiling in Correctional Court at the Palace of Justice today while a trial was in progress.

The accident occurred when the roof caved in and carried two floors with it. Troops were immediately called and many injured including the judges and several spectators in the wrecked rooms were rescued.

City Sells Two Buildings At Auction for Dollar

Col. W. R. Dunlap, City Supplies Director, today was satisfied that he should stick to supplies directing and let someone else be the city's auctioneer.

Two properties at 4500 and 4502 Penn avenue, one a one-story frame, the other a three-story brick dwelling, were purchased by the city some time ago to make room for a street improvement.

Today Dunlap auctioned off the buildings.

After a lengthy and fervid exhortation he found a bidder among the 20 or more persons who had gathered.

R. E. Miller, 706 West North avenue, bought both buildings for $1. He must move them in 15 days.

Both buildings being in a more or less dilapidated condition, Miller said he would tear them down and sell the materials.

MRS. MASSIE'S DRAMATIC TESTIMONY UPSETS PROSECUTION

DELAY SOUGHT BY KELLEY IN 'HONOR' TRIAL

Mainland Phychiatrist to Examine Naval Officer to Combat Insanity Defense

attack by Kahahawai and four other half-[illegible].

The [illegible] was expected [illegible] in the [illegible] to permit Dr. Paul Bowers, mainland psychiatrist arriving today, time in which to examine Lieut. Massie and presumably attempt to undermine the defense's contention that he was insane when the fatal shot [illegible].

Massie's testimony came [illegible] expected emotional [illegible] she tore into bits a document handed her by Kelley purporting to be a psychopathic questionnaire she answered last summer and hinting at trouble in the Massie home. Amid the wild applause and [illegible] that greeted Mrs. Massie's act, the defense rested.

DARROW "AMAZED"

Darrow said today:

"I was amazed when I saw her tear that paper in two and then into smaller bits. Of course she shouldn't have done it, but nothing in the world could have stopped her."

The [illegible] white women spectators at Mrs. Massie's bold act brought [illegible] Judge Charles S. Davis [illegible] punish further such demonstrations as contempt of court.

Kelley meanwhile sought the day's delay in order to have Dr. Bowers examine Lieut. Massie and observe his mental state before testifying.

Upon the [illegible] decision whether Lieut. Massie was legally insane hinges not only the fate of the officer but of the co-defendants as well, because under Hawaiian law if Lieut. Massie is found legally insane, then his companions cannot be held responsible.

SATISFIED WITH CASE

Darrow appeared satisfied with the case he has presented through the testimony of Lieut. Massie and his wife and the two defense alienists, Dr. Edward Huntington Williams and Dr. Thomas J. Orbison. He said:

"We can add no more than what Lieut. Massie and his wife have told of the events before and after the death of Kahahawai, and what the alienists have testified as to the lieutenant's state of mind to the effect he did not know what he was doing when Kahahawai, after being kidnaped, confessed to the attack."

Darrow's attitude was that he would not need the testimony of Mrs. Fortescue, Lord and Jones, even as rebuttal witnesses.

Indications were that the case would go to the jury next Tuesday or Wednesday after unlimited argument from opposing counsel. Darrow said he was planning to speak for four hours and George S. Leisure, his associate, for about one. The prosecution was expected to require about the same amount of time.

REBUTTAL NOT IMPORTANT

The prosecution's rebuttal was not considered as important as far as the jury was concerned as was Lieut. Massie's simple plea of justification, woven through his and his beautiful wife's testimony.

Courtroom observers were generally agreed that much depends on whether the mixed blood jurors believe Kahahawai was actually guilty of the attack.

The prosecution has introduced evidence aimed to show that the native constantly maintained his innocence before the kidnaping.

Mrs. Massie's dramatic act of tearing in pieces the paper handed her by Kelley came after a two-hour ordeal on the witness stand when, amid uncontrollable tears, she recited the story of the beating and the attack and described her husband's worry and mental strain culminating in the killing of Kahahawai.

The paper was supposed to have been a confidential communication given by Mrs. Massie to Dr. E. Lowell Kelley, University of Hawaii psychologist.

REBUKED BY KELLEY

After Mrs. Massie had destroyed the document, Prosecutor Kelley exclaimed:

"Thank you, Mrs. Massie. At last you have shown yourself in your true colors."

At the end of the day's session Mrs. Massie was taken back to the Pearl Harbor naval base by her husband and mother and put to bed in an effort to sooth her taut nerves. Lieut. Massie himself wept during a portion of his wife's testimony, but Mrs. Fortescue fought successfully against any outward show of emotion.

Mrs. Massie was flushed and nervous when she took the stand and soon the memories of the tragic night of the attack reduced her to uncontrolled tears.

Darrow gently led his witness through her story. Judge Davis directed him to confine Mrs. Massie's testimony to what she told her husband, Kelley protesting that "we are not trying the Ala Moana attack case again."

TELLS OF ATTACK

After Mrs. Massie had found her way home when the hoodlums released her, her husband telephoned. She said:

"I told him to come home quick, that something terrible had happened.

"As soon as he did, I told him the men had kidnaped me and attacked me.

"I was walking along the street when a car drove up and someone said:

"'Come on, baby, you're going for a ride.'

"Kahahawai struck me. They dragged me into the car. They kept hitting me all the time. I begged them to stop."

Lieut. Massie could bear up no longer under his wife's testimony and he bowed his head, weeping unashamedly. Others in the crowded courtroom cried, and the jury seemed ill at ease.

"Kahahawai hit me as hard as he could. When I asked him not to hit me, he said:

"'Shut up. What do I care?' He swore at me.

TEETH KNOCKED OUT

"'Look out, you have knocked some of my teeth out,' I told Kahahawai.

"'What do I care,' he replied again.

"They drove off into the bushes. . . . They dragged me out. . . . They attacked me.

"They stood around laughing and talking."

Mrs. Massie recounted how she was taken to a hospital and the suspects brought into her the next day.

"Tommy asked me if I was sure of the identification. I said 'Yes, I am sure.'

"Tommy was so kind, so wonderful. When I would wake up with nightmares he did not seem to mind."

During a brief recess, Lieut. Massie threw his arms around his wife, comforting her. Mrs. Massie then continued:

HEARD RUMORS

"I heard all sorts of rumors, and we discussed them together. We heard that Tommy didn't believe me and that he was going to get a divorce.

"I tried to tell Tommy not to worry. He didn't seem well, anyway."

Mrs. Massie was more calm when Darrow turned her over to Kelley for cross-examination.

The prosecutor handed the young woman a piece of paper said to be a report of a psychopathic examination and asked if she had written it.

Mrs. Massie glanced at it and her cheeks flushed. She demanded:

"Where did you get this? This is a confidential communication between a physician and his patient."

Kelley retorted:

"I am asking questions, not answering them."

"I refuse to say if I wrote it."

Then Mrs. Massie sobbed, shredding the document into tiny bits and allowing the paper to slip through her fingers onto the floor. The courtroom cheered and Judge Davis angrily tapped for order, warning against future demonstrations.

SOBS WITH HUSBAND

Amid the uproar Mrs. Massie was excused and the defense rested its case.

As if in answer to Kelley's insinuations that there had been a rift in the domestic happiness of the Massies, the young wife flung herself into the arms of her husband and sobbed:

"You know I love you, Tommy."

Her mother aided in comforting her.

The first state rebuttal witness summoned was Stowell Wright, a newspaperman who testified he was present at the arrest of Lieut. Massie.

Earlier in the day the state completed its cross-examination of Dr. Williams, defense alienist, without materially changing his diagnosis that Lieut. Massie was insane at the time of the shooting.

house Electric by B. Smith, 6 000 Case Threshing by H. Walker, 3 500 General Motors by T. C. Watson, 6 500 Anaconda Copper by Mrs. E. Wellington and two short sales of 10 500 each General Motors by M. L. Norris.

Matthew C. Brush, regarded as one of the street's largest short sellers, had a total of 10 100 shares sold short that day in 1 000 and 2 000 lots.

Other large short sale holdings were 10 300 General Motors by W. S. Crandall, 16 901 shares of Auburn by E. A. Crawford & Co. and 16 400 United States Steel by O. C. Deering Syndicate.

The brokers, all of whom will probably be subpenaed, contained on the list include:

Hyman & Co., H. Wentz & Co., Hirsch, Lilienthal & Co., H. Content & Co., J. S. Bache & Co., McClave & Co., Wellington & Co., W. E. Hutton & Co., Farell Brothers, Page Smith & Remick, Cyrus J. Minton & Co., Billings Olcott & Co., F. P. Ristine & Co. and R. Wrea Brothers & Co.

The committee made public the list of short-sellers after President Whitney had testified the New York exchange would have to close if short-selling were prohibited.

Whitney, on the stand for the second time, declared short-selling was "speculation but not gambling."

Seated in the rear of the committee room as Whitney testified was Percy Rockefeller, nephew of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who has been served with a subpena to take the stand probably tomorrow.

BRUSH CALLED

Among the score of other operators and traders summoned as witnesses is Matthew E. Brush, president of the American International Corporation. He also was in Washington today.

Senator Norbeck (Rep.), of South Dakota, chairman, gave no reason for calling Rockefeller and Brush, but rumors have been current for some time that they were two of the biggest "bear traders."

Rockefeller recently paid a hurried visit to Washington and conferred with President Hoover.

William A. Gray, of Philadelphia, the committee's attorney, opened the day's session by asking Whitney whether he thought the Stock Exchange would have to close if short selling were banned. Whitney said:

"I feel that short selling is an integral part of speculation along with marginal buying. Speculation along with investment make up the market."

"What's the distinction between speculation and gambling?"

"The distinction is the act depending on its purpose. Gambling is an endeavor, which has no useful purpose. The gambler is a drone. The individual who speculates is using his money, taking a chance, with a desire to do something productive."

Gray reviewed the practice of brokers to borrow stock from customers in order to fill short selling transactions. On April 1 the exchange adopted a rule calling on brokers to get the written consent of customers before using their stock in short sales. Gray asked Whitney whether this "lending of securities" was permitted so "brokers can maintain their earnings even if the public suffers." Whitney said:

"That's not my view."

Gray asked whether Whitney had heard of customers protesting against brokers using "pressure" to get their consent to using their stock in short sales. Whitney said:

"I'm not positive. We've received a few letters from individuals, stating they would not give their consent."

Gray next took up the question of brokers advising customers to buy or sell a stock when the brokerage was doing just the opposite. Whitney said two firms—Prince and Whitley, and E. W. Wagner & Company—were expelled from the exchange for this practice.

Discussing marginal trading, Whitney said the exchange now required brokers to get marginal deposits of not less than 20 per cent. He said many brokers still asked 25 per cent marginal payments but that the exchange only required 20 per cent.

Labor Suggests Closing Of Stock Exchange

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(INS.)—A suggestion that the New York Stock Exchange close temporarily and fix minimum prices as a means of giving business a new stability was put forward today by the American Federation of Labor.

Calling attention to the current inquiry into the stock exchange by the Senate committee, the federation in its newest survey termed short selling a "quagmire" in America's economic structure. Richard Whitney was called on as president of the stock exchange to stabilize the market, even if temporary closing is necessary, in order to prevent values from further falling and resulting in added unemployment.

FASHION PARADE FOR FOOD SHOW

A fashion parade and a Washington bicentennial pageant are to be features tomorrow night of the annual Food Show, now being held in Motor Square Garden. More than 40 Pittsburgh girls modeling clothes which they designed and made will participate in the fashion parade.

Two hundred and fifty members of the Hazelwood Women's Club were to be special guests today at the domestic science and cooking school being held in connection with the food exhibition.

Miss Dorothy Dedman, Miss Elsie Wunderly and Miss Edna Williams will be speakers at today's session. The show, which will continue throughout next week, is being held under the auspices of the Retail Grocers Association.

Limit of Million Asked of Incomes

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(AP.)—A resolution that the tax bill be so written that no person would be allowed to make more than a million dollars annually or receive gifts or inheritances of more than $5,000,000, was introduced today by Senator Long (Dem.), of Louisiana.

lay and saw a pistol under him. She said:

"I pulled it out about an inch by the barrel."

"We talked for about an hour of home troubles and several other things. We were in a cheerful mood and laughing."

He said he was awakened by a report sometime later, and heard Clark "making a funny noise."

"I turned on the light. His face was covered with blood and he was lying on his side."

Lancaster said he ran to the room of Mrs. Keith Miller, to whom he referred as "Chubby," and called her to get up.

STARTED FLIGHT HERE

Mrs. Keith Miller was the object of widespread search in November, 1930, when her plane disappeared on the return leg of a Pittsburgh-Havana flight attempt.

She eventually appeared in Nassau on December 1 and told how a terrific gale had forced her plane from its course and compelled her to land, out of gas, on the lonely island of Andros.

Some pilots and weather observers were skeptical at the time, charging that the winds were such that she would have been blown in the opposite direction. Mrs. Keith Miller denied this.

MANAGER FOR FLIER

At the time of the Pittsburgh-Havana flight, Capt. Lancaster was Mrs. Keith Miller's manager.

Mrs. Keith Miller and Capt. Lancaster first came to wide public notice in 1927, when they flew together from England to Australia, a journey which took four months and was marked by many crashes and delays.

Capt. Lancaster has been her constant companion ever since the Australian flight. She was divorced from her husband, an Australian journalist, last year. Both have figured in numerous crashes, alone and together.

Coroner's Jury Asks 'Ride' Prosecution

A Coroner's jury today recommended that "the person or persons" who took Joseph Jacobs, Philadelphia racketeer, for a "ride" March 30, leaving his bullet-riddled body in the Sandy Creek road near Verona, be held for the grand jury on a charge of murder. No one is under arrest in connection with the crime.

Dr. Sze Resigns As Chinese Envoy

NANKING, April 21.—(AP.)—Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese minister to London, resigned today because of ill health. He will be succeeded by Quo Tai Chi, vice minister of foreign affairs and China's chief delegate at the Sino-Japanese peace conferences at Shanghai.

DAWES OPPOSES BONUS, FLAYS WALL STREET

Stock Exchange Dubbed 'Peanut Stand' in Saying That U. S. 'Feels Better'

WASHINGTON, April 21. (AP.)—In characteristically forceful language, Charles G. Dawes condemned what he termed "damned" demagoguery today before the House Ways and Means Committee to present a powerful plea against full payment of the bonus.

He called Wall street "a peanut stand" and said too much stress was laid upon its activities while the mass of the people were becoming more optimistic.

Withdrawals from banks have ceased, Dawes said, in outlining the operations of the Reconstruction Corporation, which he heads.

WARNS OF INFLATION

He warned that inflation of the currency would have a disastrous effect upon the nation's monetary and credit system. The two billion dollar bonus would be paid in new currency under the Patman bill, which he opposed.

He thrust his pipe into his mouth and leaned forward with a hand pointed toward the committee members, saying:

"Look out when you tamper with the foundation of your currency. It will shake the confidence of the world in American credit.

"Why do people talk about these picayunish operations on the New York Exchange? Just compare them with the aggregate business activity of this country and they are nothing."

"It isn't what Wall street thinks down there at that peanut stand, it's what the great mass of the people feel and they're feeling better, take it from me."

Dawes was questioned particularly about the Missouri Pacific loan by the Reconstruction Corporation, part of which went to pay back a Morgan loan. He said the portion going to New York banks "was only part of the picture, but did release securities to give us adequate collateral for the loan." As questions ceased, he asked:

"Well, are you through now?"

And with that he left after one and one-half hours on the stand.

KING URGES U. S. EASE HEIR TAX

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(AP.)—The Senate Finance Committee was urged today by Pennsylvania's Secretary of Revenue to remove from the new tax bill a provision permitting revaluation of estates to allow for shrinkage since the period of economic stress began.

Clyde L. King, the official, estimated the section would cost the states $150,000,000 and the federal government only about $40,000,000. The estate tax is shared between the federal government and the states in which the property is located.

The principle of the proposed revaluation clause, King said, was to reduce the hardship on the heirs of wealthy persons who died while securities were high. He said:

"But this principle has not been recognized by the federal government in taxing either the incomes of individuals or corporations, many of whom are still struggling to pay delinquent taxes on incomes earned in 1928, 1929 and 1930."

Man Who Gave Son Offers Loan to U. S.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(AP.)—An old man who lost his only son in the war and saved $2,000 from war risk insurance payments, today offered to turn this and his $57.50 monthly check over to the government to help meet expenses.

In a letter to Secretary Mills, Charles F. Thompson, of Philadelphia, said he would send the money at once if the government would accept it. In reply, Mills expressed appreciation of the offer, but told Thompson there was no law under which the government could borrow the funds he offered.

Chinese Tongs to Greet Gibbons in New York

NEW YORK, April 21.—(Universal.)—Members of Chinese tongs were to march to Pennsylvania Station today and join in the reception to be given Floyd Gibbons, noted war correspondent, when he arrived from Washington. Their presence will be in the nature of a demonstration of praise for Gibbons' fairness to the Chinese in his reporting of the Chinese-Japanese crises in Mukden and Shanghai, from where his dispatches to Universal Service and International News Service captured the attention of the world.

A group of distinguished representatives of broadcasting, newspaperdom and civic affairs was to be in the reception committee greeting Gibbons at the Pennsylvania Station. The committee was headed by George Hand, member of the Mayor's committee on reception of distinguished visitors, and included M. A. White, assistant general manager of Universal Service; Barry Faris, news director of International News Service; John W. Elwood, vice president of National Broadcasting Company, and E. J. Gough, director of Hearst Radio Service.

Ohio Train Crash Kills 2, Sabotage Blamed

PORTSMOUTH, O., April 21.—(AP.)—A passenger train on the Norfolk and Western Railroad was wrecked by an act of sabotage 20 miles east of here early today and two of its crew were killed.

Railroad investigators said the wreck was caused by the malicious removal of four bolts from a switch. An 18-year-old boy was arrested for questioning.

The train, No. 4, bound from Cincinnati to Norfolk, Va., was traveling 65 miles an hour when it struck the switch. Two express cars and the locomotive overturned, and two coaches, one Pullman car and a mail car were derailed, but remained upright.

Engineer J. H. Myers and Fireman J. J. Kemp, both of Portsmouth, died in the wreckage. Two mail clerks and an express messenger were injured but will recover.

Passengers in the coaches and sleeping cars were shaken and bruised but none of them reported serious injuries.

Railroad detectives said track inspectors found the bolts removed two days ago and had them replaced, and that another inspection found the track all right only a few hours before the wreck.

Questioned by trainmen, the youth, whose name was not given out, said he had been thrown off the train in the accident.

CHILD KILLED BY FUMIGATING GAS IN SWISSVALE HOME

FATHER FAILS IN DASH TO SAVE SON

Boy Found Fatally Stricken; Coroner Grills Renovator On Lack of House Guard

Fumigating gas, sealed in a home, early today snuffed out the life of Charles Bunn, Jr., 7, 2432 rear of Woodstock avenue, Swissvale.

The child died in the Braddock General Hospital, where he had been taken last night after his father, warned by another child, Betty, 4, had dragged him from the gas-filled home.

Coroner's office attaches said the death was the eighth in five years to be caused by fumigation gases.

CHILD REVEALS TRAGEDY

Charles Bunn, the father, returning from work last night, started for the home of Mrs. Don J. Hickey, 2107 Braddock avenue, a neighbor, with whom he had left Charles, Betty and their two sisters, Margaret Jean, 18 months, and Ruth, 8.

Near his home, Betty stopped him, saying:

"Brother is in there. He tried to pull me through the window, too."

Rushing to the home the father found the boy had placed his scooter against the wall, forced open a window and crawled into the dining room. His body lay near the table to which he had crawled from the window sill.

MOTHER NEAR COLLAPSE

Investigation disclosed that the boy and Betty, playing in the Hickey yard, had ridden away on the scooter and finally wandered home.

The child's mother was reported near a nervous collapse today.

The fumigation, the coroner's office reported, was being done by the Exterminating Service Company, 2537 Fifth avenue, with M. L. Anshell as the operator in charge.

Coroner W. J. McGregor went to the house today for a preliminary investigation, taking two deputies and Maurice Marcus, an official of the exterminator company, with him.

CORONER URGES GUARD

The Coroner while there voiced a recommendation that all municipalities in the county adopt an ordinance similar to the one passed by City Council requiring a guard to be kept on patrol during the fumigation period. He said to Marcus:

"You were granted your license under the city ordinance?"

"Yes."

"You have done work in the city?"

"Yes."

"Then why didn't you have a guard posted here?"

"I had four signs warning people not to go in."

"Yes, but a 7-year-old child doesn't stop to read signs."

Missing Boy's Body Sought in Kiski River

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., April 21.—Police and firemen were dragging the swollen Kiski river today seeking the body of Jimmy Lemmon, 5, of North Vandergrift.

When the child did not appear for dinner last night, his mother questioned playmates, who told her he had fallen into the river.

Mae Murray to Pay Tax Expert's Claim

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—(AP.)—On the representation that arrangements were under way to pay a judgment of $725, the Superior Court yesterday gave Mae Murray, film actress, until May 2 to settle a claim filed against her by Marjorie Berger, income tax expert. Miss Berger sued the actress, claiming the money as a fee for aid in preparing an income tax statement.

overcome, business cannot revive."

Prof. Fisher concludes:

"This dollar of ours for generations has gone uphill and down dale. To stabilize it at last would be the greatest achievement in economic history."

FINANCIAL QUACKS who think the country's problems can be solved by "socking the rich" would do well to hasten their process, for there will soon be no "rich" left to tax.

Charles M. Schwab, through whose hands tens of millions have traveled, says the rich man is vanishing from America.

"I have been a very rich man, and I have always thought that the question of money in my lifetime would never come up."

But it has come up, and it bothers him and he adds:

"There are no rich in America today. I don't know where they stand."

RICHARD T. CRANE, Jr., who died on November 7, believing that he was leaving about $20,000,000 to his family and to friends and employes, would be surprised to learn that his twenty millions have shrunk to $5,000,000. Inheritance taxes based on values at the time of his death will take more than $3,000,000, leaving little for his wife and children who are "residuary legatees" after paying other bequests.

A foolish man will say that it is a good thing to have a twenty-million-dollar estate shrink to two or three millions, but he is mistaken. Conditions that made an employer's twenty millions shrink to two millions, make thirty dollars a week shrink to nothing, through the lack of a job.

THE JAPANESE, following Russia's example, are rushing troops to the Manchurian border, ostensibly "to fight bandits." A war may come there, and some will say:

"That will help our business."

It will help the business of some nations, but not ours.

Uncle Sam sells only for gold. Russia and Japan haven't any gold, and will buy from England, off the gold basis, and glad to take Japanese silver yen, or Chinese silver taels in payment. Gold is precious and beautiful, but nations that haven't got it can't buy from us.

CAPITOL ADMITS STIMSON DEBT MISSION

Congress Apprehension Over European Trip Grows; Oppose Longer Moratorium

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Although Secretary of State Stimson went to Europe "primarily" to discuss disarmament, he is also going to talk over the twin controversies of war debts and reparations with the heads of foreign governments.

This was admitted officially for the first time today, and the admission served to deepen the apprehension that Congress feels over the outcome of Stimson's possible negotiations at Geneva.

The revelation that Stimson is going to discuss matters other than disarmament came today from Under Secretary of State William R. Castle.

That an extension of the Hoover one-year moratorium will be discussed is taken as a foregone conclusion—notwithstanding the warning of congressional leaders of both parties that they will not give their consent to it. The present temper of Congress plainly is to compel Europe to resume payments next December or compel Europe to default.

Stimson in Geneva Conference on Debts

GENEVA, April 21.—(INS.)—War debts and reparations vied with disarmament today for the limelight in a series of conferences between leading statesmen of Europe and America which loomed suddenly from the maze highly important.

The Chateau de Xessinges, where Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson is staying, was the principal meeting place while the homes of Lord Londonderry, British diplomat, and Sir Eric Drummond, British secretary-general of the League of Nations, also were conference scenes.

Premier Andre Tardieu of France, arrived after a hasty decision to leave Paris last night with Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain. Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, of Germany, also was here. Stimson, Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and Sir John Simon, British foreign minister, supplemented the group of leading statesmen.

The day began with a conference at the Stimson chateau between Stimson, Tardieu and MacDonald.

Later they all took seats at the Geneva Disarmament Commission session.

Wheeling Physician Dies in Auto Crash

WHEELING, W. Va., April 21.—Dr. O. J. Massy, 32, of Coshocton, O., interne in the Wheeling Hospital, was killed, and Dr. Joseph Markley, Miss Mary Ryan and Ruth Cole, of Wellsburg, W. Va., severely injured, when Massy's automobile plunged over an embankment after being sideswiped by another automobile. The two physicians were taking the girls to their home following a theater party.

Roosevelt Home, Satisfied With Trip

ALBANY, N. Y., April 21.—(INS.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was back at the executive mansion today confident his "invasion" of the Northwest has materially advanced his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Governor returned last night "smiling and happy" as he expressed it, after being away from the Capitol for four days.

Johnstown Council Orders Police Guard

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 21.—(AP.)—A police guard, to maintain order at City Council meetings, is to be resumed.

At odds with Mayor Eddie McCloskey and convinced the guard is necessary, Council adopted a resolution providing that the officers be stationed in City Hall at each session. McCloskey voted for the resolution.

Princess Betty, 6, 'Really Grown Up'

THE DUCHESS OF YORK AND PRINCESS BETTY . . . SIX TODAY

Hostess to British Royalty at Party; May Be Queen

LONDON, Arpil 21.—(AP.)—The King and Queen and other members of the British royal family were guests today of Princess Betty, perhaps destined some day to be another Queen Elizabeth, who celebrated her sixth birthday and insists she is "grown up now."

To prove to her grandfather, the King; to her Uncle Edward, Prince of Wales, and to her grandmother and other uncles and aunts that she is really grown up, she invited them all to a tea party.

She remarked recently to a visitor at the home of her father, the Duke of York, in Picadilly:

"Of course, I'm really grown up already."

She indicated that her birthday demonstration was only the formal recognition of an already accomplished fact.

Invitations also went to her sister, Baby Margaret Rose, and to her two royal cousins, Lord Lascelles and Master Gerald Lascelles, the sons of Mary, princess royal.

Only one grievance mars Princess Betty's happy life at "six-going-on-seven." It is that her parents won't permit her to operate the elevator which takes her to the day nursery in the rear of the Picadilly mansion. She is permitted to operate her own radio set, play the phonograph and otherwise has the run of the house, but her father and mother so far have been adamant on the running of the elevator.

Her birthday gifts included a number of picture books with simple reading exercises, a rocking horse and a bicycle.

Ask Mail Addresses Of Persons Moving

Families and individuals contemplating moving this spring have been requested to give their new addresses to postoffice authorities to prevent congestion of mail, which frequently goes astray when people neglect to inform the postal officials of their moving.

K. O. Blumentritt, acting postmaster, in the absence of Postmaster James B. Anderson, said blanks for this purpose can be obtained from letter carriers. It was also requested that newspaper and magazine subscribers notify the publishers of changes in addresses.

PATROL HOLDS PISTOL SHOOT

Troop B, state highway patrol, for the last two years champions in the annual state pistol shooting tournaments, held its first quarterly shoot Tuesday and yesterday.

The 42 members of the second district of the troop practiced the regulation range with 38 caliber revolvers on rapid, timed and slow firing. The distances were 50 yards all slow fire, 15 yards slow, rapid fire and 25 yards slow, timed fire.

The men holding the highest scores will team up with the best shots of the first district of the troop, located in Franklin, and will represent Troop B in the matches in Harrisburg in September.

Lieut. A. J. Oldham is in charge of the second district, and Lieut. E. J. Henry in charge of the first. Capt. D. E. Miller is in command.

Mother Drowns 3, Suicide Prevented

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Etta Butts, 39, wife of Carl Butts, who lives southwest of here, early today drowned three of her four children in a cistern and then attempted to take her own life. The dead are Betty Jane, 4, Ross, 7, and Mae, 9.

Mrs. Butts was found by her husband and her son, Jack, 19, in the cistern and was rescued. Her condition was said to be serious. Authorities said she apparently was mentally deranged.

Planes Supplant Andean Railroad

VALPARAISO, Chile, April 21.—(INS.)—American Panagra airplanes today were operating in an emergency service between Argentina and Chile following the closing of the famous trans-Andean Railway.

The Chilean government ordered the planes to fill the breach in transcontitnental service. The rail line was closed, directors of the mostly British-owned company said, after a sharp drop in traffic attributed to the tariff war between Argentine and Chile.

MOSLEM WEDS ENGLISH GIRL WITH GUARD

Secret Ceremony Succeeds After Indian's Son Balks Marriage Before Altar

BOMBAY, April 21.—(AP.)—Shaukart Ali, 60, one of the most important Mohammedan leaders in India, married a young attractive Englishwoman in the presence of an armed guard today after the Moslem's son had stopped one ceremony by threatening to cut off a priest's beard.

Shaukart Ali persuaded a Mohammedan priest to perform his marriage to Mrs. Elizabeth Ryan, 25-year-old divorced wife of an Irish army officer. The ceremony was carried out in the strictest secrecy, only the closest friends being present.

The armed guard was present because it was feared some Moslems, particularly the Shaukart's son, might try to harm or kidnap the bride.

The huge Moslem, who weighs 300 pounds, handed his English bride, who accepted the Mohammedan faith, a dowry of $1,225, and she immediately went in purdan (seclusion).

Earlier in the day the marriage had been stopped at the last minute under dramatic circumstances when the son, Zahid Ahmed, threatened the marriage priest.

Dapper Bandits Rob Exclusive N. Y. Club

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP.)—Three men garbed in evening clothes held up the exclusive Brook Club on East Fifty-fourth street last night and escaped with $1,500 taken from the cash drawer and the safe.

While the holdup was in progress William Walter Phelps, socially prominent member, walked in the door and was relieved of $200.

Weather Conditions.

The western low pressure developed into a single center over Colorado, while the eastern high pressure diminished in pressure to the extent that it is having little influence over the weather. The lowest barometer reported is 29.72 inches at Denver. The weather is cloudy over much the greater portion of the country. Showers and thunderstorms are in progress in Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri and Iowa. Temperature changes were mostly slight but generally towards rising, except west of the Colorado line, where there was a marked drop in temperature. There were no frost and freezing temperatures reported except over Eastern Canada and in the Rocky Mountain states.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 1.7 feet; Lock No. 2 (Mon.) 12.3; Pittsburgh 12.5; Dam No. 4, 9.7; Dam No. 6, 9.5; Dam No. 10, 11.8; Dam No. 12, 11.8. The dams are up.

MAYOR TESTING WELFARE DIET

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 21.—(AP.)—Mayor Rolland B. Marvin, Mrs. Marvin and their two children, Kathryn, 8, and Charles, 6, had a "welfare relief breakfast" today. The Mayor is testing the sufficiency of a recommended diet for those receiving city aid.

The morning meal consisted of whole wheat toast, coffee, orange juice and butter substitute, all of these things being on the diet suggested by Dr. George C. Ruhland, health commissioner.

Marvin's announcement that he would not recommend for others use of a diet he himself would not follow, attracted wide attention. He said he would continue it rigidly for one week. For his luncheon he has a bill of fare from which to select soup meat or salt pork, and tomatoes or cabbage or sauerkraut.

The city's executive indicated that the diet test had not gone far enough for him to say whether it had proved adequate.

Cardinal Piffl Dies Of Stroke in Vienna

VIENNA, April 21.—(AP.)—Cardinal Friedrich Gustav Piffl, Archbishop of Vienna, died early today after an apoplectic stroke. He was 67 years old.

Cardinal Piffl was one of the foremost ecclesiastical dignitaries of Austria and an ardent promoter of church music, in which he was particularly interested. He was born at Landskron on October 15, 1864, the son of a stationer and bookseller.

Honeymoon Thief Gets Life in Jail

MIAMI, Fla., April 21.—(AP.)—Edward Patrick, 25, had been sentenced today to life imprisonment on conviction of robbing a filling station to pay the expenses of his honeymoon.

Patrick was returned here from St. Augustine several weeks ago, and identified by police as a filling station robber. Later he was identified as the man sought by a 21-year-old Miami woman, who said he deserted her the day after their marriage.

DOUBLE KILLING SEEN AS LOVE REVENGE

Murders of Comely Woman, Married Man Bring Hunt For Missing Ring of Wife

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Interplay of fiery loves and fierce hatreds leading to a passionate lust for revenge were accepted today by police as motives for the double murder of comely Roce J. Welk, 29, and her married companion, Edward Brinker, Jr., 35.

Brinker, salesman for an electric light firm, and Miss Welk, secretary in a gas company office, who were friends, were found in a deserted field two miles north of Mineola. Brinker was dead, Miss Welk dying, and both had been savagely bludgeoned.

RING HELD CLUE

A gold ring encasing a small diamond and engraved "I L Y," the letters standing for "I love you," missing from the finger of the dead man, who wore it as a gift from his second wife, provided Nassau County investigators with a possible clue to the reason for the brutal killings.

Early today, Mrs. Josephina Nadal Tillotson Brinker, 28, a woman of Spanish blood, who was the murdered man's second wife, was put through a gruesome ordeal by police after she and numerous relatives of both murder victims were grilled for several hours.

TAKEN TO MORGUE

She was taken to the morgue to view the battered body of her husband, and then led to the deserted spot in Garden City Park, L. I., which was the scene of the crime some time about dawn yesterday.

When Brs. Brinker was brought back to District Attorney Edwards' office, she appeared disheveled, hatless and under a strain greater than that she showed while being incessantly questioned for several hours yesterday.

VICTIM HINTED DEATH

Brinker's first wife, Mrs. Ruth Carnes Brinker, 35, mother of the slain man's 10-year-old daughter, was released after being questioned for six hours. She said:

"I want to see Eddie's murderers caught. But, for the sake of our little girl, I want to keep out of it."

The first Mrs. Brinker said she summoned Brinker to court last year because he was $520 in arrears in payment for the support of the child. At that time, she asserted, Brinker told her:

"You won't have to think of me much longer."

Then he said that a girl friend fired a couple of shots at him a short time previously, according to Mrs. Brinker.

Estate of Depew Shrinks $2,000,000

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP.)—A shrinkage of more than $2,000,000 in the estate of the late Chauncey M. Depew, Jr., since his death 15 months ago, was disclosed in an accounting filed in Surrogate's Court.

As a result, Yale University loses more than $700,000, and the bequests to four cousins decline more than $350,000 each.

Vet Held in Auto Death Denies Guilt

Fred Roehler, 40, World War veteran, of 1710 Lowrie street, was to be turned over to the Coroner by county detectives today pending an inquest into the death of Mrs. Lillian Cox, 44, of Cherry Lane, Ross Township, fatally injured Monday night when struck by an automobile in Mt. Troy road.

Roehler denies driving the car.

Downtown Crowds See Awning Blaze

Shoppers at noon saw firemen extinguish a blazing awning in front of Reymer's cigar store, Sixth avenue and Smithfield street. A match or cigaret butt, dropped from an upper floor, is believed to have caused the fire. Damage was estimated at $50.

High School Boy Confesses Robbery

Frank Rasky, 17, of 157 Flowers avenue, a Gladstone High School pupil, today pleaded guilty in Morals Court to robbing the office of the pastor of the First Hungarian Reformed Church, 217 Johnston avenue, Hazelwood.

He was held pending disposition of his case.

BUSINESS GAIN INDICATED BY PRODUCTION

Federal Reserve Index Offers Favorable Signs; P.R.R. Loan Approval Seen

International News Service

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Despite the gloom complex that has settled over the country there was some sun breaking through the clouds today.

Through April so far the Federal Reserve production index has been holding up, a development not observed in many months.

Official figures for the week ending April 20 were expected to show a more rapid return flow of money from circulation, indicating a substantial drop in hoarding. The circulation drop has been greater than seasonal. Last month postal savings increased by a less rapid rate. Most of the increase in these deposits in the last year had been in "scare money" that is, placed by persons fearing for the security of local banks.

U. S. SECURITIES GAIN

The government securities market was improving substantially, a favorable development in view of the large volume of financing to be done before June 30.

Belief was expressed that the Interstate Commerce Commission would soon approve a $55,000,00 loan to the Pennsylvania Railroad and that the advance would be made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. That would mean beginning of a large electrification program between Washington and New York and employment for many.

The Federal Reserve banks continued their securities buying program during the past week, holdings of government securities now being well over a billion dollars or close to $500,000,000 greater than a year ago. This is boosting the member bank balances and undoubtedly will force them to seek investment outlets which will result in a credit liberalization.

PREVIOUS UPTURNS CITED

Officials were hopeful that the combined effect of the return of money from circulation and the additional cash placed on the market by the reserve banks through government security purchases would have a beneficial effect. It was pointed out that on the three previous occasions when the reserve banks launched buying programs there had been a resultant upturn in business activity.

The program was described as "controlled inflation."

The last time such a policy was adopted was in 1927, when the Reserve banks through open market operations increased their security holdings. This prefaced the period of maximum prosperity which eventually got top-heavy due to the speculative orgy and ended in the stock market crash. In 1922 and in 1923-1924 similar open market policies were adopted, with a corresponding increase in business.

Because of the low state of business and industry, no danger is seen that the present program will result in undue inflation or expansion.

FLINN PRAISED BY BARR

County Commissioner C. M. Barr lauded the ability and character of Ralph E. Flinn, candidate for Auditor General, at a meeting last night of First Ward Independent Republicans in Forbes School. Anthony Kennedy and Mrs. K. E. Newingham presided.

Congressman P. J. Sullivan declared he had no quarrel with any other candidates for Congress in his district and that his only quarrel was with State Senator James J. Coyne, whom he designated as "the self-appointed county chairman after Mansfield handed the office to Coleman and Coleman handed it over to Coyne."

Other Independent meetings were held last night in Peabody High School, McCleary School, Glendale School, Manchester School, Uhlam-Horne Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Buckingham Hall, Columbus School and Bohemian Hall.

Stork Visits Actress In Race to Hospital

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—(AP.)—Elmer Clifton, motion picture director, and his wife, formerly Helen Kiely, of the New York stage, started hurriedly from their beach home for a Los Angeles hospital yesterday.

On the way they picked up an unofficial police motorcycle escort which preceded their car with howling sirens. But high speed over cleared streets was not sufficient, and half way to Los Angeles at the Hawthorne Hospital, an eight-pound boy was born.

$40,000 Estate Left By Glenfield Man

"SMILING DAN" GREETING AN OLD FRIEND AT HIS OLD POST

Policeman Shifted For Year Due to Illness Returns

Smiling Dan McGreevey, known to thousands of motorists as Pittsburgh's smiling cop, is back today directing traffic at Point Bridge and grinning at his host of friends.

Dan's glad to get back to his old stamping ground, he said between grins and good-natured greetings such as "You old war horse" and "Hi there Dan."

For seven years his smile was a daily treat for the hundreds of drivers who passed over the Point. Then a year ago he was taken sick. He explained:

"To much carbon monoxide, I guess."

During the past year Dan has been assigned to a radio scout car in East Liberty, but he was true to his "first love" and asked to be transferred to his old job.

VOTE OFFICIALS DISMISSED

Two alleged bartenders, recently appointed members of the election board of the First Precinct of the Eleventh Ward, were removed by Judge William H. McNaugher, after a hearing on an ouster petition from citizens.

They were Robert H. Killen, judge, and J. E. Borland, majority inspector, named to the board February 19.

The petitioners charged Killen had been convicted and fined $400 in Federal Court on a liquor charge, and when appointed was a bartender at the Owls Club, 6306 Broad street. Boreland was charged with having sold liquor prior to 1930 at 6247 Broad street. When appointed it was charged he was selling it at the Owls Club.

Three persons appointed to fill vacancies on other election boards were Viola Sams, majority inspector, Thirteenth District, Fifth Ward; Lafayette F. Davis, judge, Fifth District, Fifth Ward, and Thomas Buyak, Jr., majority inspector, Second District, First Ward, McKees Rocks.

GOVERNORSHIP PLOTS CHARGED

W. E. Woerthele, candidate for State Senator in the Forty-third District against James J. Coyne, seeking another term, charged in a speech last night that Coyne is in a conspiracy with Republican State Chairman Edward Martin and William S. Vare of Philadelphia to capture the governorship of Pennsylvania in 1934.

The speaker declared Vare's plan underneath his present thrust to control the political machinery of the state is to elect Senator James J. Davis for a full term, then have Davis run for Governor in 1934 and, if successful, have Davis resign from the Senate and fill that vacancy by appointing James M. Beck, of Philadelphia.

Martin and Coyne, Woerthele said, acquiesced in that understanding in the conference at which candidates in the present campaign were slated, but their subsequent actions were based on secret individual plans to pave the way for their own campaigns to win the Governor's office in 1934.

Woerthele declared that while Coyne was a partner to the Vare-Martin scheme he was secretly grooming Andrew T. Park, District Attorney of Allegheny County, to be the next Governor.

PLAN TO REVIVE TRADE GIVEN BY WITHEROW

Commerce Body Executive Reveals Investment Trust Proposal at White House

A program to co-ordinate unemployment and business relief in the United States through the instrumentality of a $2,000,000,000 investment trust has been proposed to the federal administration by W. P. Witherow, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, it became known today.

The plan was presented at a visit Tuesday to the White House by Witherow and F. F. Brooks, president of the First National Bank of Pittsburgh.

The plan sees two distinct forces working to the detriment of economic recovery. These are the disastrous shrinkage in the values of securities and widespread unemployment.

SECURITY PRICES LOW

It declares securities are now underpriced to a point representing only 10 to 25 per cent of their value. The public, it states, is not willing to advance money to relief campaigns because its securities have shrunk to such a low point.

If investors borrow to make contributions they prejudice their personal stability. If they sell, they are in effect contributing many times the value their cash gift represents. In every case they feel that their gift represents only a temporary palliative, according to the statement of the plan.

The plan proposes the incorporation of a prosperity-relief corporation. Its operations would be financed by the sale to the public of $2,000,000,000 of 10-year 4 per cent debentures. Equal amounts of Class A and B stock also would be issued which would not represent the investment of any cash. These stocks would share alike in the equities of the corporation. The A stock would be used to set up an endowment fund to care for relief. The B stock would be given to the purchasers of the debentures and would receive no dividends during the present emergency.

HIGH RETURNS

The $2,000,000,000 received from the organization of the corporation would be used to purchase securities which at present prices would return from 8 to 20 per cent to the investor.

Assuming an average return of 10 per cent on the money invested, the buyers of the debentures would receive a fixed return of 4 per cent. The remaining 6 per cent on the $2,000,000,000 investment would amount to about $120,000,000 a year. During the period of the emergency, say two years, all this would be allocated to relief institutions in local districts in proportion to the subscriptions of these districts.

RELIEF ENDOWMENT

The B stock would get no dividends during this period but, at the end of the emergency it would be entitled to half the profits. The half accruing to the A stock at the end of the emergency could be used for endowment of relief agencies.

Provision would be made to liquidate the corporation over a period of years and after retirement of the debentures, the remaining equity, which should be created by the recovery of security prices, would be distributed between the two classes of stock, forming a permanent large endowment for future relief emergencies and giving the investors in the plan a profit in addition to their return from interest and dividends.

Pilot's Skill Saves 8 Plane Passengers

SODA SPRINGS, Cal., April 21.—(AP.)—Safe on the ground, eight passengers of a trimotored transcontinental airplane which lost a battle with a Sierra blizzard today praised the skill of the pilot who brought them down uninjured.

The pilot, Harry Huking, landed the plane in the middle of the Yuba River. A heavy snowstorm had caught the air liner above Granite Peaks and cut off the chance of returning to a landing field.

WALES LIKES COFFEE

Drinks 14 Cups on Journey to Plantation in Brazil

By The United Press

CORONEL PROCOPIO, Parana, Brazil—Brazilian coffee made a hit with the Prince of Wales on his recent trip into the Brazilian interior.

He drank 14 small cups of coffee on the journey between Sao Paulo and Cambara, where he visited the giant coffee plantation of Colonel Antonio Barbosa.

From a Pittsburgh Newspaper, May 28, 1931

WHY did the Prince of Wales drink 14 cups of coffee—

—evidently because it was MIGHTY GOOD!

Colonel Antonio Barbosa and His Five Sons

Who Entertained the Prince of Wales

On May 28th, 1931, the above news item appeared in a Pittsburgh newspaper. The name of Colonel Antonio Barbosa was instantly familiar to us, because we knew him to be the owner of the Companhia Agricola Barbosa Fazendas, the very finest coffee plantations in all Brazil—plantations that produce coffee fit for a King; coffee enjoyed by a Prince of the Royal Blood; coffee that delights the People of Pittsburgh—the users of My-Te-Good Coffee.

Through the co-operation of our coffee buyer in Brazil we are pleased to publish the above photograph of Colonel Antonio Barbosa and his five sons. Our coffee buyer regularly visits these great coffee plantations and has been friendly with Colonel Barbosa for 28 years. These many years he has frequently enjoyed the gracious hospitality of the Colonel, a gentleman of the old school, a distinguished descendant of a famous old Portuguese family. His coffee plantations, or fazendas, are recognized as "The Model Fazendas of Brazil."

Coffee Goodness Starts With The Tree!

Our coffee buyer writes of Colonel Barbosa's properties and of the coffee he buys for us: "The trees are all young and vigorous, planted in virgin soil—rich and fertile—and the quality of the crop is outstanding."

Small wonder that the Prince of Wales liked this coffee—and drank 14 cups. He KNOWS when coffee is mighty good!

TIN PLATE TAX SUIT ENDED

Testimony was concluded yesterday in Federal Court in the suit brought against the government by the McKeesport Tin Plate Company, seeking to recover approximately $850,000 in taxes and interest on its 1918 income tax. Judge R. M. Gibson reserved decision and directed that counsel file briefs.

Government witnesses testified in opposition to allowances sought by the company for amortization of plant additions built to carry on war work. During the World War a large boiler plant needed in war production was erected.

In the prosecution of the claims the tin plate company was represented by Attorneys S. Leo Ruslander, Samuel Kaufman and William J. Levy, of Pittsburgh, and Garry Freedman, of New York, associate counsel. Representing the government were Attorneys John A. McCann, of Pittsburgh, and Rudolph Hertzog, of Washington, special assistants to general counsel, Bureau of Internal Revenue.

A NATION APPLAUDS!

SKILLED WORKMEN'S EXHIBITION • GIMBELS

IT WAS one man's idea—this great exhibition humbly dedicated to the interests of skilled labor. But an idea so powerful, so sound in sentiment, so dramatic in execution that it has fired the imagination of a nation!

"WAKE UP, AMERICA! MEN MUST WORK!"

Wires and letters from every part of the country are coming in answer to the challenge. Thousands have already seen this storewide demonstration. Have you? Don't miss the thrilling sight of Pittsburgh at work tomorrow and Saturday!

"I am writing to extend to you my personal and official endorsement of the 'Pittsburgh Skilled Workmen's Exhibit' which has been arranged and is being presented by Gimbel Brothers during the week of April 18th. Those responsible for the presentation of this Exhibit are rendering a distinct public service. It is a tribute to skilled labor which, I am sure, will be appreciated by all classes of working men and women."

WILLIAM GREEN, President
American Federation of Labor

●

"Best wishes for a successful exhibit dedicated to the skilled labor of the Pittsburgh area. I doubt if any other community in the United States is the dwelling place of so many dexterous workers. At this particular time widespread encouragement and support should be given in bringing to the attention of the public the fruits of their labor."

JAMES J. DAVIS,
U. S. Senator from Pennsylvania

●

"Our cordial congratulations to Gimbels! Your fine exhibition refreshes our knowledge of our great industries, and quickens our civic pride. It is a distinct pleasure for the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, as the community's leading civic organization, to endorse such a splendid exhibition."

THOMAS A. DUNN, President
The Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh

●

"There is no reason why all of the people of Pittsburgh should not come out and support the exhibition to the fullest in favor of the working man and see what skilled labor can produce."

P. J. McGRATH, Secretary
Pittsburgh Central Labor Union

HUGE REVENUES MARK HEARST ENTERPRISE

Consolidated Publications Report Shows Net Far Over Dividend Requirements

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.—The condensed income statement of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., audited by Haskins & Sells, nationally known firm of public accountants, shows net income of $7,487,875 for the 12 months ended December 31, 1931, or equal to $3.74 a share on the entire authorized issue of 2,000,000 Class A 7 per cent cumulative participating preferred shares to be presently outstanding and against annual dividend requirements of $1.75 per share.

The financial report covering the 1931 operations of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., which is being made public today, gives an impressive picture of the tremendous magnitude of that corporation.

HUGE GROSS REVENUE

For example, gross revenues for 1931 totaled $73,089,406, while operating expenses amounted to $60,518,026. Out of the total operating expenses 36 per cent, or $21,662,629, was distributed in salary and wages to the vast army of 10,974 employes in Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., and its subsidiary companies, the balance being expended in the purchase of newsprint paper, telegraph and news service tolls, transportation, etc., which in turn gives employment to thousands of additional workers.

Gross income, including $1,679,532 income from sources aside from newspaper operations, totaled $14,250,913 before federal income tax, depreciation, bond interest, amortization and other income charges.

During the past two years of drastic business depression Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., net earnings have averaged $4.01½ a share on the 2,000,000 shares of Class A 7 per cent preferred.

PROFITABLE PROPERTIES

In order to insure the utmost protection of principal and safety of dividends for the investor, William Randolph Hearst, in formulating the huge $120,000,000 Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., placed 12 of his most profitable and valuable publishing enterprises in that corporation.

This list of properties includes the New York Journal, with the largest evening circulation in the United States; the Chicago American, with the largest evening circulation in the Middle West; the Los Angeles Herald-Express, with the largest evening circulation in the West; the American Weekly, with the greatest circulation of any publication in the world; San Francisco Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, San Francisco Call-Bulletin, Oakland Post-Enquirer and the American Newsprint Company.

The circulation of this group is in excess of 3,500,000 on Sunday and 2,475,000 daily. The stability of this circulation is indicated by the fact that it has been steadily maintained during the current business reaction.

BALANCED EARNING POWER

These properties, through nationwide diversification in the great metropolitan areas of the United States and which afford tremendous circulation advantages and advertising patronage, provide a well-balanced earning power that has proved by past performance the ability to earn dividends during periods of abnormal business conditions.

The condensed consolidated statement of income and surplus of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., and subsidiary companies for the year ended December 31, 1931, follows:

OPERATION OF NEWSPAPERS

Hotel Blaze Checked During Rush Hour

A blaze in the flue of the kitchen of the Fort Pitt Coffee Shop in Fort Pitt Hotel was extinguished by firemen from No. 18 Engine Company during the evening rush hour yesterday. Grease in the flue ignited and the flames were spreading rapidly to the top of the steel chute when firemen checked them. Firemen said the blaze created no excitement in the hotel. The damage was estimated at $250.

The Pittsburgh String Symphonic Ensemble gave the last concert of its season in Carnegie Lecture Hall last night. Oscar Del Bianco arranged a diversified program with Handel as keystone. Grieg and Schubert contributed lighter music. Debussy represented the moderns, and two original compositions of the conductor were worthy novelties.

Mr. Lissfelt

As frequently the case, the best music was the most difficult to perform and showed the ensemble at its best. In the Handel Concerto the tone was mellower, there was a suave finish to phrases, and the results were always agreeable.

Schubert's "Bee" is a rival for the overdone Rimsky-Korsakoff rival these days and equally as delightful a miniature. Del Bianco's new waltz is full of Italian melody with many fine spots. It is a little drawn out and the finish is weak. His Fugue has classic character.

Gertrude Krebs, harpist, played obligato to both Debussy dances with nice rhythmic effects. Solo numbers for this lady would have been very much in order, for the harpist is a better soloist than a singer with this ensemble. A spot of Spanish color was apropos in the Serrao Serenade.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

CHINESE FLEE FROM REDS

AMOY, China, April 21.—(AP)—The evacuation of this treaty port was begun by the government forces today in anticipation of its capture any hour by the Communists under Gen. Sun Liang-Chen, who has routed the government troops in city after city along his march.

The British cruiser Devonshire was standing by to protect British inhabitants, among whom are a number of women and children.

Many Chinese fled to the countryside fearing looting and bloodshed although the city was still comparatively quiet.

OBITUARY

Dr. Thomas H. Martin.

Funeral services for Dr. Thomas H. Martin, optometrist, who died suddenly in his home, 936 Milton street, Tuesday, will be held this afternoon in Wilkinsburg Reformed Presbyterian Church. Dr. Martin, who was 63, spent his life in Pittsburgh, having been born on the North Side. He was an elder in his church and a former president of the American Optometric Association, the Pennsylvania Optometric Association and the Pittsburgh Optometric Society. He leaves his widow; three children, Dr. Grace K. Martin, Dr. T. Reed Martin and Dr. J. Allen Martin, all of Pittsburgh, and two brothers, Dr. D. B. W. Martin, of Pittsburgh, and R. S. Martin, of Uniontown.

Mrs. Mary E. Born.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow for Mrs. Mary E. Born, wife of John E. Born, who died Tuesday at her home, 9800 Frankstown road. Besides her husband, she leaves three children, George E., Mrs. Charles O. Church and Mrs. Warren R. Sullivan. She was a member of Sacred Heart Church.

Mrs. Emma Schmidt.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Schmidt, 80, daughter of the late Col. George Gerst, of North Side, who died at 712 Copeland avenue, East End, Tuesday, will be held in the chapel of Smithfield Cemetery this afternoon. She was a member of the Smithfield Evangelical Church and of the Ladies' Aid Society. She leaves two sons, George E., of Allison Park, and William, of Millvale; a sister, six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Hastie Funeral.

Funeral services for Helen Holliday Hastie, 53, retired Pittsburgh school teacher, who died Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Grazier, Warrior's Mark, Huntingdon County, will be held at 8 p. m. today in the H. Samson funeral home, 537 Neville street. She was educated in the Highland Hall School for Girls and the Kindergarten College in Pittsburgh. For many years she taught in kindergartens here. She was a member of the First Unitarian Church.

Annie E. Capper.

Funeral services for Annie E. Capper, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. H. Holmes, 209 Richland lane, East End, Wednesday, will be held there tomorrow afternoon. She was born in Sheffield, England, and had lived the greater part of her life in Pittsburgh. She was a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg. Besides Mrs. Holmes, she leaves another sister, Mrs. J. M. Shaw, also of Pittsburgh.

PULLMAN FARE REDUCED

Charge for occupancy of the new type Pullman bedroom by a single person will be reduced April 24, to one and one-tenth fares, it was announced today by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Heretofore the railroad charge was one and one-quarter fares. Bedroom cars are carried on the new 18-hour Broadway Limited between New York and Chicago, the Red Arrow to Detroit, the Liberty Limited, Washington and Chicago, the American to St. Louis, the Clevelander and the Pittsburgner.

Extra fares will also be abolished on that date, affecting all trains except the Broadway.

STATE CONTROL ISSUE, SAYS M'GOVERN

Commissioner Lauds Butler, Flinn and Stadtfeld, Assailing Vare Machine

Chairman C. C. McGovern, of the Board of County Commissioners, delivered a speech last night in the interest of the candidacies of Gen. Smedley Butler, for United States Senator; Ralph E. Flinn, for Auditor General, and Justice Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, running for a full term.

McGovern said nothing for the slate of legislative candidates set up by his colleague, County Commissioner C. M. Barr. He declared:

"The battle is for control of the political machinery of Pennsylvania. Two years ago the Vare machine of Philadelphia, which has been exerting its power out in the state, was rounded up and corralled in the city of Philadelphia.

"With its tremendous appetite for spoils, and confined to an area limited by Philadelphia's boundary line, it has exhausted that city to the extent of ruin and bankruptcy."

McGovern said of the Independent candidates:

"Gen. Butler possesses those attributes that a Senator representing this great state should possess. He has courage and convictions. He can initiate remedial government.

"I have known Ralph Flinn for years. He comes of a family that naturally turns to an interest in public affairs. He has helped me in battling against the entrenched gang in Allegheny County for years, but always insisted on remaining in the background.

"Throughout the state Justice Stadtfeld has warned the people that it never will do for the politicians to establish back doors to their courts. That warning speaks for itself."

Rally to Support Woman Candidate

A rally will be held at 8:15 tonight in Eastern Star Temple, South Highland avenue, in the interest of the candidacy of Mrs. Gertrude Boyle for member of the Republican state committee in the Forty-third Senatorial District. Former Congressman James M. Magee will preside. Scheduled speakers include Councilman P. J. McArdle, Deputy Attorney General Edward O. Spotts, Jr., and John J. Coll.

McFarland Urges Dry Law Repeal

James C. McFarland, justice of the peace of Gibsonia, has announced the platform on which he is running for the Legislature from the Thirteenth District. He said:

"I favor immediate repeal of the state enforcement act for prohibition. It has proven unsatisfactory and is partially responsible for the present deplorable conditions prevailing in our country."

REGULARS LIST 5 MEETINGS

William H. Coleman, Allegheny County campaign chairman of the Regular Republican organization, has scheduled five meetings tonight in the interest of the candidacies of Senator James J. Davis, seeking a full term; State Senator Frank F. [illegible] running for Auditor General; Charles A. Waters, for State Treasurer; Justices Joseph Stadtfeld and Robert S. Gawthrop and Arthur H. James for the Superior Court bench and candidates for the General Assembly in the respective districts.

Ward Chairman J. Scott Morgan will preside at a [illegible] Homewood Carnegie [illegible] Thirteenth Ward; Chairman Leo Kirch at one in Roosevelt School, Fifteenth Ward; Chairman [illegible] McBride at one in Italian Hall, Thirty-first Ward, and Chairman P. J. Riley at one in Turner Hall, Seventeenth Ward. The [illegible] meeting will be held in [illegible] School, Versailles Township.

Delegations of women from each of the city's 32 wards attended a meeting yesterday in William Penn Hotel headquarters. Mrs. Laura [illegible], county vice chairman, presided. Justice Gawthrop was greeted by the women at an informal reception.

Speakers included County Campaign Chairman Coleman, State Senator James J. Coyne, Safety Director James M. Clark and Armin Friedman.

SUPPORT ASKED FOR M'DONALD

Support for G. Malcolm McDonald for chairman of the Democratic County Committee was urged by Attorney E. Lowry Humes at a meeting yesterday in his office in the Plaza Building. Humes said:

"The two-party system of government has broken down in Allegheny County. Existing conditions in Pittsburgh and the county are directly attributable to this fact.

"G. Malcolm McDonald recognizes the necessity of re-establishing the two-party system of government if Democratic success is to be attained in the county, and if honest, efficient administration is to be secured to the people of the city and county."

J. A. Rectenwald Denies Quitting Race

Joseph A. Rectenwald, who filed as a candidate for the Legislature from the Twelfth District, has issued a statement denying he had withdrawn from the contest. He said:

"I wish to deny, emphatically, rumors falsely placed in circulation with malicious intent that I have withdrawn from the contest. I am in this fight to stay and in justice to my friends who have sponsored me I desire to state that I will render them the service and representation they expect in Harrisburg."

26 Years on one job

"... and a good job it was this dentist did ... to protect your teeth against pyorrhea"

Your own dentist will tell you about pyorrhea. It is one of his grave problems. It comes eventually to four out of five people. It actually is the cause of half the adult teeth which are lost.

Nobody today believes that simple polishing is all that is needed to keep healthy teeth. There is much more to it than that. When teeth "come out" there is a deeper cause than mere cleanliness or non-cleanliness. As often as not this deeper cause is pyorrhea.

Dr. R. J. Forhan specialized in this disease which starts in the gums and works downward to the tooth sockets. He spent twenty six years in his chosen work and produced the toothpaste which bears his name—"Forhan's." Brush your teeth and massage your gums with Forhan's. Trust Forhan's to keep your teeth white and glistening. Even for this purpose there is no finer toothpaste made. But that is only one duty of Forhan's—and Forhan's is a double-duty toothpaste. Its other duty is to protect your gums.

Dentists all over the country are using the professional formula of Dr. Forhan in treating pyorrhea and Forhan's Toothpaste preserves the same scientific principle for preventive hygiene at home. Forhan's is a pleasant-tasting, agreeable toothpaste for general family use. It is pure and mild—liked by the children. But remember "it's more than a toothpaste." It comes in a big brown tube and owing to its individual character, it lasts surprisingly long.

Don't let them count you out!

Better still—why not bring out the hidden beauty in your skin

"I am so happy my skin is now clear"

"It was all simple too ... after I had the good sense to reason it out—now I am overjoyed because I not only have a clear skin, but my system is strengthened ... and I again mingle with my friends and associates with confidence.

Medical authorities say that skin conditions commonly manifest themselves when the system is in a weakened and "run down" condition ... that the skin must have a ratio of body balance ... must have resistance from within.

If you are troubled with pimples, boils or a similar skin disorder or require a tonic you should by all means try S.S.S.—besides its general tonic properties, it regenerates hemoglobin and restores red-cells in the blood.

S.S.S. helpfulness is illustrated by this fact—our records show that nearly one half of those who have taken it, for the first time, do so upon the recommendation of some friend who has been benefited. Can there be any stronger recommendation for its merit and usefulness than this?

Try it yourself. Get S.S.S. from any drug store. In two sizes: regular and double—the latter is more economical and is sufficient for a two weeks treatment. S.S.S. may be the means of bringing better health and happiness to you.

S.S.S. builds sturdy health

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

([illegible])

Broadway Relaxation!

Oh, sing a song to me, my sweet,
To drown the Broadway lyre.
Please croon a tender melody
To quench the Canyon fire.

I'd like to hear a ballade, dear,
That cools my Mazda brain.
A song that's soothing as the wind
Through leaves and Summer rain.

Select your own song—sing it low.
Don't shout or let it scorch!
A simple theme—well, say, perhaps,
A blue song with a tinge of torch.

M-M-Mammy!

And [illegible] about stage mothers, the treatment they receive at the hands of their offspring is a sweet bouquet for that Hard Street called Broadway. Twenty-three-year-old Milton Berle took his first two weeks' salary as master of ceremonies at the Palace and bought his mother a sable. The third week's income went for a diamond bracelet. It may be longer [illegible] it may [illegible] that Broadway is [illegible] Main street.

Broadway . . . where a yes-man is a fellow who got tired of standing in the breadline.

Add Depression Item:

That Winchell-[illegible] person says that [illegible] a rising platform [illegible] brings an orchestra up [illegible]. Right now a lot of maestros wish they could do the same thing with [illegible].

Broadway . . . where you can trust your best friend—just as far as he can trust you.

Exposing the Exposer.

The frequent accusation that Broadway hob-nobs with society is only partially just. It doesn't take a [illegible] observer to tell you that the shoe is more often on the other foot. Every Broadway opening is dominated by the Silks and Satins of the Blue Book. Every [illegible] pent-house host invades Broadway for entertainment for his guests. Every Broadway stage-door is attended nightly by the Rolls-Royces of Wall street. Since when did the pot-fronted playboys fail to chase the Ziegfeld-Carroll-White lovelies? I have seen more Park avenuers on the Gland Canyon than on the other side of the Great Social Divide.

Broadway . . . where the Unpardonable Sin is explaining to a woman what she doesn't understand.

All Gall Isn't Divided!

A new height of something or other was touched when Frank and Milt Britton were playing the Palace. On closing night Milt was called to the phone by a fellow who said he was "Red" Dunn, of Wayne and Dunn. The clown had never heard of them, but listened.

"Say, Milt, you remember me. We played together back in the old days. I'm uptown now and I'm on a party, and we just ran out of cash. We need a couple more bottles, so rush us up a 10-spot like a good guy, will you?"

Milt protested meekly that the name was strange to him.

"But if you want some money why don't you come around to the stage door and ask for it."

The dunce flared irritably.

"But I told you I was uptown!"

Broadway . . . where the shadows do the walking and the failures follow them flat on the ground.

Kicking the Gong!

That narcotic-dispensing grocery is operating again. The proprietor receives his dream stock on Monday and Thursday of each week and it is interesting to note that his window displays are also changed on these days. In the most prominent spot of the window is a receptacle filled with beans which vary according to the day's merchandise. Thus, when his regular patrons see a lima bean display they know that marajuana cigarets have come in. Ordinary navy beans denote a fresh shipment of morphine, and butter beans indicate that hashish is on sale. The line forms on the right!

([illegible] Mirror, Inc.)

The Dancer!

Greta Garbo portrays Eugenie Leontovich's ballet dancer in the screen version of "Grand Hotel," which opens two-a-day performances in the Aldine Monday.

Marion Davies, Gable In Sheridan Square

Marion Davies starring picture, "Polly of the Circus," opened a three-day engagement in the Sheridan Square yesterday. Miss Davies has the role of a trapeze artist who falls in love with a bishop. Clarke Gable portrays the bishop. The picture has thrills, action and romance.

Niece of McIntyre Sued for Divorce

CLEVELAND, O., April 21—(AP)—Broadway became the co-respondent in a divorce suit here.

The "Gay White Way" was named yesterday by Carl L. Shotter, electrical engineer, as the lure which caused his wife to desert him. His wife, Mrs. Laura Josephine Shotter, is the niece of O. O. McIntyre, newspaper columnist.

Friars' Frolic Will Show Hear May 21

May 21 is the date assigned to Pittsburgh for the appearance of the twenty-eighth annual Frolic of the Friars, noted organization of actors, the premiere of which will be held in the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, Sunday night, May 8. The plans for the tour have been changed and only one-night engagements will be played on the road regardless of the population of the city. This will be only the third time the Friars have toured, 10 cities having been on the route of the first one and only one, Miami, Fla., on the second. The Alvin will be the scene of the Pittsburgh engagement.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

DURING DINNER the other night the genial Mr. Pat Kyne unfolded a story that will certainly be one of my favorite yarns from now on. It was probably a favorite story of my grandfathers', too, but that doesn't annoy me at all. Any tale that doesn't date back any farther than the fall of Rome has a definite chance of being brought to light in this space. All of which makes me slightly different from the other 79,652 Broadway columnists. I, at least, admit it.

It seems, my dear brethren, that in the good old state of Texas, a good natured colored gentleman was clapped upon the shoulder by the long arm of the law. He was accused of having entered a home that did not belong to him, and leaving via a side window with his pockets full of miscellaneous articles that he had picked up here and there.

He was wandering along the street when several policemen pounced upon him. They brought him to a police station and suggested that he tell them the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. The colored man protested his innocence, but the boys were inclined to disbelieve him. In due time, by employing the most delicate of methods, the police obtained their confession.

As soon as the prisoner recovered consciousness, however, he cried aloud that an injustice had been done. When his case was finally called, he entered a plea of "not guilty" and demanded that a lawyer be appointed to defend him. All this, mind you, in spite of that very damaging confession.

He drew his attorney to one side just before the trial opened.

"Boss," he said, "Ah knows dat you is heah to see justice is done. Ah'm never gonna be able to pay you any big money fo' you defendin' me, but Ah suttinly would 'preciate if yo would jus' help me out a little bit. Ah got a very rough deal, Mr. Lawyer Man. A very rough deal."

"I'll do the best I can," replied the lawyer. "But I tell you frankly that I don't think you have much of a chance. That confession you made seems to be pretty clear. I'm afraid the jury will consider that and nothing else."

The colored man nodded excitedly.

"Dat's jus' it, boss," he cried. "Dat's what ain't fair. Ah admits dey got a confession of mine—but Ah never did mean to give 'em dat confession. You know what dey done, boss? Dem detectives jus' natcherally beat it outa me.

"Yas, suh. Dey beat me somethin awful. If Ah didn't speak up when Ad did, A'd be daid by dis time. Dat confession ain't fair."

The attorney's eyes began to sparkle. Here was a chance for a little sensationalism. There wouldn't be any dough in this case, but there might be some publicity. He struck an attitude and almost knocked it out.

"So!" he ejaculated. "They beat you, did they? They punched and kicked you into confessing a crime that you never committed. Sit right down and tell me all about it. We'll fix them, my man. When I put you on the stand there'll be a sorry lot of detectives in the courtroom.

"Beat you into a confession, eh? We'll see about this."

Some time later, with a jury assembled and the case in progress, the attorney placed his client on the stand. He strode up and down, and then wheeled dramatically.

"Bill Washington," he cried dramatically, "I know that you are an innocent man. You have heard your confession read to this court. You have listened to every damaging word. You have heard them say many damaging things about you.

"But now it is your turn. This is your opportunity for which you have been waiting. This is your chance for retaliation. I want you to tell the jury exactly how that confession was obtained."

The colored man shifted uneasily.

"Well, boss," he began, "when Ah was fust arrested Ah was brought to lo police station by three detectives. Dey brought me into a dark room and den brung out a long board wit' nails in it. Den dey begun to beat me wit' dat board."

His lawyer pounded his fists.

"So!" he howled excitedly as he kept one eye on the court reporter. "They beat you in order to make you give them this false confession. And this is supposed to be a civilized nation! Ha!

"Go on, Bill. Tell the jury the rest of your brutal story. Show them what can actually happen to an innocent man when framing detectives get in their harsh work. Go ahead, my poor man. What happened then?"

The colored man sighed deeply.

"Boss," he continued sadly, "what else was Ah to do? After they hit me two or three times wit' 'dat stick, Ah jus' couldn't stand it no moah. So Ah jus' broke down an' told dem de whole truth!" . . .

"YOUR STORY about the hospital visit," writes Hugh Wedlock, Jr., "reminds me of an incident that happened to me a short time ago. I learned by that experience that, no matter how distasteful a hospital visit may be, you must really turn up in person if you wish to know the condition of a friend.

"A pal of mine once found a job (and I'm not kidding either) in a hospital. It was as an elevator operator, but the pay was fairly decent even though the hours were a little long. My friend liked it, however, and that was all that mattered.

"I wanted to invite him to a party one night so I phoned him at the hospital. I gave the operator his name, and she told me to wait a minute. I waited—and when the minute was up, the girl was back on the phone.

"'Mr. G—— is resting well,' was her amazing statement. 'There is no change in his condition!'"

Beauty, Boss In Enright

"Beauty and the Boss," a comedy drama, opened yesterday in the Enright. It is trivial stuff.

The story concerns one of those plain and efficient secretaries, who finally steps out as a very beautiful woman, much to the amazement of her employer.

Marian Marsh is the heroine And Warren Williams is the boss. He's a Baron Something-Or-Other, an international banker who is busier than the proverbial one-armed paperhanger.

Charles Butterworth, the dumb and quiet one, gets in some laughs. Also in the cast are Mary Doran, Lilian Bond, Polly Walker, Frederick Kerr, Robert Greig, Yola D'Avril and Barbara Leonard.

Pittsburgh Amateurs Will Present 16 Dramas

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Another Amateur Players' Contest, the eighth under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Drama League, will divide attention with the baseball scores next week. In fact, the latest idea in connection with the contest is that every spectator can keep his own score. He'll get a card on which he can rate the players as if he were one of the judges—interpretation, 40 per cent; acting, 40 per cent; choice of play, 20 per cent; staging, 10 per cent. If he does not agree with the critics, so much the worse for them! If he agrees with their decisions, he'll be as proud as a critic.

Mr. Seibel

The growth of the little theater movement throughout the country has gone on apace with the decline of "the road." It has become too expensive to send companies throughout the country—due to railroad rates, scene-shifters' union rules and many other things—so communities everywhere have organized their own theater. People who could not see actors from Broadway have become actors themselves. In clubs and churches dramatic sections have been formed, colleges and universities go in for three-act plays; "all the world's a stage, and all the men and women merely players."

For a number of years the Pittsburgh Drama League has been putting on its annual contest in which amateur organizations can present one-act plays, competing for prizes of monetary value and artistic distinction. This year more organizations have been entered than ever before, and 16 plays are to be presented on four evenings, beginning Tuesday, April 26.

WHAT THEY WILL PLAY

On the opening night the Sketch Club, of Swissvale, will play "The Dreamy Kid," by Eugene O'Neill; the Eldra Players put on "Dust of the Road," by Kenneth Goodman; the Bellefield Mimes present "The Camberley Triangle," by A. A. Milne; the Dramatic Club of the Downtown Y. M. C. A. comes with "The Drugs of Oude," by Austin Strong.

Wednesday night Grove City High School will play "The Brink of Silence," by E. Galbraith, Fairmont State Teachers College puts on "Spring Fret," by Richard Parris; the Woman's Club of Freedom presents "Land Ho!" by Esther Lamb Hill; the Thespians of Schenley High School come with "The Knave of Hearts," by L. Saunders.

Thursday evening Grove City College will play "Dregs," by Frances P. Spencer; the Women's Club of Mt. Lebanon put on "When the Whirlwind Blows," by E. Dane; the Studio Players, of Bradford Woods, present "The Night I Died," by Beatrice Lewis; the Dracomtra Players have "Confession," by Kenyon Nicholson.

Friday night the Jamestown Players, of Jamestown, N. Y., will play "She Who Will Not When She May," the Gargoyle Club, of Shady Side Academy, puts on "The Waning Moon," by L. V. Armstrong; the Emerson Club, of Sacred Heart Church, presents "The End of the Dance," by H. Strode, and the Junior Woman's Club, of Crafton, will close with "What Never Dies," by Percival Wilde.

ON A MODEL STAGE

The contest takes place at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Theater, 1835 Center avenue. This theater has one of the best-equipped stages in the city of Pittsburgh, with an electric switchboard that makes possible all the lighting effects of the big houses. In former years, when the contest took place in the basement of the East Liberty Carnegie Library, lack of space and the poor stage not only delayed the performances, but limited scenic possibilities. At the I. K. S. Playhouse even a Belasco would find everything he needs.

As judges of the contest the leading dramatic critics of the city have been secured, along with some men and women interested in the little theater movement. During past years some very fine presentations have been put on, with many splendid individual performances. This year they will probably be better than ever.

As the general public has admission to these four evenings of one-act plays, at very moderate prices, the theater should be filled.

The actors give their services for the love of art, the Pittsburgh Drama League assumes the management for the love of art, and there is no reason why the Eighth Amateur Players' Contest, beginning next Tuesday and closing Friday, should not be a huge success artistically and financially.

Last week the contest sponsored by the Negro Drama League of Pittsburgh revealed exceptional talent of many players. It looks as if the little theater movement was the real hope of the drama in America.

To My

CONSTITUENTS

IN THE belief that I have faithfully and efficiently served the people of the Forty-third district in the Pennsylvania Senate, I again submit my candidacy on the Republican ticket to my constituents.

In all Pennsylvania there is not another district like the Forty-third. Densely populated, with homes of millionaires in close proximity to the humble houses of the poor, its citizenship is of the most cosmopolitan character.

Within its boundaries are famed universities, a great Medical Center, the Mellon Institute of Research and many of the mills and furnaces that gave to Pittsburgh the title of "Workshop of the World."

Any man might well be proud to represent such a district in the Senate of Pennsylvania. During my eight years in that body I have kept in mind at all times the responsibilities of this important office. It is no easy task to legislate intelligently, fairly and for the best interests of a community wherein are to be found such extremes in economic interests and racial temperaments as are present in the Forty-third district.

However, my record at Harrisburg is an open book. My every vote is accessible to any of my constituents. Because of the active interest I have always manifested in city, state and county politics, the spotlight of publicity has been turned on my public record perhaps more than on that of others occupying similar positions in public life.

But in spite of this added interest in my record, my critics—and what man in public life does not have his critics—cannot point to a single occasion when my influence or vote at Harrisburg were not used for the benefit of the people of my district.

To my home and office in Oakland daily come men and women from all walks of life. Whether they be heads of enterprises seeking information concerning departmental matters at Harrisburg or destitute laborers needing help to get some sick member of the family proper medical attention or hospitalization—they have all been given freely of my time and effort.

On the statute books of Pennsylvania today are many laws for the well-being and assistance of the working classes that were enacted during my two terms in the State Senate and my single term in the Assembly. Mothers' pensions, legislation sponsored by labor unions, by the medical organizations to prevent the exploitation of the sick by charlatans—all such laws are in some measure attributable to my support and vote.

During the last regular session of the legislature I introduced and was instrumental in having enacted into law, a bill doing away with the occupation tax and making it possible for any citizen to become eligible to vote upon the payment of a fifty cent poll tax.

Another measure sponsored by me will result in the State of Pennsylvania spending some $300,000 for labor and materials for street maintenance and construction in the city of Pittsburgh this year.

What I have accomplished for my constituents was made possible only because of my recognition of the necessity of political co-operation such as is afforded through the medium of the Republican organization. So called Independents have no trouble making the front pages of our newspapers. But that kind of activity is seldom sufficient to achieve results in the Senate at Harrisburg.

On these grounds do I ask my constituents in the Forty-third district, composed of the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Seventh, Eighth, Tenth and Fifteenth wards of the City of Pittsburgh to again name me as their representative in the State Senate.

If nominated next Tuesday and elected in November, I can promise no more than that I will continue to serve my constituents in the future as I have in the past.

KIN OF VICTIM AIDING KILLER

HARRISBURG, April 21.—(INS)—The District Attorney's office has joined with counsel for James Priest, Philadelphia, once sentenced to be electrocuted for the murder of his wife, in urging the State Board of Pardons to release him from the penitentiary.

Priest shot and killed his wife 12 years ago after she had deserted him and had been living with another man.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Priest, parents of the dead woman, were present at a hearing yesterday and are paying the expenses of the appeal for clemency. Both families have the same name and are distantly related.

James F. Tracey, assistant district attorney, told the board that Priest had suffered enough and that he is not of the criminal class. Tracey also said that Priest should not have been convicted of murder in the first degree.

FRANK & SEDER BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Commemorating Opening 14 Years Ago

BEGINS WITH COURTESY DAY TOMORROW

Here's a Noonday scene in front of the present Frank & Seder store, which was opened 14 years ago. Wait till our Birthday Celebration gets under way tomorrow and you'll see SOME CROWD around this buiding!

Another Great Economy Demonstration Featuring NEW LOW Prices for QUALITY GOODS

FOURTEEN YEARS AGO! It seems only yesterday when in 1918 Mayor E. V. Babcock dedicated the new FRANK & SEDER store to the people of Pittsburgh . . . He said that the public in turn must have appreciated dealing with this store, otherwise this big new building would not have been possible . . . The Mayor was right . . . Whatever we have, whatever we are; we owe to the people of Pittsburgh . . . And it is in appreciation of their generous and loyal support through good times and bad times that each year on the occasion of the anniversary of the opening of this new Frank & Seder store that we distribute newest seasonable merchandise at EXTRAORDINARY SAVINGS . . . It has always been the FRANK & SEDER policy to say THANK YOU! with BARGAINS rather than with flowers and useless souvenirs . . And just now every person wants his dollars to reach as far as possible in purchasing needed merchandise for personal use and for the home. So for weeks we have prepared and planned for this BIRTHDAY SALE . . Our buyers have assembled Wearing Apparel, Furniture, Rugs, Draperies, Domestics, etc, etc., from manufacturers at concessions that were sensational even in these times . . . And every dollar we saved belongs to the customer . . . in addition we have reduced our already very low normal profit so that we shall be in a position to offer these vast new purchases of style and quality Spring and Summer goods at the LOWEST PRICES IN THE MEMORY OF THE OLDEST PITTSBURGHER.

We Got It--and Then Some! By J. H. Cassel

DO YOU REMEMBER how the whole country cheered when we went "over the top" in our Liberty Loan in 1918.

BUDGET BUYING FOR MEN ENABLES THEM TO BUY ON PAYMENTS FOR HART SCHAFFNER & MARX CLOTHES

The whole world has readjusted itself economically. At one time many persons hesitated to purchase necessities on payments. But even governments these days are operating on the partial payment plan . . . Everybody is trying to distribute their dollars in as many directions as possible . . . So more than ever before the Frank & Seder Ten Payment Budget Buying Plan on Hart Schaffner & Marx Suits will be welcomed by men who want to be well dressed and at the same time do not want to make an immediate cash outlay. During our Birthday which begins tomorrow, Friday, the famous Hart, Schaffner & Marx Suits and Topcoats are offered at only Twenty-one Dollars! Garments of this quality last year sold as high as $40, so you see the way we have brought prices down to meet the existing living conditions. And we want Pittsburghers to know that Frank & Seder is the only store in the entire United States that offers Hart Schaffner & Marx clothing of such quality at so low a price as $21 . . . All you have to do to verify this is to ask some friend living in another city and then you will appreciate this offer. All that is required is a down payment of $10 and the remainder in equal weekly instalments.

How do these stock market prices look to you? The only trouble is that they appeared in May, 1918.

New York Stocks

OUT-OF-TOWN RESIDENTS ARE URGENTLY INVITED

It will pay our out-of-town customers to make a special trip to Pittsburgh to attend this Birthday Celebration, which begins tomorrow, Friday. Of course it is not a one-day event and if they are unable to come the opening day they will find these same offerings at the same prices featured for many days. Some items may be sold out or seriously depleted, in which case we will substitute items of equal value. On the basis which most of these Birthday offerings were purchased, FRANK & SEDER are able to sell them for less than the average merchant pays wholesale for them.

Every Item Advertised During This Birthday Event Personally Approved By Committee

Good values are not good enough to find a place in our Birthday celebration. They must be extraordinary. So to absolutely guarantee that the offerings of each department head will measure up to the high standard of value-giving required, a Store Committee personally examines a sample of every item and it must have the Committee's approval before it goes on sale as a Birthday feature . . . It must be quality right, style right and marked at far less than prevailing prices for merchandise of equal value . . . As a result of this rigid examination the public is assured that every item featured during this event is the BEST VALUE IN PITTSBURGH.

Here Are Nifty Dressers of 1918:
Look queer? Well, that's what time does. But the styles of today will look just as queer to the men and women of 1950.

This is Home Furnishing Time

Supply Your Needs at Birthday Savings

Whether you remain in your present home or intend to move this Birthday event offers every housewife an opportunity to buy Furniture, Beds, Bedding, Kitchen Necessities, Rugs, Carpets, Linoleum, Draperies, Awnings, Household Linens, Blankets, Spreads, etc., at savings that are absolutely amazing. Never in the history of our Home Furnishing Department has merchandise of such quality ever been sold at such low prices . . . In case you are not prepared to have your purchases sent to you immediately Frank & Seder will hold them for you without charge until wanted . . . And of course you may avail yourself of the liberal terms of credit which will enable you to furnish or refurnish your home without making it a financial burden. Among the extraordinary offerings for Friday and Saturday are: Complete Living Room, Dining Room or Bedroom Suites at $94 each—a five-piece Oak Dinette Suite at $15.95—full 9x12 size Whittal Reproductions of Oriental Rugs at $59.50—$2.95 to $3.95 Damask Drapes at $1.49—81x90 Certified Three-Year Sheets at 69c—regular $4.95 Rayon Taffeta Bedspreads at $2.95—and regular 29c Cannon Towels at 19c each.

PITTSBURGH'S COAT HEADQUARTERS IS LARGEST IN ALL PITTSBURGH, FEATURING GREATEST VALUES

If there is one thing Frank & Seder has always been noted for it is wearing apparel . . . and in season it's Coats that hold the right of way . . . When you see our gigantic Coat department for women, misses and juniors, which occupies over half of our huge Second Floor and extends a block from Fifth Avenue to Diamond Street, filled with thousands of every conceivable type and style of Spring Coat then you will realize why Frank & Seder is the Coat store of Pittsburgh. Women shop until they grow weary when they could come direct to this store and under one roof find assortments of coats so diversified that regardless of how discriminating their taste, they can easily make a selection. And the prices! Well, if you want to know how much less you will pay for a Coat at Frank & Seder come to our Birthday Sale and our prices will be a revelation to you . . . From the day this store first opened its doors until the present hour the name of Frank & Seder has always been associated with best values . . . and now, when saving means more to the customer than ever before, Frank & Seder is more than ever the store for economical families who want style and quality plus economy. The Birthday Sale features actual $16.50 to $20 Coats at $13.75—regular $25 to $29.75 Coats at $18.75 and regular $39.75 to $49.75 Coats a $29.75. Three groups, each one amazing in quality and selection. And, of course, sizes for every woman, miss and junior.

BARR CREATES JOBS, COYNE CHARGES

Senator Asserts His Critic Favors Friends; Invites Comparison of Records

State Senator James J. Coyne, running to succeed himself, addressed a meeting last night in Liberty School of the Seventh Ward Regular Republican organization and invited a comparison of his record with that of County Commissioner C. M. Barr, who has been making Coyne a campaign issue in soliciting support for the Independents. Coyne declared:

"Commissioner Barr promised to reduce your taxes. He hasn't done it. Instead he has made a lot of positions for his friends at $8,000 a year each.

"With the exception of the position held by Ray Sprigle, director of the Department of Property and Supplies, there is not one of the places worth $2,000 a year. I know a garage superintendent who gets $50 a week and who takes in more money in a year than the $8,000 a year airport superintendent will collect in 20 years and the airport superintendent has a $3,000 a year cashier."

Coyne and William H. Coleman, Allegheny County campaign chairman of the Regular Republicans, urged support for Senator James J. Davis for a full term, Charles A. Waters for State Treasurer, State Senator Frank E. Baldwin for Auditor General, Justices Joseph Stadtfeld and Gawthrop and Arthur H. James for the three places on the Superior Court bench and Harry A. Estep for Congress.

Safety Director James M. Clark solicited support for his candidacy for delegate to the Republican national convention. Other speakers included Estep, Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk, Leonard Kane, candidate for the Legislature, and Mercantile Appraiser Murray Locklin, who presided.

Young Men's Club To Hear Candidates

The Young Men's Republican Club, of the South Side, will hold a candidates meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in South High School.

Assembly Candidate Attacks Dry Law

Addressing meetings last night in Shaler, Ross and Indiana townships, James C. McFarland, candidate for the Legislature in the Thirteenth District, denounced prohibition and promised, if elected, to exert every effort to bring about the repeal of the state enforcement act. He denounced, also, present utility rates, and promised relief for the workingmen and farmers.

Fifth Ward Citizens' Club Backs Coyne

The Fifth Ward Citizens' Club has indorsed the candidacy of State Senator James J. Coyne, seeking re-election, and all candidates running with him on the Regular Republican ticket, according to a letter to Coyne from Hymen Landsman, secretary of the club.

Two Quit Race, Ask Help for Regulars

R. D. Negley, of Crafton, and Kirwin R. W. Ramsey, of Carnegie, have announced their retirement from the race for member of the Legislature in the Twelfth District, and have asked their friends to support the four candidates indorsed by the Regular Republican organization, Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, incumbent, James C. Westwood, Robert K. Boyer and John M. O'Rourke.

Ninth Ward Group Ready for Primary

The Ninth Ward Independent organization completed plans for the primary election at a meeting last night in ward headquarters, 4104 Butler street. A. F. Cavanaugh, ward chairman of the Independents, presided. Speakers included Edward Foster, candidate for the Legislature; Frank Jerosal and Frank Napierkowski.

Rollator Refrigeration leads all others combined ... in 1931 sales gain

SEE THE NORGE BEFORE YOU BUY

That's what thousands did. They saw the Norge. They bought! Thousands more are seeing the Norge. And the popular enthusiasm for Rollator Refrigeration continues to pile up new sales records.

If you wonder why, look at the Norge itself. Look at the cabinet designed for convenience and beauty—built to last a lifetime. Look at its many improvements. It's a fact that no other electric refrigerator offers you so many original features of utility and convenience.

Then learn about the Norge mechanism—the simple, sturdy, extra-powered, almost everlasting Rollator. It is Rollator Refrigeration that is causing the tremendous public preference for the Norge. Because only Norge offers the surplus cooling power of the Rollator.

● All Norge 1932 models offer new greater values at lower prices. See the Norge before you buy and compare with others you may have considered.

Norge Corporation is a division of Borg-Warner Corporation, one of the world's largest makers of precision parts, including automotive free wheeling.

THE ROLLATOR
A roller rolls and there's ice . . . that's all there is to the powerful, smooth operation of the Norge Rollator mechanism. It is simple, with only three moving parts . . . almost everlasting.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Society Happenings

In Maytair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

When two such popular young people as Betty Bovard and Frank R. Denton are to be married, of course entertainments galore will be given for them before their wedding day.

That day, to remind you, is Thursday, April 28, with the First Presbyterian Church of Greensburg to be the scene. Betty is the daughter of the [illegible] Bovards of Greensburg and Mr. Denton, who lives in the Schenley Apartments, is the son of the Albert H. Dentons of Washington.

The [illegible] of Greensburg will entertain them at a dinner Saturday evening at the Greensburg Polo Club.

Guest at Luncheon

Yesterday Mrs. John Robert Shaw gave a luncheon in the Greensburg Country Club for the bride-to-be, and Monday night at the Rolling Rock Club the [illegible] Barclays and the [illegible] will give a dinner.

Miss Margaret Coulter and her brother, William Coulter, will give the rehearsal dinner on April 27 in the Greensburg Country Club.

Recently the Alan Magee Scaifes entertained with a dinner. Mr. Scaife will be one of the ushers.

* * *

Many folks have already subscribed as patronesses to the Thurston Alumnae benefit bridge Friday in the Twentieth Century Club.

Among them are Suzanne Anderson, Miss Mary Burchfield, Mrs. James C. B[illegible], Mrs. Sidney Collins, Mrs. Roy Cooper, Mrs. John D. Evans, Miss Mabel Gillespie, Mrs. Harry Homer, Mrs. Roy Hutchinson, Mrs. B. W. Lewis, Mrs. Samuel McClements Jr. and Mrs. Charles Miller Jr.

Others are Miss Mary McCune, Gwendolyn Niemann, Mrs. R. A. Nuttall, Mrs. Robert M. Repp, Mrs. Robert M. Repp Jr.

Miss Billings, debutante of the past season, and Miss Black, two society young women who will talk over the radio on behalf of the Harris Family-Help-Family plan. Miss Billings: WCAE at 5:30 o'clock tomorrow. Miss Black: KDKA at 5:10 o'clock this afternoon.

Central Requests Gift or Loan Of Machines to Help Girls Perfect Their Work

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Central Branch, Young Women's Christian Association, is asking for a gift or loan of typewriters to meet the increased demand during practice periods in speed and general typing. Many of the girls now availing themselves of this opportunity are unemployed, while others are practicing in order to better equip themselves for their positions.

Open classes in dictation and typing are being given on Wednesday afternoons at 3 o'clock under the direction of Miss Virginia Elliott.

At the membership reception at Central Branch tomorrow evening Miss Barbara Barsh will give a costume recital of folk songs, accompanied by her sister, Miss Marie Barsh, and the Verse Speaking Choir from Pennsylvania College for Women will also have part in the program. Miss Dorothy Calhoun, a member of the health education staff at the "Y," will complete the entertainment with a group of folk dances and acquaintance tours of the building will round out the evening.

* * *

Holding Institute

Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, president of the Congress of Clubs, will be the principal speaker at a club institute to be held tomorrow afternoon in Dormont New Century Club.

* * *

Dr. Hay To Speak

Under auspices of the Pittsburgh Health Club, Dr. William Howard Hay, medical director of the Sun-Diet Sanatorium, East Aurora, will lecture this evening in the Second Presbyterian Church on "Nature's Way to Health" and tomorrow evening on "Deficiency Disease."

The new officers, headed by Mrs. J. E. Roth as president, were presented to the Wednesday Current Events Class yesterday at the annual luncheon which was held in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association Annex. The program consisted of a cartoon talk by Cy Hungerford, of the Post-Gazette. Seventy-five members and guests were present.

Need of Relief Stressed by Mrs. Baton

Mrs. George S. Baton, president of the Woman's City Club, today added her approval and support to the Family-Held-Family plan. Mrs. Baton said:

Mrs. Baton

"The immediate need of response to the call for family help would be deeply felt if we could only realize a situation so unusual in our United States. Children and old people are starving. Patient, self-sacrificing, able men and women through no fault of their own are unable to care for their families. Let us who can, rally to the support of this worthy work with our sympathy and gifts."

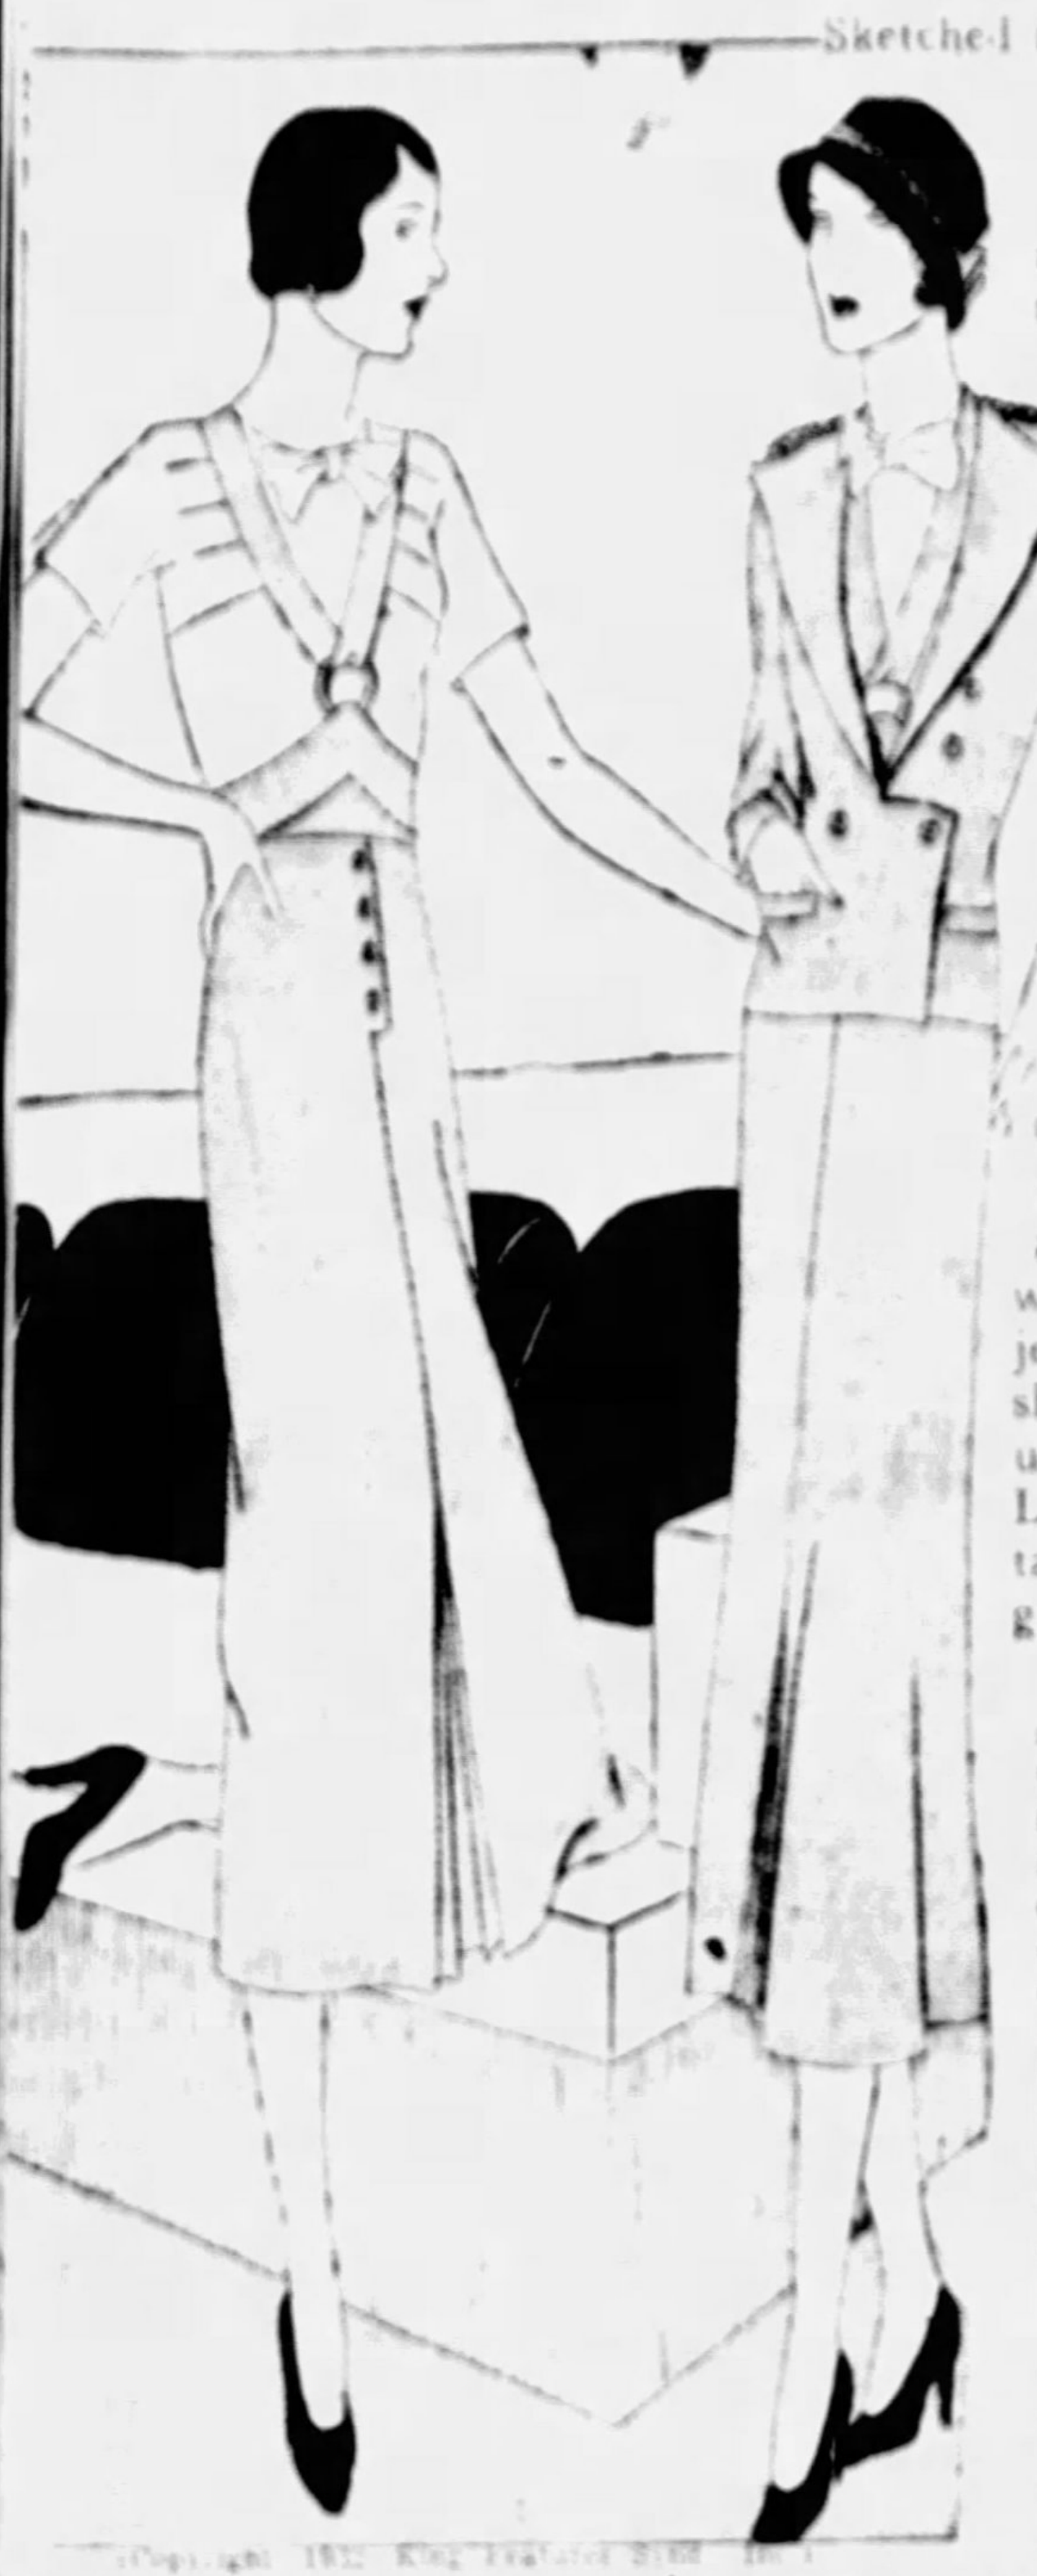
DESIGNER SHOWS LATEST VOGUE IN SPORTS SUITS

—Sketched in Paris—



(Copyright 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph

PARIS, April 21.—Lots of the newest skirts are strap-hangers this season. For the suspender skirt is noted for sports and general day wear in many of the latest designs. It is neat and youthful, and there is something amusing and attractive about it that seems to intrigue all women. It is, no doubt, a reminder of the fashions of school days, and of course, as such, makes its own special appeal. And indeed it should not be worn by women who are too far away from girlhood days. Even a casual glance will reveal the suitability of the suspender skirt for none but the youthful in years and figure.

* * *

THE NEW SPORTS suits are simply grand. The tailored note is uppermost, but it is cleverly tempered without allowing any inharmonious detail to intrude. Light weight woolen in various weaves and fine wool jersey are the favorite materials. Various shades of brown and yellow comprise the colors used, which also include red, blue and green. Lots of sports suits stress a touch of the military effect, a detail that blends very well with general aspect of the correct sports ensembles.

* * *

JANE REGNY is one of the best designers of sports wear here and her collections are always the last word with both private and professional buyers. The double sketch shows one of her very newest and nicest sports ensembles done in her own inimitable way. The material is a mustard-colored woolen of light weight and texture, for coat, skirt and suspenders. The blouse is of pale yellow silk jersey toning to mustard. It has a high neckline with a small bow. The skirt buttons at the center front at the top of a group of inverted pleats. This model is also offered with a divided skirt, the separation concealed at front and back.

* * *

THE GRAND LITTLE swagger jacket of mustard woolen has very official looking epaulettes of gilded metal chain. There is no collar, but compensation is offered in the form of flaring revers. The low, double-breasted closing is very new and smart.

CREDIT GROUPS NAME OFFICERS

HARRISBURG, April 21.—(INS)—John R. Truesdale, Pittsburgh, was elected president of the Association of Credit Bureaus of Pennsylvania at the closing session of the annual convention here yesterday.

Other officers elected were George N. Burckhalter, Butler, vice president; Miss Mary Froelich, York, treasurer, and W. J. Harris, Johnstown, secretary. Burckhalter was also elected delegate to the National Retail Credit Association convention in Washington in June and C. W. Hershey, Reading, retiring president, was elected alternate delegate.

Next year's convention site was not selected.

Student League To Visit Mines

The Student League of Western Pennsylvania will meet Sunday for a trip to the Western Pennsylvania coal regions to investigate living and working conditions. The group will finally converge at Avella where a United Mine Workers strike is in progress, it was said. The league is affiliated with the National Student League which recently sent a delegation to the Kentucky coal fields.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound known by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

PARKING LOTS HELD LIABLE

Operators of open air parking stations requiring motorists to leave their keys in automobiles are responsible for any damage to cars left in their care, the legal department of the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced today.

Responsibility cannot be dodged by display of signs or tickets disclaiming this responsibility, according to the club.

Basis for this announcement, the club says, is a recent Superior Court case in which it was ruled the parking station is the legal custodian.

STATE RELIEF FUNDS READY FOR NEEDY HERE

POLITICS
Country Eyes State Democrat Primary
—By MARK SHIELDS—

While principal attention in next week's primary centers on the Republicans, there are potentialities in the Democratic contest which may attain national significance. Politicians throughout the country will be watching to see how Democrats of Pennsylvania divide as between Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, and Al Smith, whose names will be on the primary ballot as candidates for the presidential nomination.

Mark Shields

In several districts all delegate candidates have agreed to abide by the primary choice when they cast their votes in Chicago. Significantly, however, these districts are almost all in Philadelphia, where the Smith people, on the basis of the 1928 vote, believe they have an excellent chance.

In Allegheny County and many other sections there is a direct conflict between those agreeing to abide by the preference of voters and those who ask election to the convention uninstructed. The latter are charged with being enlisted in a "stop Roosevelt" movement by Joseph F. Guffey and Warren Van Dyke, Pennsylvania Roosevelt leaders.

* * *

Smith's Prestige at Stake in Primary

Smith's prestige is at stake in this primary, together with the primary in Massachusetts, to be held the same day. If he gets a substantial vote in Pennsylvania, though not a majority, he will remain a factor in the convention. If joined to this he mops up in Massachusetts, as some predict, he will be right in the thick of things.

However, should he fail to get half the delegates in Massachusetts, and should Roosevelt get 66 of 76 here, as Guffey forecasts, the 1928 candidate would pass behind a cloud. Two such blows, together with those he has received in recent primaries, would prove more than he could withstand.

I do not believe that the day after election it will be possible to say how many delegates actually are for Roosevelt. There will be some, of course, so labeled. There will be some set aside for Smith, elected in districts where all have agreed to abide by the primary choice, and where Al should get a larger vote than Roosevelt. This is true in Philadelphia.

But there are other districts where no pledge has been given, in which the delegates will be claimed for Roosevelt by the Roosevelt boosters. These claims must be taken with a grain of salt until the delegates themselves speak, or have a chance to vote their choice at Chicago.

* * *

Party Control Bound Up in Delegate Fight

In this state party control is bound up in the delegate fight, a condition which applies to Allegheny County also. John R. Collins, Democratic state chairman, has issued a statement promising the state committee's full support of the convention choice. Collins is one of the delegate-at-large candidates who declined to agree to be bound by the primary preference, a position the opposite of that occupied by the Roosevelt delegate-at-large candidates. They are trying to defeat Collins for delegate.

If they do, or if Roosevelt gets the big portion of the delegates from this state, Collins probably will have little to say about what the state committee does. There will be another chairman, probably Van Dyke, or some one suitable to that gentleman and Guffey.

Moreover, if the Roosevelt delegates are successful in Allegheny County that will mean a continuance of David L. Lawrence as Democratic county chairman. His opponent, Malcolm McDonald, is lined up with the delegate candidates who oppose instructions, and the votes they get will go to McDonald, and vice versa.

This fight should interest Republicans as well as Democrats. It does interest the professionals in the Republican party, make no mistake about that. In the past the kindly association between Democratic leadership and Republican leadership has been notorious. That is what all the fighting is about now, the anti-Lawrence crowd charging that they would end this condition and give their party some individuality. Certainly it has lacked that quality for some years.

* * *

Laughs Weave Into Assessment Criticism

When Gov. Pinchot either ordered, or permitted his subordinates to order, salary assessments on state employes to raise a campaign fund for Independent public and party officers in the campaign, it is improbable he visioned what laughs would weave their way into the criticism this practice was sure to arouse.

He must have known there would be criticism over the adoption of a political practice he had always condemned in others, and which he frowned on in his own behalf until 1930. He realized the placing of such an assessment was an innovation in a primary, even in this state of hard-boiled and pay-as-you-enter politics.

But I doubt if he could foresee that the assessment in reality would fall on some organization politicians who have no state jobs. That is what has happened. State employes, unable to meet the assessment, have applied to organization leaders for the money. And I know at least two of the bigger organization leaders who have put up substantial sums to enable friends to pay the assessment for a campaign fund for political foes for fear their friends would lose their jobs.

It's a great game, this politics.

EASTERN G. O. P. MAY SUPPORT STADTFELD

Philadelphia Organization Ready to Drop Parker For Indorsing Butler

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—(AP.)—The two candidates for the Republican senatorial nomination renewed their exhortations to the voters today, but speculation over the local Republican organization's stand in the judicial contest took chief interest.

The organization listed Judge William M. Parker on its slate. Newspapers published reports, however, that the support would be withdrawn from him because of a speech indorsing Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler for the Senate against Senator James J. Davis, and that Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of Pittsburgh, would be backed instead.

Gen. Butler addressed new meetings today, advocating his proposal of a bond issue to pay the veterans' bonus and construct public works, and denouncing Philadelphia politicians.

Senator Davis, after visiting Chester and Montgomery Counties yesterday, left for a meeting in Scranton today. Davis denounced congressmen who "tell the people 'you have no right to vote on the important question of repealing or amending the prohibition laws.'" He said:

"I am convinced that if the futile prohibition laws are repealed or amended the Federal government will derive approximately $1,000,000 in revenue.

"This sum will more than match the sum now devoted to the work of the veterans' bureau. It is only fair that the people of the United States should be allowed to conserve this large sum to relieve our already sorely pressed national treasury and to guarantee proper treatment to the veterans who served their country."

COUPLE TO WED AT 'ARMY' MEET

A three-day conference of young people of the Salvation Army will open tomorrow afternoon with the marriage of two "Army" officers in the headquarters, 425 Boulevard of the Allies.

Staff members of the Western Pennsylvania division will be in attendance when Commissioner John McMillan, of New York, performs the ceremony for Capt. William Dearin, of Braddock, and Capt. S. Veta Croup, of Cincinnati.

Capt. Ruth Kinball, of Cincinnati, will be bridesmaid, and Capt. Croup's sister, Capt. L. Croup, will be maid-of-honor. Attendants of the bridegroom will be D. W. Isaacs and Capt. R. Irwin.

Saturday united young peoples' councils will be held in the auditorium. Among the speakers will be Lieut. Col. C. B. Campbell, divisional commander of the Pittsburgh district.

At noon more than 1,000 uniformed Salvation Army juniors, delegates from the 38 Western Pennsylvania corps, will parade through the downtown, headed by 10 junior bands.

ESTATE CLAIM SEEN IN TRUCK HIRE FIGHT

Armstrong Surcharge Hinted As Appeal from Report Of Woodside Is Filed

The estate of Joseph G. Armstrong, late chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, may be involved by the Citizens Committee's action in attacking payments by the county of large sums without contract for truck hire and other purposes, it was said today.

The committee yesterday filed an appeal from the 1931 report of County Controller R. G. Woodside, setting forth exceptions to accounts of the County Commissioners, Controller, Treasurer, Delinquent Tax Collector and Sheriff's office.

Should a surcharge be set up as a result of the appeal, a claim would lie against Armstrong's estate, attorneys asserted.

WOULD PROTECT RIGHTS

Attorney Earl F. Reed, counsel for the committee, said the step was taken to preserve the right to "surcharge any county official for improper disbursement."

Yesterday was the last day to take an appeal from the Controller's report as exceptions must be filed within 90 days after the report is presented to court.

The specific objection set forth in the appeal declares the report failed to include a claim of $200,000 against Watson Bowser & Brother, revealed in hearings in the county audit as having received that amount for trucking in connection with the City-County Airport, and demands "against sundry other persons, firms, limited partnerships and corporations for sums of money due."

SIGNERS OF PETITION

If no objections had been filed, no surcharge, it is claimed, could be made against any of the public officials set forth in the appeal.

Among the members of the Citizens Committee who signed their names to the appeal are Francis S. Guthrie, L. M. Johnston, William S. Dalzell, W. P. Witherow, William R. Scott, Harmar D. Denny, Jr., Joseph Dilworth, Grant Curry, Arthur Scully, William Frew, Thurston Wright, Edward O. Tabor, C. M. Harnies, Julian Kennedy and Frank A. Bond.

Delegation to Canal Hearing Planned

Plans for a delegation representing Pittsburgh interests at the hearing in Washington May 3 on the proposed $100,000,000 Lake Erie-Ohio River Canal were to be made at the offices of the Lake Erie-Ohio River Canal board today, according to A. W. Dunn, chairman.

He said additional data has been compiled to offset a report filed in 1926 by Col. S. W. Kutz, government engineer, who held the canal to be physically feasible, but "economically inadvisable."

Coach Line Seeks To Sell Equipment

Application has been made to the Public Service Commission by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, which would bring the maintenance of equipment under the charge of the Equitable company.

On account of the illness of Thomas Noonan, general manager of the Motor Coach Company, Commissioner S. Ray Shelby postponed the hearing. It is claimed amalgamation of the companies will reduce overhead costs.

COURT'S ACTION CLEARS WAY FOR PAYMENT

Cain Sends $241,703 Check To Kerr; Family Drive Helps 342 More Homes

Nearly $500,000 dollars in state funds was available for distribution to the needy today, the "50-50" division of the $483,460.78 between the city and county having met with the approval of the Common Pleas Court judges. A check for $241,730.39 was sent to City Controller James P. Kerr by County Treasurer Robert S. Cain, and a like sum was at the disposal of the county poor directors.

The money is to be distributed through the Allegheny County Emergency Association, as were the recent appropriations of $260,000 by the city and county. There is still sufficient money of the former appropriation to care for the city's needy for another week, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Welfare Department, was informed, and the county money will last somewhat longer.

RENT PAYMENTS BARRED

Although the provisions of the Talbot bill call for provision of food, clothing and shelter, no rents are to be paid out of the state funds. This was agreed upon by the control board of the emergency association as the number of needy families steadily mounted. A group of real estate men has announced willingness to donate houses for the use of families evicted for non-payment of rent. Already nearly a score of families have been housed in donated quarters.

Driving ahead against all obstacles and discouragements, volunteers in the Family-Help-Family campaign yesterday provided for 342 more families, bringing the total to 3,328, leaving 24,672 households to be cared for. The next report luncheon will be held tomorrow.

Attorney A. Leo Weil, Sr., speaking at the luncheon meeting yesterday, said, so long as a single family remained unprovided for, while others were fed and clothed, the community was guilty of social injustice.

WEST PENN CONTRIBUTION

It was announced that the West Penn Electric Company and the West Penn Power Company office employes, aside from executives, have subscribed 100 per cent. The 650 employes have provided for more than 70 families. The Woodwell Wheel and Brake Service Company, 4700 Liberty avenue, also reported 100 per cent, raising $100.

REALTORS FIGHT RELIEF BONDS

The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board will actively oppose at the primaries the proposed $5,000,000 in city bond issues for work and relief on the ground that such procedure might eventually bankrupt the city without offering more than temporary help.

The board's action was taken by its board of governors and announced by J. Roland Brady, executive secretary. Brady estimated owners of real estate in Pittsburgh are bearing $50,000,000 in the form of vacancies and delinquencies.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association today issued a statement urging voters of the city to approve the proposed $5,000,000 city bond issue to provide additional "defense" funds for unemployment relief. The association favors the bond issue, the statement said, in order that there may be assurance of availability of funds for relief work next fall.

Play Rehearsed By Emerson Club

Charles J. O'Donnell will play an important role in "The End of the Dance," a one-act tragedy to be presented by Emerson Club of Sacred Heart Church, in the annual contest of the Pittsburgh Drama League, at Irene Kaufmann Settlement tomorrow evening. It is under direction of the Rev. E. Lawrence O'Connell. Others in the cast are Miss Mary E. Clancy, Mrs. Madeline Skelly Foust and Mr. Karl Emerson Williams. Emerson Club won fourth prize in last year's contest.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 21.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Talk about economizing and cutting out all unnecessaries, what's the idea of holding the Chicago Republican convention? The papers have announced Mr. Hoover's campaign plan, the route, the towns, who he would shake hands with and what he would wear. And as for the platform, it will be the same one they have read for 40 years, but have never used. And the speeches will be the same ones delivered for 40 years but never listened to.

Yours, WILL.

OFFICERS MEET TOMORROW

Resolutions regarding the national government's military policies will be passed at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Department, Reserve Officers' Association of the United States, which opens in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow.

Similar recommendations will be made at the national convention, opening Monday at the close of the state convention.

Tomorrow will be devoted to registration and caucuses, followed by an informal reception in the evening for visiting officers and their wives and guests, according to Gen. Churchill B. Mehard, president of the Pittsburgh chapter, and honorary chairman of the convention. Maj. Carleton B. Shaffer is general chairman.

ILL MAN WISHES TO SAVE OTHERS

Offers Himself for Experiments in Radium 'Cures'

13 Operations, 200 Doctors Fail to Benefit Him

After submitting to 13 futile operations, drinking 910 bottles of radium-treated water, and baffling the diagnoses of more than 200 doctors, Kenneth W. Siard, 30, of 311 Lloyd avenue, Latrobe, Pa., brother-in-law of A. F. Downing, president of the Latrobe National Bank, offers himself to the medical profession for experiment.

Siard, a former water inspector for the Frick Coke Company, suffered an illness about seven years ago. Doctors said he was suffering from rheumatic fever. For nine months he was in the West Penn Hospital with a plaster of paris cast from his chest to his toes. Doctors at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, later referred him to the Philadelphia Presbyterian Hospital, where he was under the care of Dr. Ralph J. Pemberton, noted specialist, for 40 days.

Obtaining a pamphlet from a doctor friend four years ago, Siard sent for a case of the radium-treated water. The shipment contained 30 one-ounce bottles, costing $30. The maximum dose prescribed by the company which sold it was three bottles a day.

Saird used 910 bottles in less than two years. He discontinued using the water before the makers were ordered by the Federal Trade Commission to cease its representations of the value of the product, December 19, 1931. Later the company discontinued business. Siard, who lives with is brother-in-law, yesterday said:

"I quit buying the water about three years ago. I didn't feel I was being benefited. It was an expensive proposition. I enjoyed pretty good health up until seven or eight months ago. It is impossible to describe just how I feel. It is more like a discontented feeling. I feel pains in my head. I try going out, just to forget about it. I cannot sleep.

"The death of Eben M. Byers in New York recently, which was attributed to radium-treated water, does not worry me. I am hard to frighten.

"I had sound teeth, but two years ago they suddenly became black underneath the enamel. Fillings will not stay in.

"My knees are rigid. A prominent Latrobe doctor and an attorney died five weeks apart recently. They were also using the radium-treated water, but their deaths were not attributed to radium poisoning.

"If the Federal Trade Commission investigates I would like them to use me as an example. I feel that I can benefit the medical profession. It would make me happy to save other victims."

Siard, who has lost 65 pounds in weight since becoming ill, drives an automobile and attends card parties and sport events.

Police Seek Relatives Of Amnesia Victim

Pittsburgh police were unable to locate relatives of a man tentatively identified as Donald Caldwell, 25, who was found suffering from hunger and exposure in the Ellwood-Wampum road, near Ellwood City, yesterday, by Constable Raymond Taley. The man said he was looking for a pet dog which he lost. Taley said he found a police dog near him.

He had a newspaper clipping which described a man by that name as missing and a photograph of himself, with the name Donald Carson on the back of it. The city and telephone directories list neither name.

STATE RELIEF FUNDS READY

10 per cent of their receipts to the Family-Help-Family Fund.

Social agencies in the Sewickley district are massing to support the campaign, it was announced. A. C. Robinson, president of the Sewickley Valley Community Council, said residents of the district felt themselves responsible for approximately 160 families in need in the area, but also wished to aid homes in other districts.

He declared the district from Leetsdale to Haysville would seek approximately $165,000 and that the bulk of the money would go to the Family-Help-Family campaign, while the remainder would be used for local relief.

HARRIS MAKES APPEAL

After the luncheon meeting Senator Frank J. Harris sent a letter to all workers urging them to close up all pending work by noon tomorrow.

Between 10 and 15 acres of the fertile bottom land on the bank of the Allegheny River at Blawnox was to be plowed today by the Thrift Garden Committee for community gardens. There are nearly 40 acres in the tract, and more plowing will be done later. Inmates of the workhouse do the work.

Yesterday property along Lincoln avenue and in Whitaker Borough were plowed. Several thousand applications for garden plots have been received at the committee headquarters, 516 Grant street.

Women Workers Hold District Meetings

Women workers aiding in the Family-Help-Family plan of Senator Frank J. Harris are holding several district meetings prior to taking the field Monday. Members of the Seventh Ward division, meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank J. Boyle, announced they had undertaken to support several families by raising funds through giving parties and other social events.

Women of the Twentieth and Twenty-eighth wards will organize at a meeting tomorrow night in Langley High School. The speakers will be Roy A. MacGregor, a member of the executive committee; Mrs. Saul Lavine, city chairman, and Mrs. K. L. Joyce, district chairman.

TEETH WHITEN 3 Shades in 3 days

If you think yellow, stained, unsightly looking teeth are natural, start using Kolynos—a half-inch of this amazing dental cream on a dry brush twice daily. In 3 days you'll see your mistake. Your teeth will look 3 shades whiter!

Kolynos—unlike any preparation you've ever used—contains two important ingredients that clean and whiten teeth remarkably. One—the finest cleansing agent known—erases stain and tartar, foams into every tiny fissure and washes away decay-causing debris. While the other ingredient kills the millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles and helps to make teeth absolutely clean.

Thus Kolynos gently cleans teeth right down to the natural white enamel and soon makes them more attractive than ever. It refreshes the mouth and stimulates the gums. Buy a tube of Kolynos today.

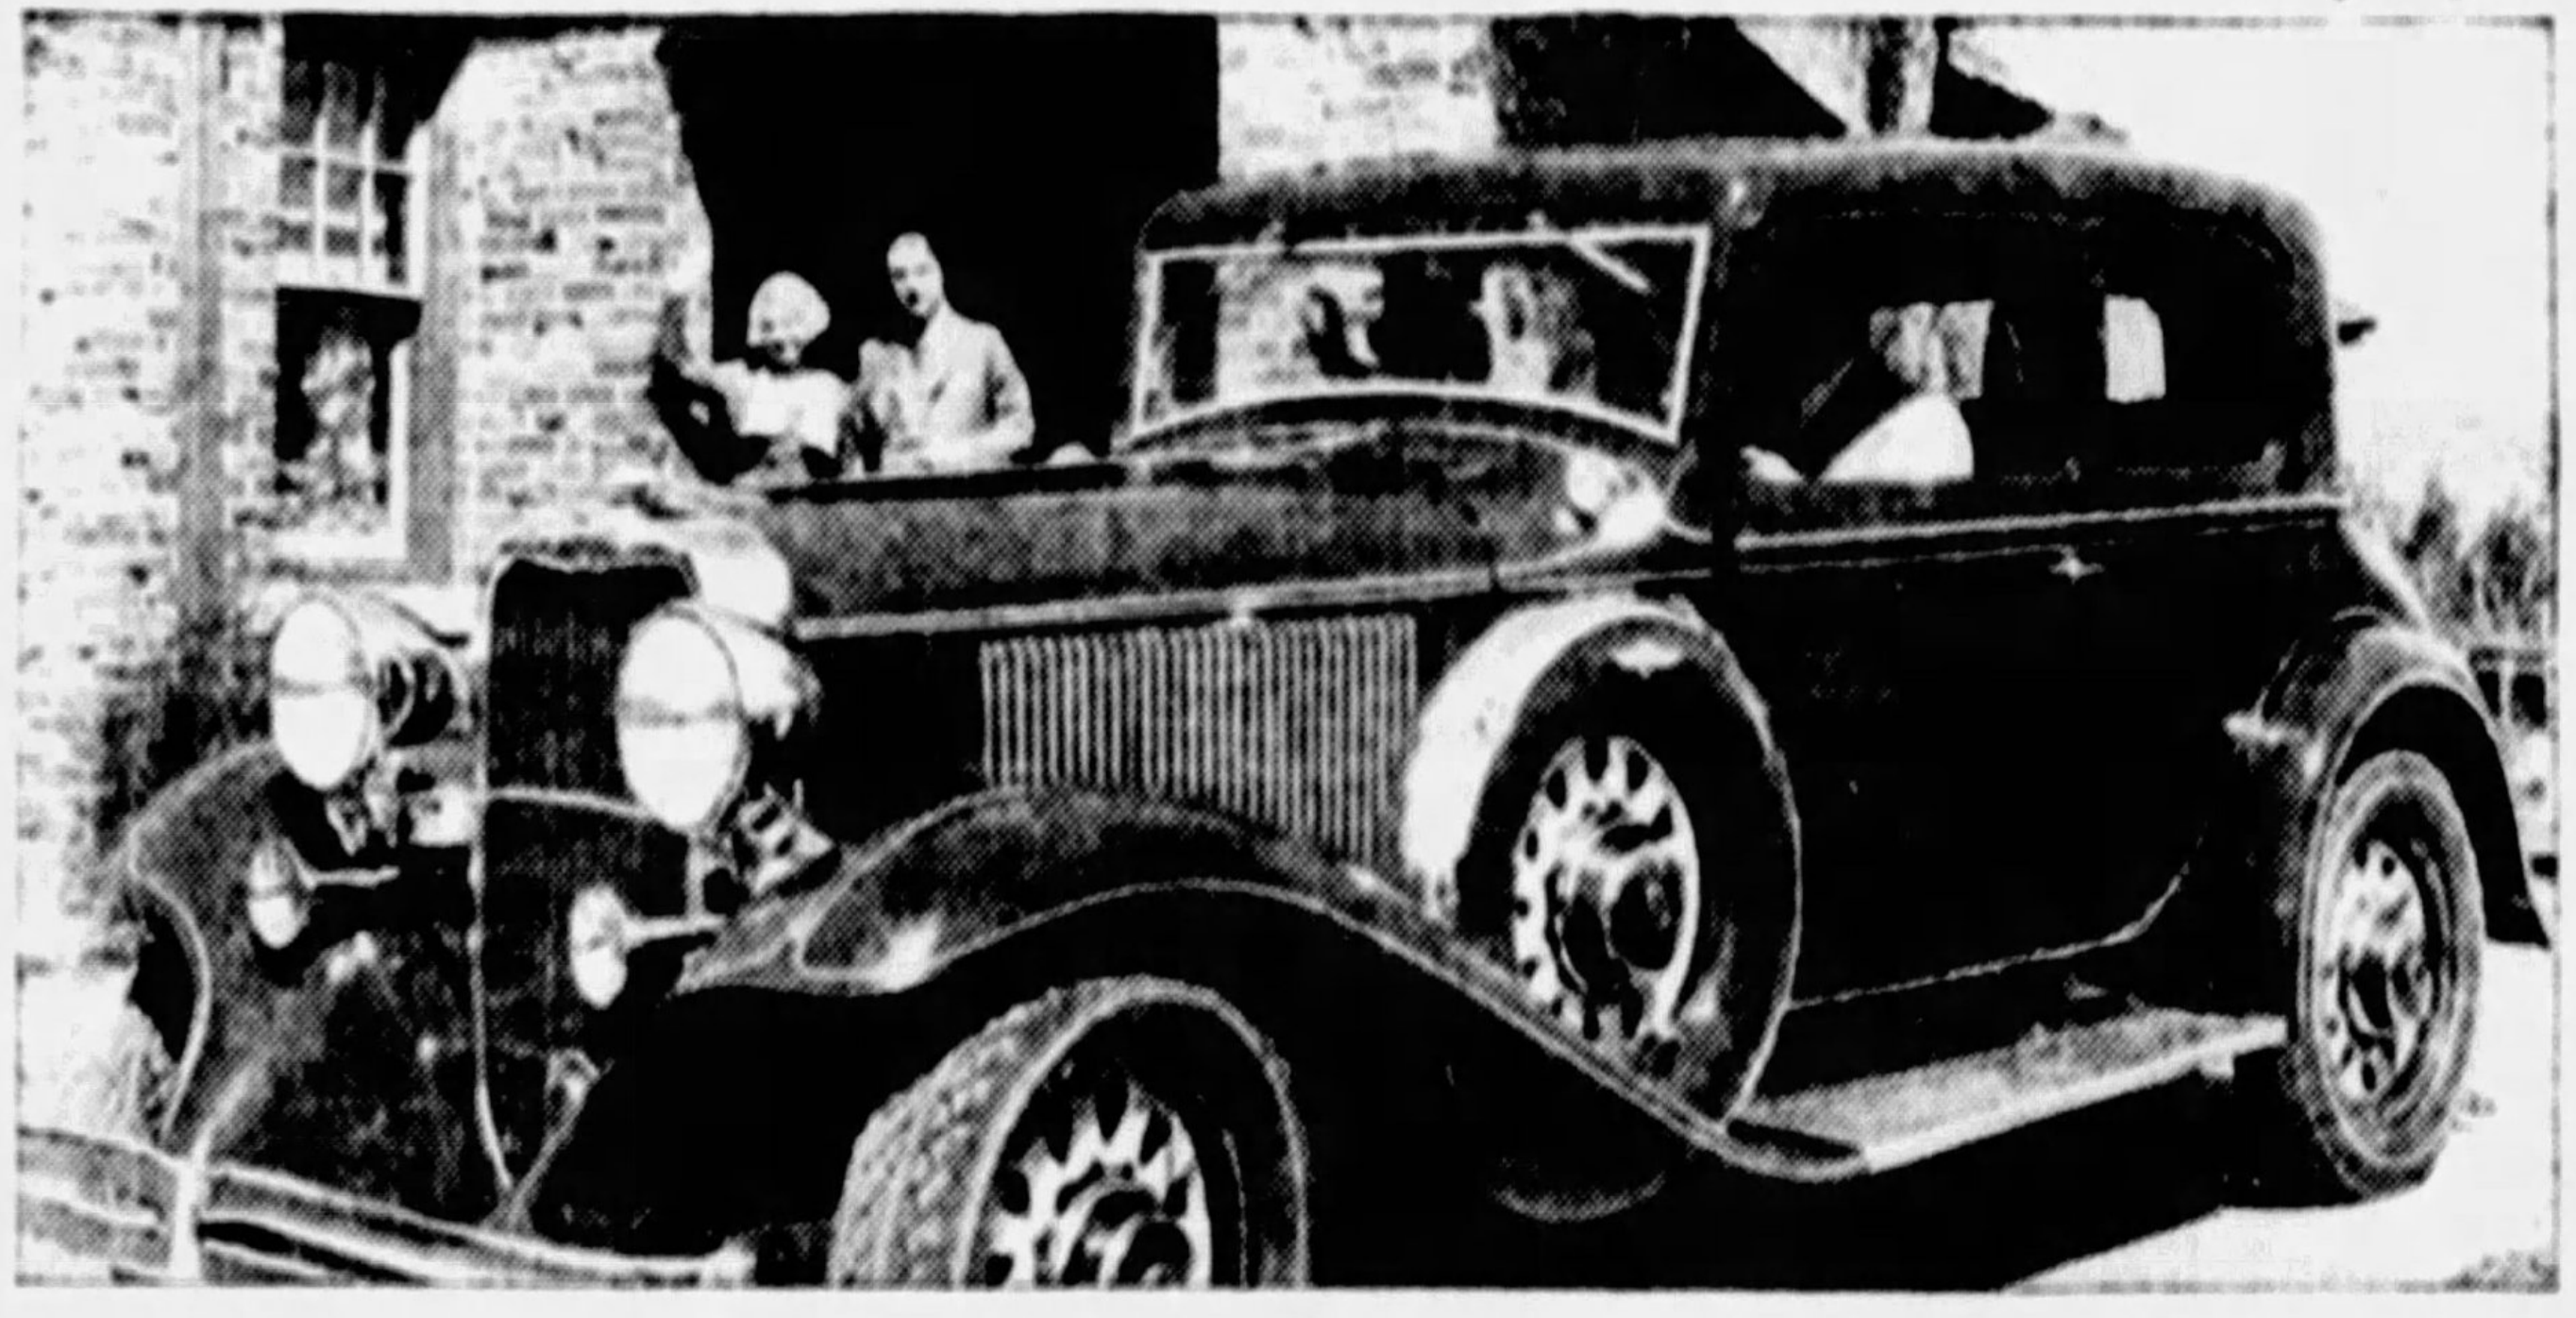
"You're RIGHT, MR. CHRYSLER! We can and should invite the public to compare the Floating Power Ride with any other ride on wheels"

In announcing the new Plymouth, W. P. Chrysler urged the public to look at all three lowest-priced cars. "In my opinion," he said, "any new car without Floating Power is out of date."



WALTER P. CHRYSLER—in announcing his new Plymouth—said, "Look at all three." That's sound. He's right.

In our price class, we issue the same challenge. Drive them all. Let the Dodge Six and Eight with Floating Power stand on their own merits. You be the judge.

We're arranging nation-wide facilities to give a Dodge Floating Power Ride to any person who would like to try it.

We are absolutely sincere when we say—"we want you to drive these new Dodge cars whether you expect to buy now or not."

We think Floating Power is something you will want to know about. We stand squarely behind Mr. Chrysler's statement that any new car without Floating Power is out of date.

Because all cars have always had some vibration, it is hard to imagine the startling sensation you get when vibration is completely removed.

You can have no idea what this new patented engine mounting does for a Dodge Six—or Dodge Eight—until you drive one.

Hundreds who have bought our new Dodge cars have expressed their praise in words so extravagant that we hesitate to repeat them.

When we have put as much into these beautiful, spirited cars as their owners say—which they can excite people the way they do—the cars themselves are their own best salesmen.

Take the wheel as our guest. You won't be pressed to buy. Fair enough?

Cunningham Trial Change Would Not Block Kline Case, Says Butler Official

Butler County will be saddled with considerable expense, according to District Attorney Edgar H. Negley, of that county, if Robert Cunningham, Turtle Creek contractor indicted on a charge of embracery in connection with the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline, is granted a change of venue.

Estimates have placed the sum as high as $5,000, but Negley estimates it would be considerably less. He has been directed by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court to send all the papers in the Cunningham case to Philadelphia, which action has caused observers to remark that the higher court may send the case to another county.

Negley said any change of venue granted Cunningham would not block the trial of Kline and his deposed Director of Supplies Bertram L. Succop.

EDITOR SCORNS COLUMBIA O. K.

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP)—Reed Harris, expelled editor of the Columbia University student daily, was reinstated to his classes yesterday, and then immediately resigned.

The action was announced by Associate Dean Nicholas McKnight and followed a statement by Harris' attorney, Raymond L. Wise, that he was ready to serve papers in a $100,000 breach of contract suit against the university.

The youthful editor, who wrote caustic criticisms of intercollegiate football and charged the university dining hall was run for personal profit, was expelled April 1. Protesting students later declared a strike, stayed away from classes for a day, and congregated in mass meetings on the library steps, where eggs and fists vied with oratory of opposing factions.

The boys at WJAS are racking their brains for with the appearance of Col. Stoopnagle and Budd at Loew's Penn Theater for a week beginning tomorrow they are faced with a terrific problem. The dizzy duo will present two broadcasts over the Columbia network from the WJAS studios on Monday and Wednesday nights at 8:45 and visitors will be admitted, but instructions have come from New York that laughing will be prohibited. Question: How to prevent anyone watching and listening to the Colonel and Budd from laughing?

They are Gene Baldridge and Dick Fulton, tenors; Reed Kennedy, baritone, and Russell Mitchell, bass. Their accompanist is Aneurin Bodycombe. They're on KDKA tonight at 6:30.

Program Pointers

Miss Bordoni

Irene Bordoni, of musical comedy and [illegible] fame, begins a series of eight weekly appearances [illegible] night as guest artist with Rudy Vallee on the Sunshine Hour on WCAE at 8. The [illegible] French [illegible] travel from New York [illegible] is appearing in vaudeville [illegible] cities [illegible] Vallee [illegible] cast [illegible] tour with the "Scandals" [illegible] night's program originates in Philadelphia.

Lady Clinton Castle, famous English beauty, is guest on WJAS at 8 in the Bath Club interview.

The Gypsies program on KDKA at 10 includes a Cuban rhumba, a piano novelty, a tango and unique orchestrations of dance melodies.

Frank Crumit sings one of his most popular songs, "Donald the Dub," and Julia Sanderson gives her interpretation of the old favorite, "Just Like a Butterfly Caught in the Rain," on KDKA at 9.

E. Hall Downes, bridge expert on KDKA, tells what is meant by encouraging responses around the contract bridge table at 10:45.

Some more bewildering situations arise to baffle Joe Palooka, who finds himself the idol of millions after whipping McSwat, the heavyweight champion, on WJAS at 6:45.

The first of a series of studio recitals featuring Jack Price, Paul Galla, Marian MacMillan, Robert Barton, Louise Freely and the So and So's in a variety program is heard on WWSW at 9.

Miss Moore

Grace Moore is another of those singers who says cooking is her favorite occupation. When pressed [illegible] interviewer [illegible] cently she [illegible] fessed that her favorite recipes are tuna fish salad and chocolate m[illegible] neither of which incidentally have to be cooked. It's funny but Ed Wynn, the comedian, who makes his radio debut Tuesday night, [illegible] doesn't [illegible] funny [illegible] knows he looks funny [illegible] so he always [illegible] with a comic hat on his head. Ely Culbertson, the bridge expert, plays bridge less than half a dozen times a year and then only in championship matches.

Those programs on WCAE by D'Avrey of Paris have inspired a large number of people to learn French. One Ohio [illegible]

The Strongest Backbone Any Car Ever Had

At first motor cars had just frames. Then came the double-drop frame. Next truss frames. Then X-frames.

Now Nash steps out ahead with the new X-Dual frame—super-durable, super-rigid and twist-proof.

Look it over carefully when you come in to see the new Nash models.

For this X-Dual frame is new—and different—the strongest frame ever built. The massive inside bridge-girders extend clear from the front cross-member to the rear kick-up—virtually a double frame.

Everyone interested in motor cars should surely see this new Nash X-Dual frame—and then drive this car—before you buy any car.

The "500,000 mile" Silent Underslung Worm Drive axle is another new Nash feature; and full range Ride Control, adjustable at the dash; and Centrifuse brake drums.

There are Bohnalite aluminum alloy pistons and connecting rods; Slip-Stream body design, with Beavertail back; "finger-tip" driving seat adjustment; two chromium-trimmed glove compartments in the dash; dual exhaust silencers; and many further interesting new attractions.

All models are longer, lower, with faster acceleration, and greater power and speed.

Wheelbases range from 116 inches to 142 inches and prices from $777 to $2055, at the factory.

TELL IT TO SALLY -:- -:- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By SALLY MARTIN

If You Can't Be True to Your Husband, Leave Him

Playing with fire! Lots of fun, isn't it?

Not so funny, though, when you get your fingers scorched; and still less funny when someone else's happiness goes up in smoke.

Playing with fire! Yes, it sounds very daring. But when you're gambling with another person's love, and faith, and joy—is it such a big, brave pastime then?

That's what Bebe is doing. And, as you can read between the lines, she is getting a big bang out of it. But now and then a little fear creeps in. Will the fire always be within her control? Will she some day regret that she started to toy with flame?

"Dear Miss Martin:

"Please help me if you can. I will be looking for your answer, and I wish you would print it as soon as possible, as I don't know what to do.

LOVES MARRIED MAN

"I am a young married woman of 25. My husband is 30. We've been married five years. We have a wonderful home and my husband is everything any woman could ask for. We both work, which is my idea. I am too selfish, I will admit, to have children. For that I will take the blame. But here is my problem:

"There is another man. I love him. He is a traveling salesman who comes into my place of business at least six times a year, and every time he does I have lunch or take in a show with him.

He also is married, and the father of two lovely children. The more I see him the more I love him. Yet—I love my husband, too. But being with this other man puts my mind in a whirl and I am always sick and depressed when he leaves me.

"He tells me that he loves me also. I tell him that I shouldn't love him as I do, but then he answers me and says that I am not taking anything away from his wife and children.

WOMAN PERPLEXED

"We are both tempted to do wrong, but as yet we have had enough respect for each other so that we have not done so. I love him with my whole being. Oh, don't think I'm not ashamed of myself. I am. I lie to my husband when I stay out late and say I've gone to a movie with a girl friend. He believes me and takes me in his arms . . . and then I realize I also love him.

"What shall I do? Should I stop seeing this man? I don't want to do anything that I will feel sorry for. I have been a true and faithful wife to my husband. But oh, the temptation is so great! I am afraid of myself. I have great will power, but that will give way some day. I am afraid, and then I will have to suffer.

"Please help me. He has left town now and won't be back for three weeks. I am between two fires. What is the matter with me? What shall I do?

"BEBE."

What's the matter with you? Nothing much, except an empty head, a spaghetti spine and a yellow streak a yard wide. Outside of that, you're a perfectly lovely girl!

You and your talk about a frightful temptation and a grand passion—aw, baloney! The plain truth is that you don't love a soul on earth except your silly, selfish self; and when you talk about being tempted you're handing yourself language that's 10 sizes too big for you, lady.

QUIT BEING CHEAP

You're no suffering soul broken on the wheel of Fate, as you kid yourself. You're just a cheap little sneak thief, as common and petty and small as the guy who snitches milk bottles from the back door.

And if your husband has sense and ever gets wise to you, he'll pay the other man a bonus to take you off his hands.

What'll you do? Look yourself over. See yourself for the cheap creature you are—and then either fish or cut bait. If you can't be true to your husband, get out. Stop eating his bread and loafing under his roof—and two-timing him for a bum who isn't fit to clean his shoes.

Go out and see what you and your two-bit thrills are really worth in a hard working world where you have to pay all your own bills.

And if you want to make it a 100 per cent experience, just ask the other man to leave his cosy home and adoring wife. Will he do it? Not a chance! He'd laugh himself into hiccoughs at the very thought!

Boys like that may stand you to a lunch (on the boss' expense account), but they'd take rat poison rather than take you on a steady proposition.

Clever Bidding

Feature showers employ many unusual bids to force information from their partners. All of these artifices are harmless, and usually they can be read by any partner who stops to think, even if he has never heard them before. The hand shown below illustrates the use of a declaration that elicits information in a way that no other bid could.

♠ A 8 6
♡ A Q 6 4
♣ A Q J 10 8 5
◇ none

♠ 9 5 4 2
♡ 9 8 5 3

♣ 4

♡ J
♣ K 9 7 6 3 2
◇ 9 5

Z and A passed. Y made an opening bid of 2-Clubs, using the declaration merely as a semi-demand bid, not as an absolute force. B overcalled with 2-Diamonds. Z bid 3-Clubs; often it is more desirable to hold down bidding than to show the full number of assisting tricks; this is true especially when slams are contemplated, so that all possible information may be given partner to determine the safe bidding limit.

Y showed that he held no losers in opponent's suit by bidding 3-Diamonds. If B had realized it, a bid of 4-Diamonds would have prevented Y-Z from showing all the facts required to definitely prove that a grand slam could be made. Contracting would have ceased at a small slam, unless Y-Z guessed that more could be made, had B ventured the interjection of a 4-Diamond bid, as explained later on.

Having no aces to show, Z feared that a bid of only 4-Clubs would cause contracting to die at a game contract, whereas at least a small slam appeared a reasonable contract. The only way of keeping bidding open was for Z to ask partner for added information by bidding 4-Diamonds. Z did this, and his partner answered with 4-Hearts. Thus far contracting had shown no probable club losers, no diamond losers and no heart losers, as Z held only a single heart. Z wanted to know if Y held the Ace of Spades, because that would insure a grand slam. To obtain this information Z bid 5-Diamonds, forcing a response from Y. The latter bid 5-Spades, to show his ace of that suit. With K-Q-J-3 of spades in Z's hand there could be no losers of that suit, so Z ended contracting with 7-Clubs, which of course called for nothing beyond showing Y's hand.

Note what a 4-Diamond bid by B would have accomplished, if made over Y's bid of 3-Diamonds. To request further information of his partner, Z must then have bid 5-Diamonds. Instead of answering 4-Hearts over Y's bid of 4-Diamonds, Y would have had to bid 5-Hearts, to show his ace of that suit. Z could not have bid 6-Diamonds, to ask further information of Y, without obliging his partner to bid 7-Clubs, without either Y or Z knowing that they jointly held no losers in spades. But over Y's lower bid of 4-Hearts, Z could bid 5-Diamonds, and Y could respond with 5-Spades, without forcing either partner to end contracting with a bid exceeding a small slam in clubs. Remember that a bid interjected by an adversary of a pair seeking a slam often may make them guess, instead of being certain just where the danger line lies.

All Depending on Earned Incomes Should Buy Small Homes, Says Fay King

WE WANT THREE MORE GUEST ROOMS, AND A FIVE CAR GARAGE!
DON'T OVER-REACH WITH A MANSION ONLY A MILLIONAIRE SHOULD UNDERTAKE!
PLANS
TO OWN A LITTLE HOME CAN BE A GREAT COMFORT IN THE UNCERTAINTIES OF A CAREER
BETTER A MODEST CLEAR HOUSE YOU CAN ALWAYS KEEP THAN A SHOWY PLACE YOU MAY LOSE FOR DEBTS
FAY KING

By FAY KING

Business ability and artistic talent are seldom equal in the same person.

Too often we read of those who in youth earned good salaries on the stage or screen, but later in life were in need.

All young persons depending upon earned incomes should buy a SMALL home.

A modest little house on a bit of ground, in a pleasant improved, but unpretentious neighborhood. One they can soon clear of all indebtedness, and keep in first-class condition at small cost.

It should be in a zone where taxes will always be moderate.

Never sell it.

It will always bring a small rent, and the day may come when it will prove a happy little harbor of peace and content to retire to.

Don't Let Your Children Run Risk of Diphtheria

A recent report made by the Diphtheria Prevention Commission of New York City states that within the last three years over half a million children were immunized against diphtheria. It is believed that by this work approximately 17,000 cases of diphtheria were prevented. The commission reports that if all children were immunized against diphtheria this dreaded disease would eventually be eradicated.

Dr. Copeland

We all recall the fear and apprehension of last summer when infantile paralysis threatened the health of the nation. Our fear was great, for we had no weapons with which to combat this disease. But though diphtheria is as great a menace, we are fortunate enough to have a method of preventing it.

Some children are naturally immune to diphtheria, and for this reason do not contract the disease when exposed to it. There are certain substances in the blood stream called "antibodies," which protect against diphtheria as well as other diseases. Such cases of natural immunity are few, and it is dangerous to rely upon this uncertain protection.

The Shick test determines whether or not a child is immune to diphtheria. It is a simple and painless test. If it shows that the child is not immune to the disease it is imperative that he be immunized. Complete immunization gives the child the necessary protection against diphtheria.

By means of special injections containing the diphtheria "toxin-antitoxin" adequate protection against the disease is given. Three injections of toxin-antitoxin serum are given at weekly intervals. It is a simple procedure and causes no ill effects. Most authorities advise repetition of the Schick test six months after the last injection has been given. This is done to determine whether the child is now immune to diphtheria.

Diphtheria can be fought and conquered. It is the duty of all parents to guard their children against diphtheria. Infants may receive this protection at as early an age as 6 months. Children under the age of 10 are extremely susceptible to this disease.

No child need suffer from this disease because of lack of funds. The treatment can be obtained without charge at any school or public health station.

It has been shown that diphtheria can be made as rare as smallpox now is. This undertaking can be accomplished only by the co-operation of parents and other persons responsible for the care and health of children.

Household Hints

Tea towels dried in the sun are sweeter and more sanitary.

Linseed oil will clean black walnut frames and give them a rich luster.

It very frequently happens that new kid gloves split the first time they are put on. This can be prevented by placing them between the folds of a damp towel for an hour or so before they are worn.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

So-called white henna carries a misleading title. It contains no henna of any color whatsoever. It is a paste that is made by combining powdered magnesium with peroxide used for touch-up treatment when the hair has been bleached. Being a semi-solid substance it clings close to the scalp, doesn't streak down over hairshafts that are already light in color.

The right kind of brushing will shape the eyebrows, do a lot to give them graceful form. Dip the eyebrow brush in brilliantine, brush each individual hair upward. Let the forward portion remain with the upward tilt, but brush the other fuzzers down, creating a pleasing arch. Slant eyes call for slanting brows, round eyes for eye lambrequins that are more like half circles. All must be figured out.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Visiting Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to have calling cards printed. I do not care for my middle name, and therefore I do not wish to have it on my cards. I do not believe, on the other hand, that it is good form to use just an initial. Also should Miss precede my name?

M. G.

By all means omit your middle name, entirely, if you don't like it. This is the best chance to do so, on your new visiting cards. Don't use the initial. There isn't any use of clinging to a middle name that one doesn't like . . . and the sooner it is dropped, the happier one will be.

Yes, be sure to use the Miss. Visiting cards are formal affairs, and titles should, therefore, always be used on them.

Her Brother's Fiancee

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please advise me whether or not it would be correct for me to give a bridal shower for my brother's fiancee? I am not acquainted with any of her friends.

B.

Since you are not acquainted with any of the friends of your brother's fiancee, it would seem to me that to give her a shower would seem forced and not an especially good taste. In excellent taste would be for you to give her a simple and charming tea, inviting your friends to meet her. But do not inject the "shower" motif into the party.

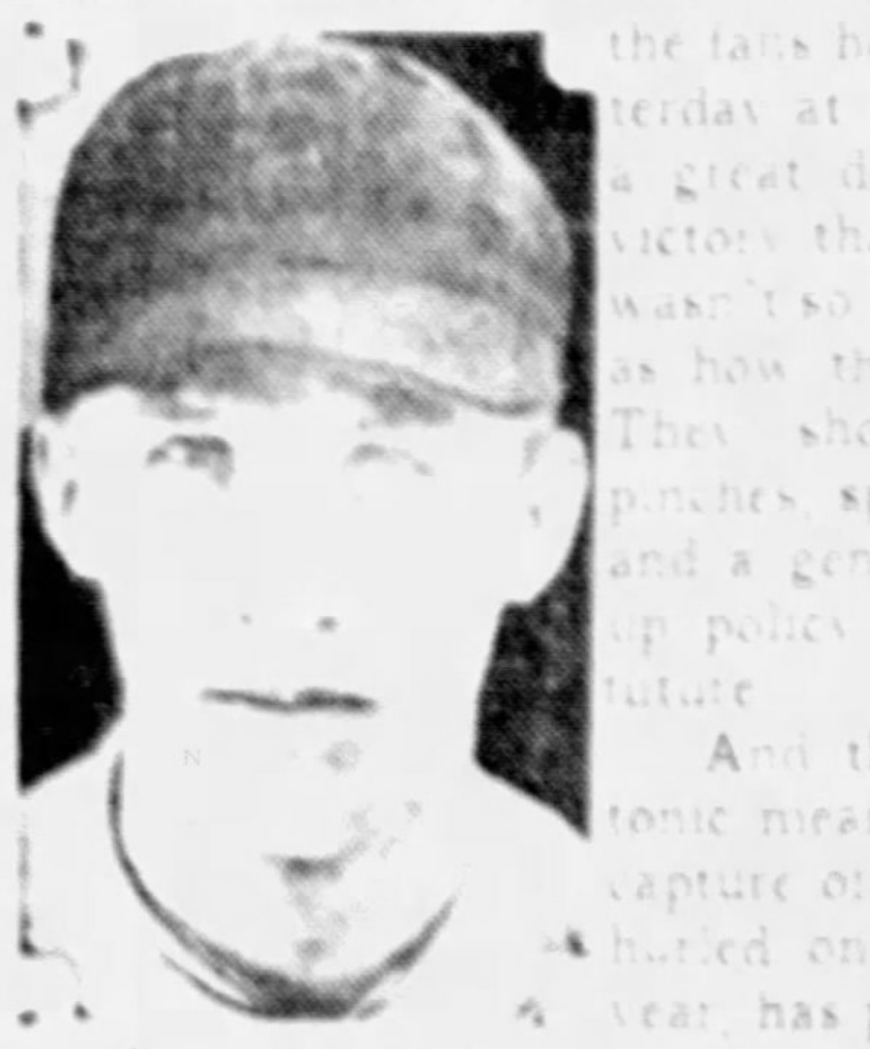
MUCH PROMISE IN FINE HOME START

IDEAL WEATHER, THE shutting out of the world champions, no-hit pitching by Steve Swetonic until two were out in the eighth inning, the punch and dash shown by the Pirates—if ever there was an opener made to order to send the fans home happy, it was that of yesterday at Forbes Field. And there was a great deal more in the opening day victory than appears on the surface. It wasn't so much the winning of the game as how the Pirates looked in doing it. They showed hitting power in the pinches, speed and daring on the bases, and a general fighting, hustling heads-up policy that promises much for the future.



Steve Swetonic

And the brilliant pitching of Swetonic meant a whole lot more than the capture of this one contest. Steve, who hurled only 28⅓ innings all told last year, has pitched 12 innings this season without being scored on. In two games he pitched 10 2-3 innings before a hit was made off him. Fine work in itself, but of vastly greater importance because it indicates that in the emergency created by the loss of Heinie Meine, the local club has another winning slab regular in a man whose form until now has been somewhat in doubt.

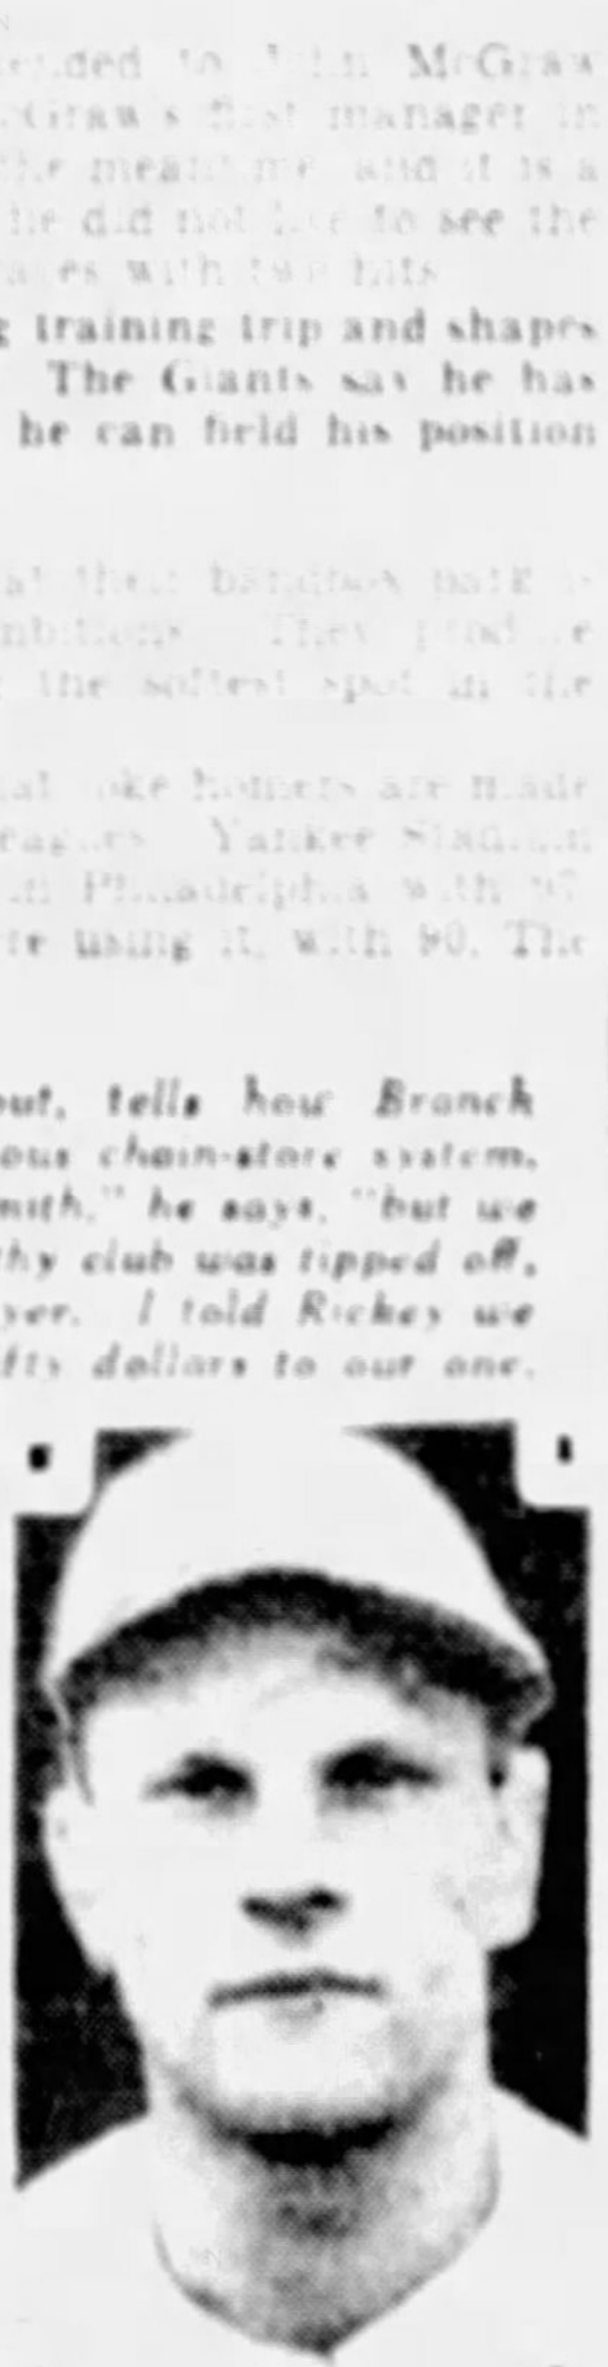
HAROLD SCHUMACHER was recommended to John McGraw a year ago last December by Al Kenney, McGraw's first manager in Olean, N. Y., back in 1890. Kenney died in the meantime and it is a source of deep regret to the Giant pilot that he did not live to see the boy's great 1932 start by shutting out the Braves with two hits.

Hal won five straight games on the spring training trip and shapes up as one of the pitching finds of the year. The Giants say he has everything, including poise and nerve. And he can field his position and hit besides.

THE PHILLIES RESENT the charge that their bandbox park is the paradise of batters with home-run ambitions. They produce statistics to show that it is far from being the softest spot in the majors for such wallops.

It is at the Polo Grounds in New York that the homers are made most frequently, 129 last year to lead both leagues. Yankee Stadium was next with 119, followed by Shibe Park in Philadelphia with 97 and the St. Louis field when the Browns were using it, with 90. The Phils' park was fifth with 89.

CHARLEY BARRETT, Cardinal scout, tells how Branch Rickey conceived the idea of the now famous chain-store system. "I spotted a promising shortstop at Fort Smith," he says, "but we could not offer more than $1,500. A wealthy club was tipped off, wired a bid of $7,500 and we lost the player. I told Rickey we couldn't compete with clubs able to pay fifty dollars to our one. 'We'll buy the Fort Smith club and develop our own youngsters,' Rickey replied. That's exactly what he did and it was the beginning of the chain-store system." The Cards now own and operate the clubs of Rochester, Columbus, Houston, Danville, Springfield (Mo.), Greensboro, Mobile, Keokuk and Elmira.



Al Spohrer

THE WISE PLAYER in baseball refrains from popping off for publication. Al Spohrer, catcher of the Boston Braves, is the latest to regret that he talked too much. He told a reporter recently that it was a cinch to pitch to Hack Wilson.

"Keep 'em low when he stands straight up," said Spohrer. "When he crouches, breeze 'em across his letters." With two out and two on in Brooklyn the other day, and Spohrer behind the bat calling the signals, Wilson hit one a mile over the right-field fence. "The part of it that made me feel best," remarked Wilson afterward, "was that I hit one against the Braves with this very wise Mr. Spohrer, who knows just what I can't hit, calling the pitches."

SPOHRER DID NOT confine his broadcast to Wilson. He was talking about Bobby Brown, recruit pitcher of the Braves. "He's got the greatest hop I ever saw on a fast ball," said the talkative backstop. "It leaps six inches. He came back to us from Binghamton last season, and we're playing the Pirates. Tom Zachary begins to go bad in the sixth. The bases are full and none out.

"So I called for another pitcher and in comes Brown. First big league chance, and he's facing the two Waners and George Grantham, with none out and the bases full. Well, he fanned the two Waners on six straight pitches. He threw a strike past Grantham, dusted him off with two balls, and got him on two more strikes."

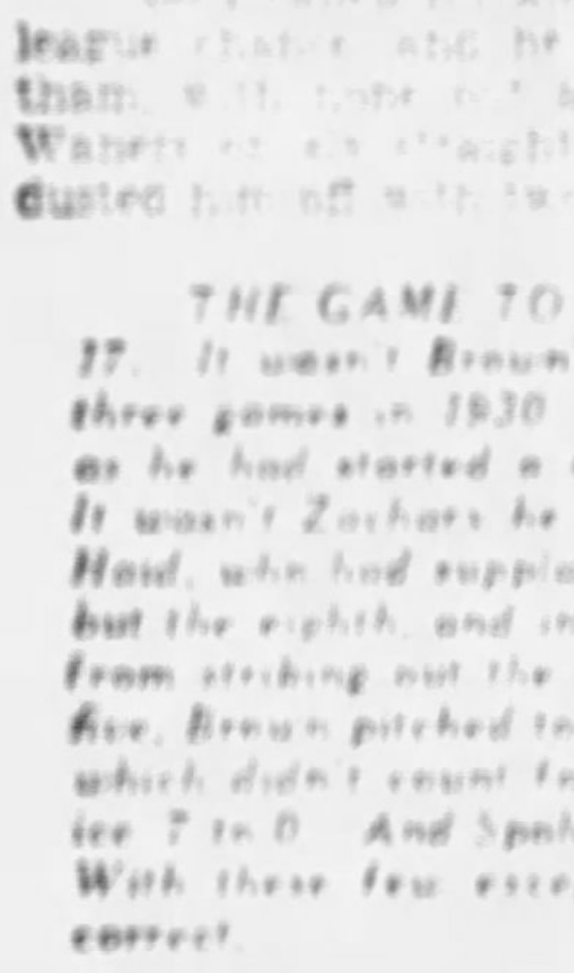
THE GAME TO which Spohrer refers was that of September 17. It wasn't Brown's first big league game. He had pitched in three games in 1930. It wasn't even his first game in that series, as he had started a contest two days earlier and lost it, 4 to 2. It wasn't Zachary he relieved, in the second instance, but Harold Haid, who had supplanted Frankhouse. It wasn't the sixth inning, but the eighth, and instead of none out there was one down. Far from striking out the two Waners on six pitches and Grantham on five, Brown pitched to only two men, fanning Brame and L. Waner, which didn't count for a whole lot, as the Bucs had the game on ice 7 to 0. And Spohrer wasn't catching at the time. It was Bool. With these few exceptions, Mr. Spohrer's recital was absolutely correct.

FOR EVERY SPRING football camp that reports the new rules satisfactory, there is at least one other that pronounces them faulty. Complaints now are that the use of the punt on the kickoff gives the kicking team too much of an advantage. A good punter can send ball high over, down to the 5 or 10-yard line and over near a corner with no chance of a return.

This, it is pointed out, will mean that no team will care to receive. Running the ball out from the 5 or 10-yard line is risky business. Good generalship calls for an immediate kick. But it is suggested that the rulemakers can adjust matters by sending the kicking team back to the 30-yard line, instead of the 40, as at present.

AKRON HIGH SCHOOL has a track captain in Sharon McMullen who comes pretty close to being a one-man team. In an interclass meet at Garfield Stadium in Akron the other day he rolled up a point total that would have been a credit to a whole squad.

All that McMullen did was to win the 100, 220, 440 and 880-yard events and the mile run, take second in the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet 6 inches and run as anchor man in three relay races to amass 32½ points for the seniors, who won the meet with a score of 89½ points. He took the remainder of the afternoon off.



Ellsworth Vines, Jr.

MOST TENNIS FOLLOWERS do not share the fears expressed in some quarters that the poor start made by Ellsworth Vines this spring means he is going to prove another Johnny Doeg as a champion and indicates the dashing of America's Davis Cup hopes. Vines was beaten twice by Bud Chandler, twice by Wilmer Allison and once each by Lester Stoefen and Martin Buxby. But that doesn't mean that his whole season is going to be a failure. Vines is a notoriously slow starter. He must begin at an easy gait and work up carefully because of his none too robust physique. It will be observed that he is getting better from tourney to tourney. Don't be surprised if that continues. A player like Vines is not to be judged before June or July.

County Section III—Crafton at Bellevue, Ben Avon at Sewickley.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The first of what should prove a long and honorable line of district Interscholastic Tennis Conference title chases got under way on the courts of 10 county preparatory and high schools hereabouts this afternoon. With some 70 or 80 youthful racqueteers keen to inaugurate hostilities, squads representing no less than a score of outstanding secondary institutions began round robin action in the two city sections and the trio of divisions composed of borough, township and private school aggregations.

FIVE TEAMS FAVORED

Pre-battle dope would indicate that leading contenders for the coveted University of Pittsburgh trophy will include Taylor Allderdice, Mt. Lebanon, Wilkinsburg and Sewickley High Schools and Shady Side Academy, but there is to be plenty of dark-horse talent to render the path of the ultimate victor, whether or not it be one of the above quintet, a hazardous one.

Allderdice will be tested vigorously in entertaining Schenley in the opener, while Mt. Lebanon faces an unknown quantity in University School. Wilkinsburg journeys abroad for a tough one in Turtle Creek Union. Shady Side visits Arnold School for what looms as a warm tussle and Sewickley plays host to a clever Ben Avon delegation.

The lone last minute switch in the lineup of crown-seekers brings Munhall High School to bat in place of Homestead in County Section II, the Homesteaders having been unable to muster a crew, and therefore being forced to withdraw from the 1932 race. Aspinwall jaunts to Munhall to aid the Monongah Valleyans rip off the lid.

COLLEGE STARS DRILL

Meanwhile Steel City varsity netmen continue preliminary milling with a view to getting under way formally in the immediate future. Principals of the Pitt-Duke fracas slated for the Bluff asphalt Saturday are racing into stride after last week's layoff, as are Carnegie Tartans, whose initial tilt involves the Plaid with Duquesne next Wednesday.

GIBSON'S CLUB IN PLEASING HOME DEBUT

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Steve Swetonic's magnificent slab effort in the home opener was a high spot in the fans' reactions today, yet the followers of the Fighting Pirates found almost as much food for comment in the gripping display of base running put over by George Gibson's speedboys as the home team won a 7-to-0 victory over the championship Cardinals.

Adam Comorosky and Capt. Pie Traynor, two of the smartest as well as the most interesting base runners in baseball, were the force behind a trend of play that caused the clever Jimmy Wilson to have one of the most miserable afternoons of his colorful career.

OUTGUESS RIVALS

The gallant captain of the world champions, Frank Frisch, also shared deeply in the bewilderment of the Redbird flock while Commy and Pie were doing their stuff on the paths. The double steal threat was the motif of the Pirates' larceny and the Buccos seemed to have outguessed the smart Wilson and Frisch as they operated.

Paul Waner was on third and Comorosky on first in the noisy fifth when the Pirates first threw Wilson and Frisch into confusion. The Polish Flyer streaked for second with Traynor up. Brother Paul played his part well as he made a false move toward home. Wilson had to consider Paul as he flung to Frisch, and Commy slid under the Fordham Flash, who was playing in a few feet in case P. Waner broke for the plate.

Traynor waited for a pass that filled the bases, and Suhr hit so far to Watkins that both Comorosky and P. Waner were able to advance, Paul scoring. With Pie at the plate, Traynor made a dash for second, and this time Wilson let fly to Frisch in a hurry. But Commy timed the action perfectly and by dint of a powerful slide which bowled over Jim, the outfielder was safe at the plate, and the double steal was a thing of beauty to the fans. In all, the Buccos stole five sacks on Wilson, Commy and Pie swiping two and Lloyd Waner picking up one.

BUCKS SHOW DASH

The stirring opener, however, was not confined to the sterling performances of any group of Buccos. The whole nine went onto the field in a fighting humor, and each player was mixed up in something of a startling nature.

There was the fine all-round performance of Catcher Earl Grace, for example. Earl connected for a triple and a single and was deprived of another hit by Bottomley. As a receiver for Swetonic, Grace was just about the last word.

Bill Hallahan, slab hero of the last World Series, opposed Swetonic at the start, but Bill remained on the slab only four innings. Comorosky's first hit, a smash that opened the fourth, was the signal for an inning that produced three runs, and the left-fielder's second hit was an important part of the fifth round, which also produced three tallies. Jim Lindsey was on the mound at this time. Grace's triple, which opened the sixth, was turned into a run on P. Waner's long fly to Pepper Martin.

SWETONIC IN FORM

Swetonic's hitless effort through seven rounds had the effect of spreading a tense hush on the multitude of 16,000 which attended the opener. And Steve had two Redbirds out in the eighth before Rightfielder Watkins drove one past Suhr for the first hit. Suhr was playing close to the bag owing to the presence there of Ernie Orsatti. Had Gus been in a deep spot he probably would have fielded Watkins' drive. Bottomley and Wilson added singles in the ninth.

Swetonic reeled off three hitless innings in Cincinnati last Saturday, which means that he had pitched 10 rounds of hitless ball before he was nicked.

Manager George Gibson saw the last half of the game from the bench. He was ejected from the field for disputing one of Cy Rigler's decisions.

Gus Suhr, the Buccos' big gun on the offensive since the season began, connected for a single in the fourth to ring up his eighth consecutive game in which he has hit safely.

Senate Hears Plea For No Games Tax

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(INS)—A proposal to exempt tickets for the Olympic games in California this year from entertainment taxation was made in the Senate Finance Committee today by Senator Shortridge (Rep.), of California.

He introduced an amendment to the revenue bill providing for exemption of these tickets.

"Many of the tickets already have been sold," he said, "and the proposed increase in entertainment admission taxes would be retroactive.

"Sponsors of the Olympic games in California have spent more than a million dollars preparing for these games and it would not be fair to burden them with this taxation."

VAN RYN BOWS TO NEW STAR

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 21.—(AP)—The harried tennis fathers whose business it is to select the right combination to represent the United States in Davis cup play this summer found themselves today with a brand new prospect to consider.

Eugene McCauliff, young doctor of philosophy from Yonkers, N. Y., became the latest "unknown" to force his way into the thoughts of the committee when he scored a surprising straight-set victory over John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, the country's fourth-ranking star, in the quarter-finals of the Mason and Dixon tournament here yesterday.

McCauliff, far down in the national ranking, looked like a champion as he turned back the Davis cup doubles veteran 6-2, 6-4, 9-7. His high bounding service and swift returns had Van Ryn on the defensive all the way.

Following the Yonkers youth into the semi-finals was a veteran who already is assured a place on the cup team, Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex. Allison continued his superb play in eliminating J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., 6-2, 6-1, 6-3.

Wash-Jeff Trustees Approve Sports Staff

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 21.—Trustees of Washington and Jefferson College at their spring meeting here approved the recommendation of the Athletic Council that Wilbur (Pete) Henry be made director of intercollegiate athletics and, also, Glenn Wild as freshman coach and varsity basketball coach. The action completes the coaching staff, which is headed in football by Leroy P. Day, former mentor at Washington High School. Henry will assist with the linemen and David C. Morrow has volunteered to assist with the forwards.

Spring practice is progressing with scrimmage likely next week.

John Shibe Escapes Injury in Accident

WILMINGTON, Del., April 21.—(INS)—John D. Shibe, Philadelphia baseball magnate, narrowly escaped death or serious injury when the car in which he was riding sideswiped another machine on the Du Pont boulevard south of Wilmington. The car in which he was riding was wrecked.

The accident occurred late yesterday while Shibe and George B. Foster, baseball statistician, of Philadelphia, operator of the car, were endeavoring to pass another machine on the boulevard. Foster escaped unhurt.

SIX TEAMS SET IN M-A LOOP

WHEELING, April 21.—(AP.)—The Middle Atlantic Baseball League has become a six-club circuit.

Wheeling and Youngstown, O., have been dropped from membership and it was announced the Canton (O.) franchise in the Central League will be moved to Youngstown.

The league adopted the six-club plan in an extended confab last night after voting down a proposal that the race be abandoned for this year.

Representatives of the clubs which voted to remain in the league expressed themselves as eager to begin preparations for the season and predicted a successful race.

The starting teams will include Cumberland, Md.; Johnstown, Pa.; Charleston, Huntington, Beckley and Clarksburg, W. Va.

All of the teams will play night baseball. The club operated as a 12-team loop last season, the only one in existence.

City Loop Confab Scheduled Tonight

Franchise holders of the City Baseball League will meet tonight for the purpose of drawing up a schedule for the coming season. An official ball also will be chosen.

The league plans to inaugurate action early next month, and will operate on an eight-club, split-season basis.

LONDOS SIGNS FOR TITLE GO

ST. LOUIS, April 21.—(A.P.)—Jim Londos, recognized as the heavyweight wrestling champion in some states, has announced he has agreed to meet Ed (Strangler) Lewis, also heavyweight title claimant, in a match for the world championship. Date and place for the match have not been decided upon.

Londos threw Earl McCready of Canada, with a crotch hold and slam after 48 minutes and 44 seconds of their wrestling match here last night.

New Orleans Boat Wins Long Race

HAVANA, April 21.—(AP.)—Leading its closest rival across the finish line by almost three hours, the 55-foot schooner Windjammer of New Orleans was an easy winner of the St. Petersburg-Havana yacht race.

Gainer Tullis' speedy craft, one of the three class A boats in the race, crossed the finish line in the mouth of Havana harbor with a total elapsed time of four days three hours nine minutes fifteen seconds out of St. Petersburg.

Second to cross the line was the Cynosure, a 37-foot class B ketch, owned by Gidge Gandi, of St. Petersburg.

HEAVY HITTING MARKS PLAY IN AMERICAN.

YANKS POUND MACKS; TIGERS BEAT TRIBE

Associated Press.

While it doesn't show in the records, it appears this early that the country's two major baseball leagues will provide a "showdown" this season on the brand of ball the customers want.

The American League, standing by its "rabbit" ball, is fashioning more and gaudier homeruns than ever before. It's still a hitters' league in the fullest sense of the word. The National circuit, with its less lively sphere, is playing them close to the vest, regaling its patrons with low-hit, fast-fielding exhibitions.

Through yesterday's games there had been a total of 38 four-baggers hit in the American League, compared to 19 in the National.

Just what the fans' final decision will be still is a matter of conjecture, but the American League magnates received a world of encouragement yesterday when 60,000 packed into Yankee Stadium to watch Joe McCarthy's sluggers open their home season with an 8-to-3 victory over the Athletics.

BABE HITS FOURTH

Connie Mack's two aces, Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw, were treated very roughly, Ruth, Lary and Dickey leading the assault on them with the Yanks' daily quota of homers.

The Washington Senators kept pace with Detroit at the top of the standing with a ninth-inning rally that beat the Red Sox, 4 to 3.

Cleveland's opening day crowd saw the Indians drop a 2-to-1 decision to the fast-traveling Detroiters. George Uhle, Tiger veteran, allowed only five hits.

Sam Gray, of the St. Louis Browns, hurled his second shutout of the year in downing the weak-hitting White Sox, 5 to 0.

LUCAS BEATS CUBS

Red Lucas, who at last seems to have a club back of him worthy of his talents, pitched the ambitious Cincinnati Reds to a 7-to-2 win over the Chicago Cubs.

The champion St. Louis Cardinals plumbed new depths as they lost their fifth consecutive game to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 0, and fell into a deadlock with the Giants for last place in the National League.

The Giants, led by Bruising Bill Terry, tore into four Philly pitchers for 17 hits and a 14-to-5 triumph at Baker Bowl. Terry hit two homers for the second straight day and batted in five runs.

W. Va. May Lose Calloway for Relays

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., April 21.—(AP.)—Russel (Runt) Calloway, of Huntington, captain and star hurdler of the West Virginia University track team, may be unable to compete in the Penn Relays April 29-30.

Calloway stepped from a curb in a downtown street yesterday and turned his ankle. He has been ordered to take a rest until next week, when he will learn whether he will be able to run again this month.

MARONE PACES TENPIN EVENT

Bowlers from Steubenville, O., Braddock, Donora and Pittsburgh are rolling today in Harry Votel's ninth annual tenpin tournament in progress this week at the Votel alleys in East Pittsburgh.

The Steubenville delegation will be joined by Brookline, Woods Run and Westinghouse League entrants tomorrow, and on Saturdy Akron, Wheeling and South Side pin topplers will bring the event to a close.

High scoring marked the rolling late yesterday, and a new set of leaders tops the list today. The leaders and their scores:

GLENNA SETS NEW MARK

HOT SPRINGS, Va., April 21.—(AP.)—Another brilliant golfing achievement that brought her the Old Dominion championship was in the records today as Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare looked back upon her victory over the difficult Homestead course.

Playing in the form that led her to the national championship Mrs. Vare defeated Miss Grace Amery, of the Seminole Club, Palm Beach, 7 and 6 yesterday, and then played out the round in record-breaking figures.

Her 72 was only one above men's par and six strokes under the previous record established by Helen Hicks, 1931 Old Dominion champion.

Two technical knockouts and a full-fledged one cut last night's Moose Temple boxing show as short as Steve Swetonic's allowance of base hits against the Cardinals at Forbes Field earlier in the day, the fans getting out of the trenches in time to get to sleep at an early hour.

Billy Rose, of Cincinnati, and Tiger Joe Randall, Elizabeth Negro welterweight, were going along on close terms in the scheduled 10-round windup until Rose suddenly suffered a bursted cauliflower ear shortly after the start of the eighth round, which caused Referee Al Grayber to call an immediate halt. Rose was doing the forcing and better boxing but Randall did the more effective punching, several times rocking the visitor.

Steve Senich, of Homestead, won by a technical knockout over Leon Jendrasiak, Grand Rapids southpaw, when he reopened a cut on Jendrasiak's left eye as the second round ended and the referee refused to permit the visitor to continue after consulting with the commission physician, Dr. M. R. Goldman. It was a hard battle while it lasted with both men showing the effects of the punches.

Al Becker, Sheraden middleweight, floored Georgie Peck, of the North Side, for nine in the second round and for the full count in the fourth round of the second bout. Both were doing a comeback after a long layoff.

Young Lowstetter, of McKeesport, defeated Young Nagy, of the East End, in the six-round opener, a featherweight affair. Nagy was subbing on short notice for Fritzie Zivic, who is ill.

PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—Oh, for the merry life of a ball player these days. We can't speak to spectators, fraternize with opponents or have striped bats, and it's probably agin the rules to wink at a blonde or put tobacco juice in your glove. If they only fed us roast pork on holidays it would be just like playing for Sing Sing.

Bring back those good old days when you could snap at an umpire three times for $5, chat through the wire screen with lady fans so long as it wasn't your turn at the plate and use anything you wanted for a bat except a stick of dynamite.

Right now, big league baseball only needs seven more rules to be even with a girls' academy.

SOCCER TITLE FRAY SET FOR SATURDAY

By TOM BIRKS

Western Pennsylvania's soccer champion will be crowned at Scott High School Field, North Braddock, Saturday afternoon when the Shannon Morrys and Union Switch and Signal elevens meet in the third and deciding game of the title series.

The first battle found the Swissvalers turning the tide of victory their way when Angus McNair scored with a penalty kick, the only goal of the game.

Last Sunday, however, the Shannon team evened matters by outplaying the Red and White, winning handily by 3 goals to 1. So with the issue wide open there is every reason to feel that one of the banner crowds of the season will be on hand when the teams take the field.

Reserve Board to Have Absolute Control Over Credit for Speculation

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE FEDERAL RESERVE Board will have absolute control over the amount of credit available for speculative purposes in the future if the revised Glass banking bill is passed in its present form. The measure would enable the board to allow ample credit to flow into securities markets under ordinary circumstances, but it would also give the Reserve System power to call a halt to the use of credit when inflation in values appears to be getting out of hand as it did in 1928 and 1929.

No bull market could reach the proportions of the last one without constantly absorbing larger and larger amounts of credit. The board recognized this long before the last one got reached its final dizzy heights, but Reserve banks had only a secondary influence on the use of credit and the check on the market came too late. Instead of producing an orderly decline in stocks which would not have been disastrous to business, the board lost control of the situation. The market advanced to such extremes that the final crash is still under way after two and a half years. The effect of this on business is only too well known.

Makes Security Control Duty of Reserve Board

THE PROPOSED BILL would make it the duty of each district reserve bank to keep itself informed as to whether or not its member banks are making undue use of credit for the speculative carrying of securities, real estate or commodities. Then the bill proposes to give the Reserve System a club over the banks. It says:

"Whenever in the judgment of the Federal Reserve Board any member bank is making such undue use of bank credit, the board may in its discretion, after reasonable notice and an opportunity for a hearing, suspend such bank from the use of the credit facilities of the Federal Reserve System and may terminate such suspension or may renew it from time to time."

Plans to Check Indirect Use of Reserve Credit

A FURTHER CHECK against the indirect use of Federal Reserve credit for speculative purposes would be contained in a provision that [illegible] bank which increase [illegible] bonds [illegible] from [illegible] owes [illegible] may be [illegible] mediate [illegible] loans.

A large [illegible] lent [illegible] in 1929 [illegible] funds of [illegible] porations. A [illegible] of credit [illegible] contained in a provision [illegible] member bank in the Reserve System from [illegible] non-banking organization [illegible] making [illegible] securities. This closes the open call money market to all except banks, although there is nothing to prevent corporations from making [illegible] security dealers through private negotiation.

Additional features of the Glass banking bill will be discussed in this column in the future.

COTTON MOVES NARROWLY

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP.)— Cotton opened steady today, unchanged to 2 points higher on trade buying and covering, promoted by the firmness in Liverpool cables. May sold at 6.13c, May contracts held between 6.11c and 6.14c and October between 6.54c and 6.58c with the market ruling within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations.

Trading remained quiet later in the morning and prices fluctuated irregularly within a range of 4 or 5 points. May liquidation continued, but without much change in differences between months, and reports of a firm spot situation in the South had no apparent effect on the immediate market.

After showing net losses of 2 or 3 points, however, prices stiffened up slightly and the market at midday was steady at about yesterday's closing quotations.

LIVERPOOL, April 21.—Cotton, 13,000 bales including 12,600 American. Big Companies to Meet for Dividend Action Next Week

A number of important dividend meetings are on schedule for next week. On Tuesday, in addition to the Steel Corporation, directors of Norfolk & Western, and the Studebaker Motor Company will meet for action. On Wednesday directors of Pennsylvania, Delaware & Hudson and American Tobacco are slated to act. Thursday will bring the Bethlehem and Consolidated Gas meeting for dividend consideration. Standard Oil of New Jersey is due to act early in May and other approaching meetings include General Motors, Du Pont, Union Pacific and American Telephone.

The New York financial community, particularly that part of it which keeps close tabs on the credit position, was inclined to anticipate a cut in the bank rate here after the market's close. Some people still feel that such a move will be inaugurated out of town where rates are above are 3 per cent charge now in force here.

The further slash in bill rates, however, plus the fact that new government financing is expected to be announced over the week-end possibly no longer-term lines than generally anticipated, led the majority to prepare for a downward revision.

The rapidity of the fall in United States Steel preferred has opened up a fairly wide gap between it and some of the other industrial preferred issues which until a year or so ago looked like fixtures in the triple "A" rating class. The senior stocks of American Can and Corn Products with Steel preferred used to be considered by brokers as the gilt edge trinity of the preferred group. That Can and Corn Products are still holding a shade above par is due to the fact that earnings cover the dividends by an ample margin, whereas the Steel Corporation is expected to have a lot of difficulty in showing any substantial earnings for the preferred stock under the present rate of production and sales.

"I have every reason to believe that the present dividend will be continued," said Thomas H. McInnerney, president of the National Dairy Products Corporation, at the annual meeting. "Our February sales showed an upward trend, but March returns were affected by bad weather and will not be as large as the previous month. We have retired $1,000,000 debentures in the last month. Another reduction in milk prices is possible this summer."

Henry A. Scanderett, president of the St. Paul Railroad, said today that April gross revenues were running about as far behind 1931 as they did in March. "We look for a small ore movement this year," he said, "for steel operations are low and there are large stocks of ore on hand." The road has purchased 14,000 tons of rails or enough for its 1932 needs.

At the annual meeting of Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company, J. C. Maxwell was elected a director, succeeding Robert C. Roam. While no official statement covering operations of the company since the annual report was issued for the year 1931 was made, it was informally stated that the improvement in prices in the oil business had turned the tide of earnings for the company and that operations had shown a profit for at least 60 days.

Pacific Coast Oil Stocks Decrease

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—(AP.)— Daily average crude oil production in California in March was 502,449 barrels compared with 504,030 in February. Stocks of all products held by principal marketing companies in Pacific Coast territory totaled 170,488,987 barrels at the end of March, a decrease of 1,093,203 barrels during the month.

Greece Reported Off Gold Standard

LONDON, April 21.—(INS.)— The Greek cabinet decided today to abandon the gold standard, said an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens.

Forbes

Peeps Behind Stockholders' Lists of Today

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE PUBLIC is beginning to get peeps behind stock curtains. It doesn't relish the disclosures.

Mr. Forbes

Figures published this week reveal that U. S. Steel Corporation directors lightened their total stock holdings last year. The more influential directors, as a rule, were the heaviest sellers.

Now come equally interesting facts concerning American Telephone and Telegraph stock ownership. Briefly, investors owning upwards of 1,000 shares each threw 200,000 shares on the market last year, whereas holders of smaller blocks purchased 677,000 shares. Last quarter alone liquidation by these big holders reached 180,000 shares, which were taken, we are told, principally by buyers of less than 100-share lots.

Admittedly many wealthy men carry securities in names of other members of their family or secretaries or trust company employes. Washington is apparently amazed and chagrined to find that the principal bears operated under other names. This is an old Wall street custom. It affords no real protection, however, when official probers are in earnest to delve into the concealed identities. The chances, therefore, are that names of powerful bears will be ferreted out.

MY ADVICE to all directors and executives of corporations whose stocks have been sold to the public is:

"Have every share you own put into your own name and your holdings recorded on the official stockholders' list."

I hear that a lot of stockholders' lists are going to be gone over with a fine-tooth comb for the purpose of making the facts public. The public is in no mood to applaud directors and executives who are shown up as having jettisoned their stocks at higher prices on trusting investors of modest means.

Knowing what I do about the present temper of people throughout the continent, I know it would be wise for men elected to control publicly-financed organizations to appear openly on the records as having a substantial stake in their own companies.

If any of our financial or industrial or railway or utility leaders doubt the prevalence of ugly sentiment, I'd be glad to show them a few samples of the many communications which pour into this column.

SCHWAB'S AFTER-DINNER remark, "There are no rich men left in America," is far nearer the truth—very far nearer the truth—than most people imagine.

Australia Hails Home-Produced Gasoline

SYDNEY, Australia, April 21.—(AP.)— Hailed as an epoch-making development, the first consignment of Australian gasoline from shale-oil fields at Newnes in Western New South Wales has arrived here and is for sale at about 44 cents a gallon, or 4 cents cheaper than American spirit.

The initial output of the Newnes shale field is 25,000 gallons weekly, with 200,000 gallon reserve potential production.

STOCK MARKET RISES AFTER EARLY DIP

Numerous Gains of 1 to 4 Appear; Further Strength Shown in Bond Prices

NEW YORK, April 21—(AP.)—The securities markets were stimulated today by further signs of world-wide cheapening of credit.

Stocks slipped a little for a time in the morning, coincident with selling of some of the oils, but quickly recovered showing numerous gains of 1 to 4 points. Further strength of bonds, most directly affected by cheapening credit, was helpful to shares.

Royal Dutch was a weak feature dropping about 2 points coincident with weakness in foreign markets. Standard of New Jersey declined about a point. The remainder of the list was but momentarily affected, however. A bullish demonstration developed in the New York tractions which rose about 2 to 4 points. Public Service of New Jersey, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco "B" and Eastman advanced 3 or more and issues up a point or so included American Can, National Biscuit, Consolidated Gas, Union Pacific, United States Steel, American Telephone, North American, Santa Fe, New York Central and Southern Pacific.

The reduction of the Bank of England's discount rate to 3 per cent from 3½ led to the belief in some quarters that the expected cut in the New York Reserve bank's rate, now at 3 per cent, might be announced after the close of today's market. While reductions in the rediscount rate have frequently left the stock market cold, bankers pointed out that coupled with an aggressive open market reserve policy, such as is now in progress, lowering money rates become distinctly more impressive.

In other words, it is one thing for the Reserve to mark down the price of credit, then sit and wait for the demand to develop, and quite another not only to mark down the price but at the same time actively pump it into the open market by buying government securities. It was pointed out that a 3 per cent rediscount rate was quite out of line with the open market. Outside call money was offered at 1½ per cent, and short-term acceptances were quoted at 1⅛ per cent bid.

The selling of Royal Dutch, which was also weak yesterday, was attributed to forecasts of adverse dividend action. The selling of Standard of New Jersey from time to time lately has looked like liquidation of loan collateral, but has been accompanied by rather bearish estimates of the showing to be made in the annual report due in May. The numerous bull demonstrations in the New York tractions in recent months have been based on rumors of progress toward unification, or in the campaign for higher fares.

Government Offers $50,000,000 Issue

WASHINGTON, April 21—(INS)—Bids were asked today on a new issue of Treasury bills amounting to approximately $50,000,000, to be put on the market April 27, when an issue of about the same amount matures, Secretary Mills announced today. The bills will be sold on a discount basis.

Refinancing for the remainder of the fiscal year will amount to nearly $900,000,000, while new issues will considerably exceed that amount. It was expected that the total debt turnover for the year would total about $16,000,000,000, with an increase in the debt of about $2,000,000,000.

May List American Shares at Paris

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP.)—Some Wall street brokerage houses were of the opinion that the listing of French dollar bonds on the Paris Bourse might be the forerunner of a movement to list American stocks there also.

American shares, especially mining issues, had an active market at Paris prior to the World War, but during the subsequent period of violent exchange fluctuations this trading virtually disappeared.

Expect Poor 1931 Showing by Jersey

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP.)—The 1931 report of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is expected to be announced about May 15. Not alone the heavy selling of the stock over the last few months or two, but also the obvious facts in regard to oil industry conditions through the year have prepared Wall street for an unimpressive showing.

QUIET TRADING ON LOCAL BOARD

Stocks Drift in Narrow Range, With Volume of Transactions Reduced

Trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange dwindled almost to the vanishing point in today's early market, but expanded a little in the later dealings under the influence of the rise in the New York list. Prices remained very narrow. Improvement on the "big board" was attributed to technical conditions within the market as well as credit factors, among which were the reduction in bank acceptance rates and a confident feeling that the New York Reserve Bank rate would be cut late today.

The Street is uncertain as to just what is to be expected from the quiz of the big bears in Washington. How the information obtained there will affect prices at the moment is entirely a matter of conjecture and the trading fraternity candidly admits it does not know what course to pursue even when the anticipated information is forthcoming.

WHEAT SLIDES AFTER RISE

CHICAGO, April 21.—Grain values averaged higher early today, influenced by bullish aspects of an authoritative unofficial crop summary covering wheat conditions from Texas to Nebraska. Notice was also taken of estimates putting the Canadian wheat carry-over at 104,000,000 bushels, the smallest since 1928 and 30,000,000 bushels less than July 31, 1931. Opening unchanged at ¼ up, wheat afterward sagged somewhat. Corn started unchanged to ⅛ off and subsequently kept near the initial limits.

Giving an advantage at times to wheat bears were suggestions of showery conditions over the West and Southwest. Bears put some stress also on the fact that the Black Sea shipments of wheat this week were 336,000 bushels larger than the week previous, and that enlarged shipments were forecast from Argentina. It was asserted that the amount of domestic winter wheat abandoned this year would be certainly larger than the 1,610,000 acres abandoned in 1931 and nearer to the 5,014,000 acres abandoned in 1930 or the 3,343,000 in 1929.

A leading Chicago crop expert just returned from a western and southwestern trip said that from northern sections of the Texas panhandle northward into Nebraska he found 75 to 100 per cent damage in 4,000,000 acres.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.

Canadian Wheat Carryover Shrinks

OTTAWA, April 21.—The Canadian Bureau of Statistics estimates Canadian wheat carryover at 104,000,000 bushels, the smallest since 1928 and about 30,000,000 bushels less than July 31, 1931.

The bureau describes the European market as broader than at any time during the present crop year. World wheat requirements for the remainder of the crop year are placed at 225,000,000 to 235,000,000 bushels.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

CENTRAL BUYS MORE D., L. & W.

New York Central Railroad acquired $1,225,000 par value of Delaware, Lackawanna and Western stock last year, bringing its total holdings to $7,791,250 par value. The Central has reduced its holdings in both classes of Reading Company preferred stock. At the end of 1930 Central held $6,840,000 par value of Reading first preferred and $15,015,000 of the second preferred stock. These amounts have been cut to $2,490,000 of first preferred and $4,525,000 of second preferred, both par value. The stock disposed of by Central is understood to have been taken by the Baltimore and Ohio, which now owns more than 50 per cent of the Reading Company stock.

EXPANDS SANTA FE HOLDINGS

Morgan Turner & Co., nominee for the Corporate Trust Shares and other interests, continues to hold the top place in the list of Santa Fe Railroad stockholders with 41,173 shares, compared with 28,552 shares at the end of 1930. Barnes & Co. held 17,942 shares and the Rockefeller Foundation 21,944 shares, both holdings being substantially unchanged from 1930.

NEW WARREN DIRECTORS

President Gow of Warren Bros. stated that so far as the company could see ahead its earnings this year would be ample to cover bond interest. A. E. C. Burland and R. W. Price have been elected directors, succeeding Edward C. Delafield and J. H. Lippincott.

STEEN HEADS WHITE DENTAL

Fred E. Steen, vice president and treasurer of White Dental Manufacturing Company, has been elected president, succeeding Charles Henderson, resigned.

LONDON BANK RATE CUT

LONDON, April 21.—(AP.)—The bank rate was reduced today from 3½ to 3 per cent.

With the budget details completed, it was announced the bank was able to make this further move for cheaper money in the hope of checking the influx of foreign money for short-term investment. This influx already had caused a rise in sterling exchange to the point where it was handicapping exporters.

Market men generally expressed the belief that gradually lowering the bank rate would divert short-term money to long-term securities and facilitate conversion operations.

LONDON, April 21.—The Bank of Ireland has reduced it discount rate to 4 per cent from 4½ per cent.

'Cotton Belt' Offer Favored by Holders

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP.)—St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company officials are said to be expecting a practically unanimous acceptance by holders of the 4 per cent consolidated mortgage bonds of the road's offer to meet the June 1 maturity.

The largest individual holder is the Rockefeller Foundation of New York City, which has bonds of the maturing issue worth at par $2,096,000. Another Rockefeller institution, the General Education Board, holds $503,000 of the bonds.

ACCEPTANCES CUT AGAIN

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP.)—Bankers' acceptance dealers have adjusted their bill rates, the reduction from yesterday's quotations amounting to ⅛ of 1 per cent on all maturities, the new rates equalling the previous record lows.

The new bill rates are:

Kinner Airplane Offers New Rights

LOS ANGELES, April 21.—Warrants will be issued by Kinner Airplane and Motors Corporation, Ltd., to stockholders of record May 4 to purchase an additional issue of 99,067 shares no par capital stock at $1 a share on the basis of one new share for each two shares of old stock held. Warrants expire June 4. Funds from sale of stock will be used to liquidate debts.

Cotton Spindle Activity Declines

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Preliminary census figures show that 32,024,032 cotton spindles were in place in the United States on March 31, of which 24,818,000 were operated at some time during the month, compared with 25,180,748 for February, 25,013,750 for January and 26,504,132 for March, 1931.

PITT IN RELAYS

SHEA TO TEST SPRINT HOPES SATURDAY

By JESS CARVER

Pitt will have a pair of relay teams in Philadelphia next week for the Penn relays, but their makeup will all depend on how fast the boys lift their tootsies in the dual meet with the Ohio State here Saturday afternoon.

The Panther relay possibilities appear rather hot this spring. Coach Frank Shea has a fine quartet of dash men in Capt. Len Monheim, Bill Keller, Mike Milligan and Woody Adams and two really first-class middle-distancers in Rob Roy, the old Comeback Kid himself, and Jimmy Watkins. Both will go in the 800-meter event against Ohio State and if they show any speed at all one or the other will run in the medley at Philadelphia.

Oh yes, big John Valenti, one-half size smaller than a truck, will get a chance to toss the shot at the Penn carnival if he can get it away from him here day after tomorrow. The chances are that John will outdo himself against the Bucks, for John's home is in Philadelphia and there is nothing, at least hardly anything, he'd rather do than show off before the home folks next week.

Pitt officials are busy making arrangements to handle a perfect whopper of an entry for the silver anniversary of the University of Pittsburgh Interscholastic Track and Field championship meet on May 7.

It is unfortunate that the Geneva interscholastic meet falls on the same day, for the galaxy of star high school track and field performers in this territory that might be attracted to either meet will be split. Geneva also expects a near-record entry. Someone, it looks like, is going to wind up stung.

The lineup of the Pitt golf team which will open the 1932 local season Saturday over the Highland course against Duquesne has been announced by Regis Wolff, player, coach and captain of the Panthers.

Crawford Defeats Gledhill in Final

HONOLULU, April 21.—(AP)—Jack Crawford, Australian net star, won the men's singles title in the Mid-Pacific invitation tennis tournament yesterday, defeating Keith Gledhill, national intercollegiate champion, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, in the final round.

The victory gave the Australian a clean sweep of the men's events, Crawford and Harry Hopman having won the doubles yesterday.

Gledhill's home is in Santa Barbara, Cal.

GOLFERS MEET TONIGHT

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

James Roy Dunn, Oakmont lawyer and former collegiate football star, tonight will be formally elected to the presidency of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association at the annual confab to be held at the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. A dinner will precede the business meeting.

F. F. Rohrer

Robert W. Smith, of Greensburgh and Hannastown, is to be elevated to the vice presidency, while the popular duo, George A. Ormiston, of Oakmont, secretary, and James W. Barber, of Alcoma, treasurer, are to be re-elected.

Dates will be set permanently or tentatively for virtually all of the district's major tourneys.

F. F. Rohrer, Edgewood Country Club president, wants it made plain that anyone, regardless of club affiliation, who wishes to contribute $1 to the project may play in the Family-Help-Family Fund tourney to be held at Edgewood Saturday and Sunday. Play begins at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

Season permits for the County Parks went on sale yesterday at the city office for the parks, 301 City Office Building.

Tomorrow the Interscholastic Golf Conference stages its initial matches of the season. In Section I, Taylor Allderdice goes to Shady Side Academy and Wilkinsburg plays Sewickley at the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. Country Club. In Section II, Carrick plays Peabody, either at Alcoma or Stanton Heights, while McKeesport opposes Oliver at Highland. Bellevue encounters Kiski at Kiski in Section II Saturday.

BENEFIT POLO FRAY CARDED

A polo game for the benefit of the Family-Help-Family movement will be played a week from this Saturday in the Hunt Armory, East End, between the Vang trio and a lineup of all-stars, to be selected from the members of the local indoor polo league.

The entire gate and program receipts will be turned over to the relief fund. Tickets may be purchased through George Vang, 3110 Frick Building, or Col. Clinton T. Bundy, at the Hunt Armory.

EASIER CREDIT NOT YET FELT IN TRADE

Federal Reserve Policy Slow in Percolating to Businessman and Farmer

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, April 21.—Thus far, the program of credit easement has not yet percolated down to the businessman and the farmer.

As a matter of fact, the alarmingly rapid shrinkage of member bank credit, as revealed in statistics of loans and investments of reporting banks continued for the week ended April 13, when a further reduction of $115,000,000 was recorded.

Mr. Rukeyser

Accordingly, on account of the time lag, there has been no indication yet of benefit to business from the new Federal Reserve policy, which, if carried to its logical conclusion, should arrest the shrinkage in the circulating medium. In six weeks, the Federal Reserve, by proceeding at last week's rate of purchases of government bonds in the open market, could create a condition in which the whole debt of member banks to the central banking system would be effaced. Then further central banking expansion ought to be reflected in gains in loans and investments of member banks.

There is much potential bullish significance in the determination of the central banking authorities to war against deflation. The central banking attitude would have already been reflected in greater venturesomeness in lending on the part of member banks, if the financial psychology were not so engulfed in gloom. Confidence is needed to make use of the new credit potentialities.

LOANS NEEDED

While keeping up its expansion program, the Federal Reserve should seek to induce member banks to pass along the benefits to their clients. This entails greater willingness to accommodate other than prime borrowers. As long as banks in general are racing emotionally toward abnormal liquidity, no individual bank feels safe in bucking the trend. Accordingly, it should be the role of leadership to induce all banks to pursue a new credit policy. My suggestion is for a round robin agreement, modeled after the German standstill agreement, whereby participating banks will agree to increase their total loans and investments during the next six months by a specified amount—perhaps 5 per cent.

The manager of the Pittsburgh office of a Middle Western equipment manufacturer, in commenting on my recent radio broadcast over a network of 54 stations, said:

"Your 16 points seem more feasible than any plan presented so far. I would like to see some presidential candidate adopt your plan in its entirety. It would be a sure, firm platform."

MURDER OF THE NIGHT CLUB LADY :-: :-: By ANTHONY ABBOT

Best Detectives Available Begin Investigations In Strange Case

CHAPTER XIII

It was Flynn who greeted Colt and Dougherty. In three or four sentences the Police Commissioner condensed all that had happened in the last few hours. Flynn listened with one eye closed, and with grizzled hands on the shoulders of his two companions, Inspector Lengel, in command of the six detective districts of Manhattan, and Capt. Wilson, from the local precinct.

Synopsis

Despite the police guard placed in her home by Commissioner Colt, Lola Carewe, suspected "higher-up" of a jewel thief ring, is mysteriously murdered. Dr. Hugh Baldwin gives heart failure as the cause of death. Those present at the time besides Colt and his aides were Lola's mother, Mrs. Carewe, the butler, maid and Vincent Rowland, an attorney. Colt feels the young man whose photograph adorns Lola's dresser—and whose identity she refused to reveal beyond his first name, "Basil"—is connected with the mystery. At the mention of his name Mrs. Carewe becomes hysterical, saying Basil was a cruel beast and Lola never loved him. Christine Quires, Lola's guest, cannot be located though the elevator boy claims she returned around midnight with her escort, Guy Everett, and Colt found the bag she carried. Colt 'phones Everett's apartment after 3 a. m. and learn Everett has not arrived. A clue in the form of a small wooden box is picked up under Lola's window. Chung, the butler, reveals that Everett had threatened Lola and that Rowland, the lawyer, warned her she was playing a dangerous game and would be caught. Assistant Chief Inspector Flynn, in charge of the detective force, arrives.

Now Go On

"Better get right to work," grunted Flynn at the close of Colt's synopsis. The inspector turned toward the living room door where his men were congregated.

One group of operatives had brought along three portable flood lamps which now, at Flynn's barked orders, they carried out to the terrace. One was taken to the roof. Soon the outer porches blazed with flames of white light through which the wet snowflakes danced madly. The search around the terrace and roof was being resumed with dogged determination. Meanwhile Flynn was putting the rest of his crew to work.

EXPERTS GET BUSY

Among the new arrivals I discerned several that I knew, including Dr. J. I. Multooler, the Assistant Medical Examiner. In the group were also half a dozen plainclothes men from the Borough Homicide Squad, a stenographer and an extra camera man. It was from this assemblage that Flynn called next for two of his expert operatives.

With business-like rapidity these two got to work. Fred Merkle, photographer, was taken directly to the guest-room where he set up his camera and soon the dark chamber of death flared with the lightning gleams of the latest model magnesium flash-light gun. Photographs of Lola Carewe were being taken from all angles, the prints later to be studied by detectives, made a part of the records and produced by Dougherty in the court-room if anyone ever was to be tried for the death of this unfortunate woman. The body was lifted from the bed and placed back in the position it occupied when found. Colt's eyes unfailingly picked out the rug-pattern signs he had memorized.

At the same time Williams, the finger-print wizard from the Bureau of Criminal Identification, was smearing black ink on a glass slab taken from his kit and smoothing it down with a roller. As soon as Merkle was through taking his pictures Williams would ink the fingers and thumb of the victim and make impression records. This is an inevitable and routine precaution in all homicide cases and often is of immeasurable consequence in the solution of crimes.

DETECTIVES ASSIGNED

Again Colt and Flynn conferred. Here the lines of a long, thorough and determined investigation were laid down. Rapidly Colt explained the collateral circumstances of the last few hours, the personalities involved and the need for more information concerning them. One by one detectives were called to Flynn's side and dispatched on assignments to delve into the past life histories of persons Colt considered important. Johnston, the red-haired first-grade detective, was sent off to learn all that could be found out about Lowell Courtleigh, the elevator boy, while his partner, Simpson, was detailed to question every other tenant in the apartment house to learn if anyone else had seen Christine Quires' return or knew any fact that would shed light on our problem. To Winkler, of the homicide squad, went the task of uncovering the past of the butler Chung; here the Commissioner stated specially that he wanted the records from the immigration authorities together with any information obtainable from the Chinese consulate in New York City and the Chinese legation in Washington. Fegler was detailed to scout the brief life of Eunice, the maid. But Colt did not stop with the members of the Carewe household. Jamieson, of the homicide squad, was detailed to find out what was worth knowing of Dr. Hugh Baldwin. Ericsson was assigned to uncover the inner history of Vincent Rowland, and Ericsson was the man for the job; he had amazing secret contacts, while three other operatives, led by Detective Harris, were told to get every crumb and scrap of information possible about Lola Carewe and her family, including in her case too the immigration records.

Colt had still not finished his preliminary assignments. When all the detectives thus detailed had gone off upon their errands, Thatcher Colt summoned Detective Walker, one of the cleverest sleuths on the homicide squad. Into Walker's hands the commissioner entrusted the wooden box with its cotton lining and splintered sliding lid, found in the snow.

"Walker," explained Thatcher Colt, "this box is used to contain certain kinds of medical laboratory specimens. Cover the supply houses. See what you can get. Report to me personally on this."

"Okay, chief!" grinned Walker and hurried off. It was the middle of the night, but Walker would not wait; soon he would be routing laboratory supply dealers out of their warm sheets and firing questions at them.

Meanwhile Thatcher Colt, after a whispered conference with Flynn, called aside Dr. Multooler. The assistant medical examiner, famous for his clever deductions in many murder cases, was tall, ruddy-faced, with the pink bulb nose and small twinkling eyes of a stage comedian. Multooler had the soul of a poet condemned to a life-long daily diet of post-mortems. The autopsist was here now for only a regulation preliminary examination. As soon as Thatcher Colt gave the word Multooler would order the body of Lola Carewe sent to the morgue at Bellevue and there fall to work upon it in his own gruesome quest for facts.

BODY EXAMINED

To Dr. Multooler Colt briefly explained the situation, adding:

"Now, doctor, I do not expect you to perform an autopsy in the penthouse. But I would like to have you make as complete an examination as possible at once. If you can get hold of anything that will throw some light on this problem I shall be grateful to you. And, doctor, have the autopsy performed immediately afterward."

Doctor Multooler gave a helpless look at the ceiling.

"All right," he promised. "There goes my New Year's party, but I'll promise to have the findings at your breakfast table."

Two minutes afterward the assistant medical examiner began to remove the clothing from the body of Lola Carewe.

Meanwhile, under Colt's crisp orders, a dozen other police energies were being released. One detective was dispatched at once to the Aston Club, there to wait for the arrival of Guy Everett, the actor, who had been the last escort of Christine Quires.

Colt continued:

"It may look like we're moving too fast before the autopsy results are known, but we dare not waste time. There have been three strange deaths in this penthouse—a dog, a parrot and a girl. After the body is taken away I want the place searched for a third time by the whole crew to find out if Christine Quires is hiding here."

"Just what I was about to suggest," approved Dougherty.

Colt hastened on:

"Get all of Lola Carewe's private papers that are in the apartment. Samples of Lola's handwriting without fail. And samples of any others you find. Especially Christine Quires!"

That meant that when the word was given Center street ferrets would be let loose in the apartment. By mathematical formula they would set out to account for every cubic inch of space within the penthouse walls.

Meanwhile Colt was again conferring with Flynn and Dougherty about the next move.

"Never overlook those death threats against Lola," he reminded them. "Let's get on with rounding up the household."

A moment later Thatcher Colt was seated opposite Eunice, the maid, whose stricken eyes gazed passively up at the Commissioner.

Eunice was a frightened squirrel of a girl. Shock had left her quaking in every muscle, tongue-tied and with roving eyes that suggested a trapped animal. She answered the questions put to her by Colt with nods and gulps. Her full name was Eunice Theresa James. She lived with her parents in an address in Staten Island, but since coming with Lola Carewe she had remained in the pent-house, a permanent part of the menage. Her duties were those of a lady's maid. She was deeply attached to her mistress. Lola Carewe had been very kind to her. She was paid $30 a week, with her room and board, and received many discarded gowns and other perquisites which she made over for herself. She had not seen Christine Quires since her departure with her escort. She had not been out of the house all day, and had spent the evening in her room sewing on a dress that Lola had given her. She declared she knew nothing whatever that might shed any light on the crime.

Shock had left Lola's maid quaking in every muscle.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Dicky Gets Angry at Mention of Hugh Grantland's Name

Dicky did not leave us in doubt for more than a second of his reaction to Lillian's reminder that Hugh Grantland was still interested in me. He was angry.

He bowed and went out of the room, shutting the door after him with decision.

I turned to Lillian reproachfully.

"Why in the world did you tell him that?"

She looked at me with kindly but quizzical eyes.

"It's very simple," she said. "It's simply a matter of gentling the lad. If he's going to froth at the mouth every time he hears Hugh Grantland's name mentioned it's going to hamper our style a lot. And he is mighty likely not only to hear the name mentioned but to see the possessor of the name several times shortly if I'm calling the play correctly."

"You mean—" I said breathlessly, "that you think Hugh and Lee Chow may be nearby?"

"Not nearby," she said. "If they were our troubles would be over. Can't you imagine what Lee Chow would do to that bunch of cut throats, including Samuel Brixton, Esq.?"

"Forgive me for being so dense," I pleaded. "But I didn't know you thought Sam Brixton was in league with the Chinese."

FEAR LEE CHOW

"I don't think so," she retorted. "Those Chinese who battered up the messenger would be keener to have a go at Sam than would Lee Chow himself. For they evidently are on the track of something that Sam looted from them, or his friend—" her voice dragged on the last word, and I knew that she was thinking of Marion's father who so nearly wrecked her life with his injustice and his cruelty.

"Lee Chow doesn't have to be at hand in order to put the fear of God into the organization opposed to him," she went on. "Evidently if there's just a rumor that he is absent it sets them milling around in circles. What they would do if he ever got near enough to take a hand makes my imagination rejoice."

She looked over at me with a steady speculative gaze that made me vaguely uneasy.

"After all, we can only conjecture as to what the Chinese will do, but we do know how Dicky will react against any ordinary situation. Therefore, as I said before, it's best to prepare him gradually for Hugh's appearance on the scene. I purposely told him of the messenger's spiel about Lee Chow's fiend worrying over your pitty face spoiled so that Dicky could get some of the stored-up venom out of his system before Hugh arrives. I shall repeat the dose as often as I think the patient requires it, and I think I shall have him pretty well toward convalescence by the time Hugh gets here."

I reflected a little grimly that even Lillian did not guess how much of venom toward Hugh Grantland was concealed in Dicky's system, but I, naturally, made no comment, simply smiled and nodded. Whether she thought I fully agreed with her, or deemed it unwise to discuss Dicky further, she suddenly changed the subject.

CONCERNED ABOUT PLAY

"Enough of psychology," she said with a little grin. "How much did you say there was left of that fourth act revision to do?"

"Two hours, scant, then it will be ready for the typist."

"Then take my advice and tumble into bed as quickly as you can so that you can get up in the morning and attack it while you are fresh. I'm anxious to see the last line finished so that no matter what emergency comes up it will be ready to deliver to Phil when he comes for it. Is there anything I can do for you besides making sure that you get up in time?"

"You don't need to do that," I told her. "I have a perfectly good alarm clock."

"Which doesn't always alarm you sufficiently to get you out of bed," she retorted. "Set it by all means, but I'll check up on it. What time do you want to get up?"

"Not before you do," I told her.

"You know me, lady," she grinned. "I unclose my dewy violet eyes at 5:30 every morning, no matter whether school keeps or not. I don't always get up at that time, but I'd just as soon, for I'm wide awake and you've known me, woman and girl, come Michaelmas, for enough years so that you ought to recognize my faculty of going back to sleep no matter how often I'm interrupted."

Face, Neck and Back Covered With Pimples. Cuticura Healed.

"My face, neck and back were covered with pimples for over twelve months. The pimples were large and hard and festered. They burned when I put my hands near them, and my clothing bothered the eruptions on my back. I could not sleep on my back on account of the eruptions.

"I used other remedies but without success. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in two months I was completely healed, after using four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Alex V. Sofka, Box 35, Hellertown, Pa., June 24, 1931.

The Seventh Metropolis

The Next Legislature Will Be Expected to Improve Pittsburgh's Prestige as a Great City.

The Census Bureau's final report on the 96 metropolitan districts of the United States has just been issued. It ranks Pittsburgh as seventh in size—behind New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Boston and Detroit, but ahead of St. Louis and Cleveland, both of which have greater population within their city limits than we.

Pittsburgh's showing is not bad, though there are those who think if we received our just deserts we would get a higher rating. The Census Bureau uses density of population as the yardstick for measuring metropolitan districts. There are some other factors that might also be considered; if they were the Pittsburgh metropolitan district would be larger.

The Chamber of Commerce committee on metropolitan area is studying the subject, with a view to recommending to the Census Bureau a more satisfactory measuring stick for use when the next census is taken.

But the most effective way in which Pittsburgh can improve its prestige as a great city is by making the municipal boundaries co-terminous with those of Allegheny County. The next Legislature can do something to promote the plan, and will be expected to do so.

As things stand now, the constitutional amendment for a Greater Pittsburgh passed by the Legislature at its regular session last year must be passed in identical form at the session next year, also. It will go before the people of the entire state in the fall of 1933. If approved, the Legislature of 1935 will be called upon to adopt a new charter, which can be submitted to the people of Allegheny County the same year.

Under the plan all of Allegheny County can be taken into the city by a majority vote of a majority of the municipalities.

If the project is carried through, Pittsburgh will receive in the next census the recognition to which it is entitled.

But if the Legislature of 1933 fails to act there will be another long delay.

Although it has attracted little attention, the Metropolitan Plan is really one of the issues of the present campaign, since the members of the Legislature to be nominated next Tuesday will pass on it.

To Ease the Tax Burden

Legislative Candidates on the "Independent Republican" Ticket Have Some Good Ideas.

Calling attention to the great number of unemployed persons who are delinquent in their taxes and face the loss of their homes in consequence, the candidates for the Legislature on the "Independent Republican" ticket have adopted a resolution proposing various changes in the tax regulations to ease the burden.

There is merit in much that they advocate.

They suggest, for example, that the tax collecting authorities be authorized to accept partial payments on delinquent taxes. Under the existing law there is no provision for the installment system.

It is further recommended that the 10 per cent penalty on delinquent taxes be abolished and the interest rate established at one-half of 1 per cent the first month and an additional one-half of 1 per cent for each succeeding month until a maximum of 6 per cent has been reached. An interest rate in excess of 6 per cent is usurious, and there is no good reason why the state should charge more.

Permitting the delinquents to pay off their back taxes in installments and limiting the interest rate to a reasonable figure would inflict no hardship on the state or the municipalities, but would encourage those who are behind in their taxes to try to pay them and thus save their property and save the state or municipality from the trouble of trying to dispose of it.

On With the Trial!

The Public Will Be Glad to Know That Mayor Kline Will Not Seek Another Change of Venue.

After the arrests were made on the charge that prospective jurors in the case of Mayor Kline had been tampered with, one of his attorneys remarked that there was now greater reason for seeking another change of venue than when the case was transferred from Allegheny County to Butler.

However that may have been, the public would have been disappointed if application for another change had been made, since it would have involved more delay, more expense, in this already unduly delayed and expensive affair.

Justice comes first, to be sure; but since there is no good ground for believing that the case can be tried more fairly elsewhere or at another time than at Butler beginning with May 2, the date set, the announcement that Kline and Succop will be ready to proceed there and then will be received with satisfaction.

It has been hard on the city of Pittsburgh and hard on the defendants to have to wait for months for a disposition of this case. It will be a relief to all to have it over with, whatever the outcome.

Necessary Expenditure

The Commonwealth Cannot Afford to Delay Construction Of the Pittsburgh Psychiatric Hospital.

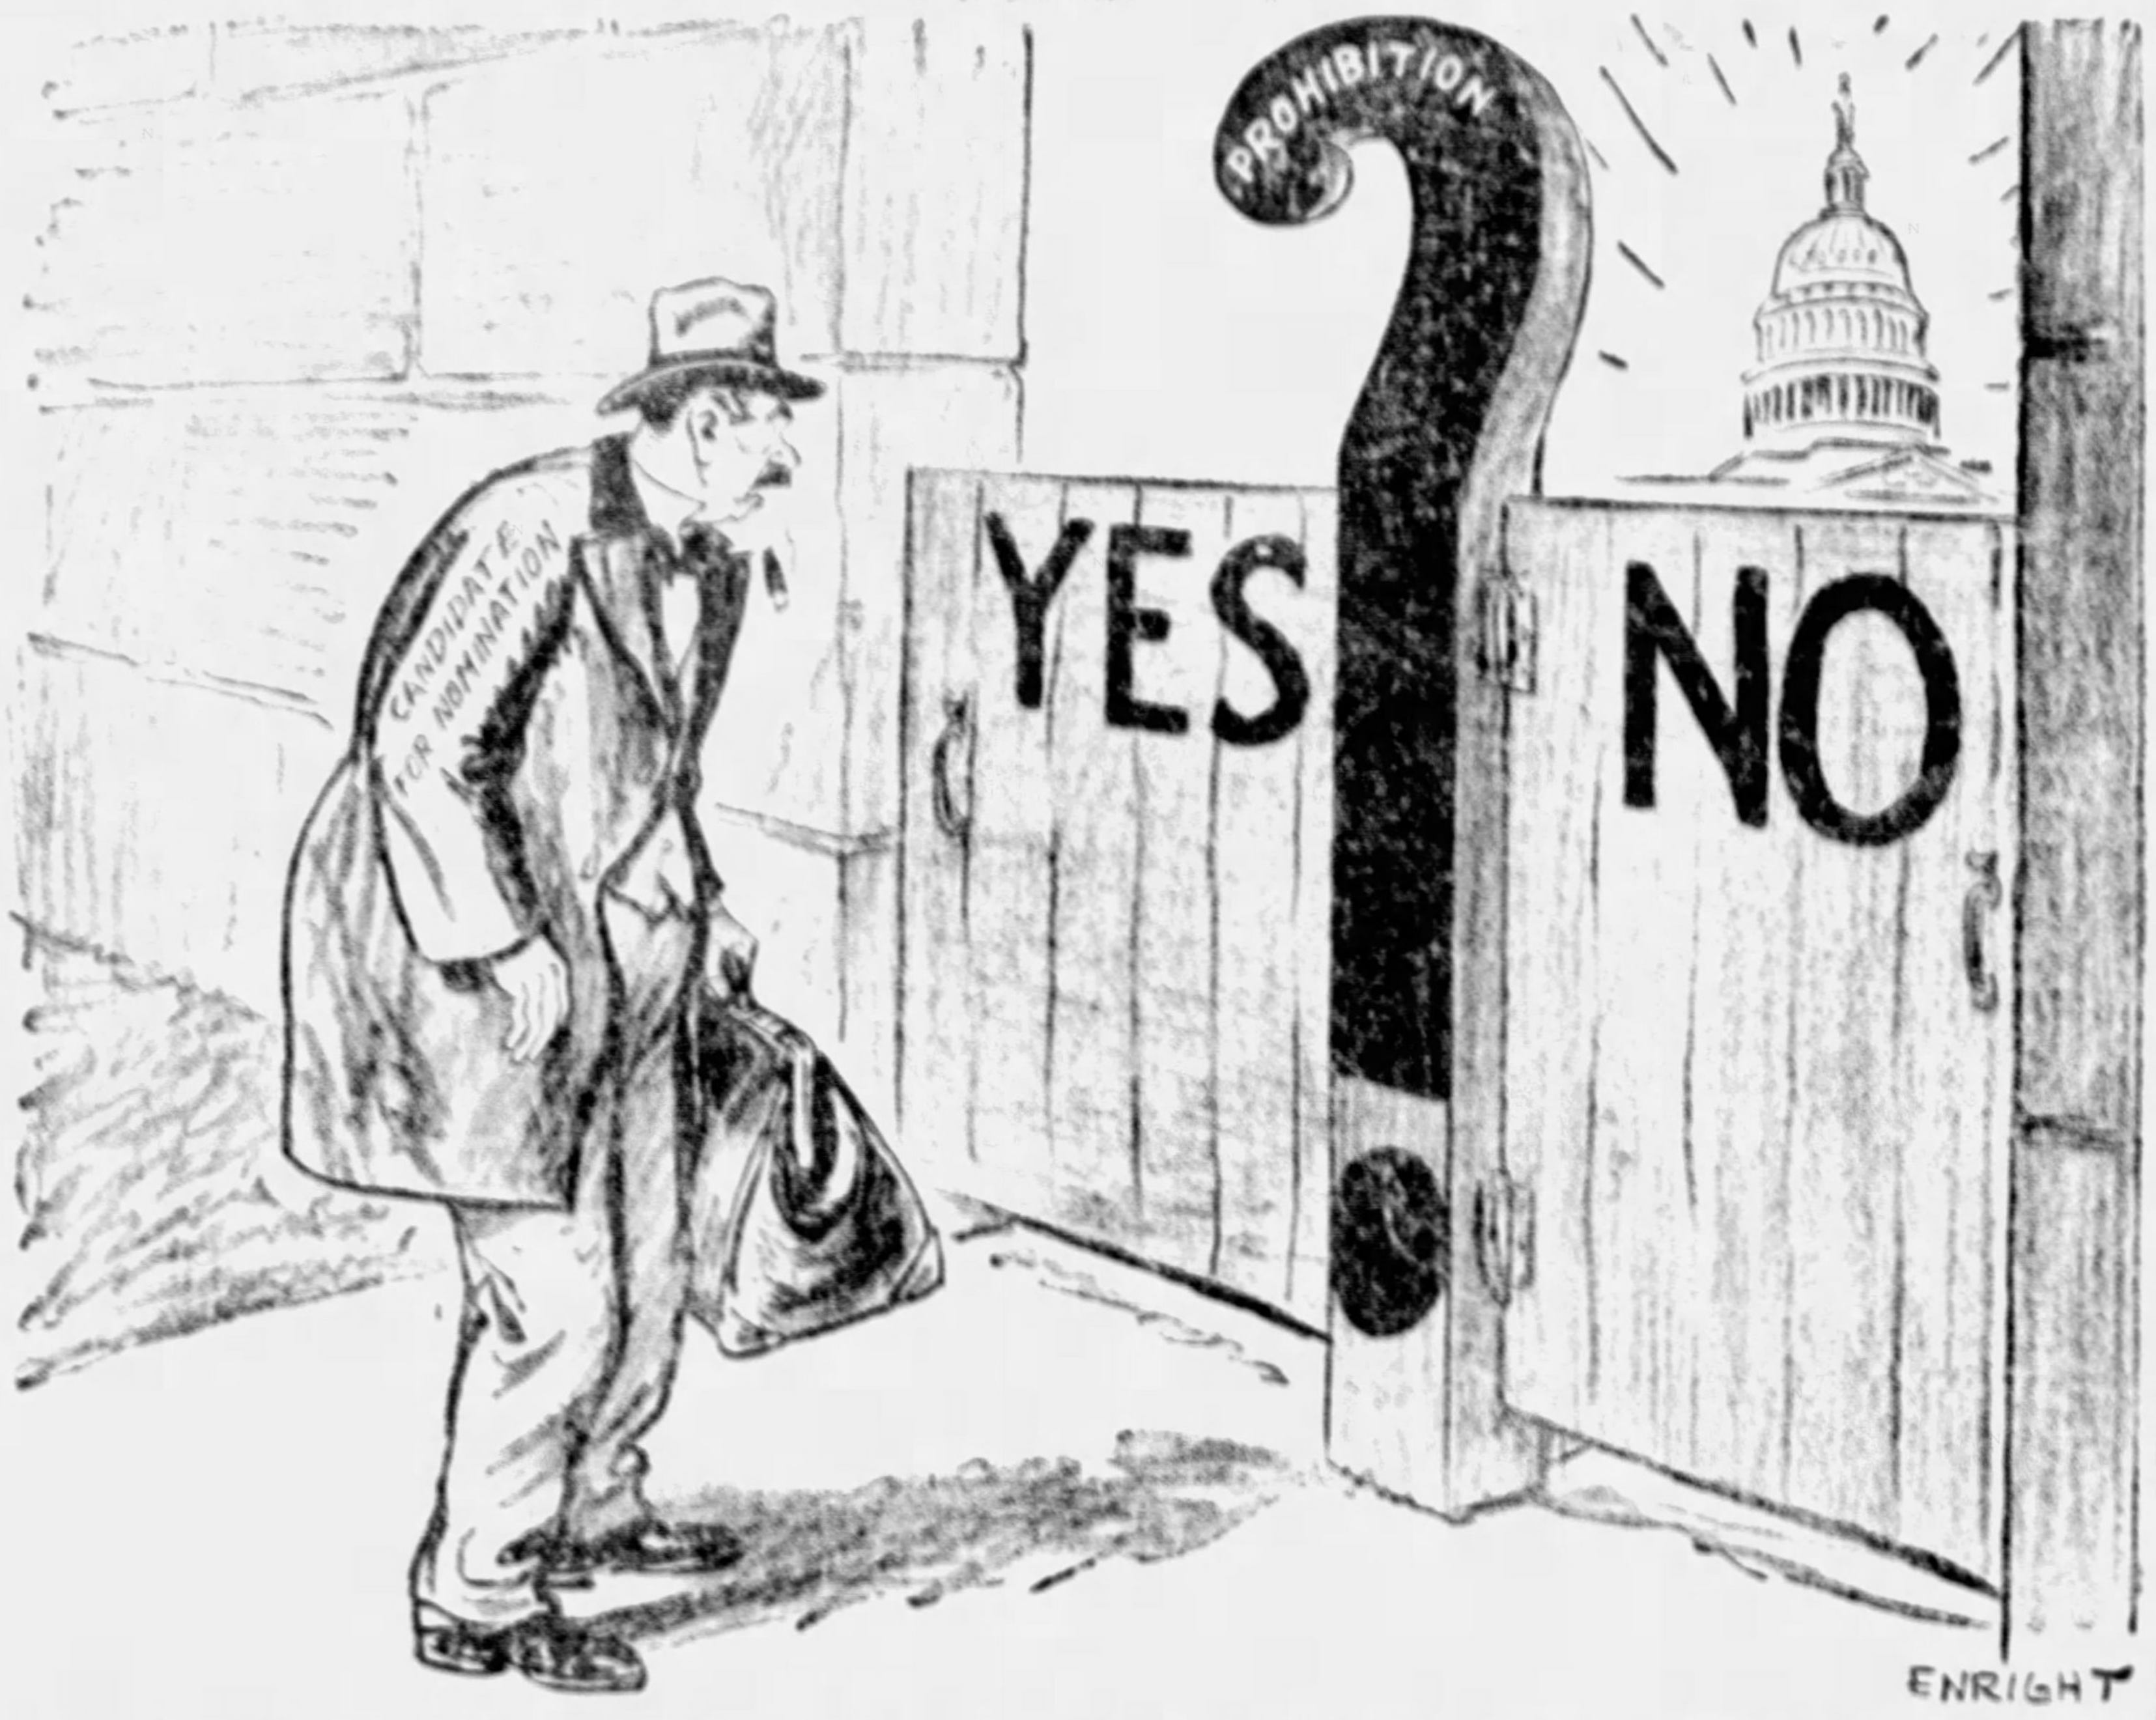
Now that the University of Pittsburgh has formally transferred to the commonwealth the site on its campus that has been chosen for the proposed State Psychiatric Hospital, the next step on the program is for the Legislature to appropriate the funds for construction of the building.

Senator Frank J. Harris, sponsor for the project, has already begun a campaign of education. He should have the co-operation of every welfare organization in the state, and of all the civic and trade bodies as well.

For Pennsylvania stands sorely in need of the psychiatric hospital. A distressing situation exists in respect to insanity. The accommodations for treatment of the sufferers are inadequate. The asylums are overcrowded. Many of the unfortunates could be cured if the disease were caught in its incipiency and treated as it is proposed to do in the psychiatric hospital.

With full appreciation of the desirability of curtailing the state's expenditures it can be asserted confidently that the appropriation to be asked for the hospital is necessary, and that to delay its construction would be to the detriment of the commonwealth.

The Only Gates!



A public weary of prohibition and its attendant evils has determined that there be no ducking, no dodging, no sidestepping, no straddling of the dry issue in forthcoming Congressional campaigns.

It will come as a surprise to some of the political trimmers in Washington to know that they must face the issue foursquare. No "half way" planks, no "middle of the road" candidates will go.

Representative Chindblom, Illinois dry, is the latest to feel the wrath of the electors. James E. Simpson, Wringing Wet, won out in the Republican primaries over a Bone Dry and Chindblom "Middle of the Road" candidate.

Let the dry bloc Congressmen take heed.

Marry-Go-Round

The Dutch Treat

It is easier to sell a man a second-hand glass eye or a hand-painted mustache-cup than to sell him the "Dutch Treat" idea. Particularly if he is an attractive man or fancies that he has sex-appeal.

* * *

This is just too bad! Because economic problems make a fair-minded soft-hearted business girl yearn to take some of the strain off a man's pocket-book, and enjoy his company at dinner without feeling that he will have to lunch on doughnuts and buttermilk for a week.

* * *

But, alas, she knows only too well that the offer to settle her own dinner check and pay for her own theater ticket or her share of the taxi fare will arouse all his defense mechanism.

The average man still continues to think of himself as "the sturdy oak," and he isn't going to let any little "clinging vine" make him feel like a sapling—or a sap—, even if she DOES make twice his salary. Not HE!

* * *

That's one reason why so many girls "stay at home and read a good book" evenings. But a far deeper and more significant reason is that once a man accepts the Dutch Treat plan, he knows that he will hand over his last masculine prerogative to woman—the right to do the inviting! The right to ask him to go places with her! And men are going to fight hard to defend their divine right to free life, liberty and the pursuit of women.

* * *

Of course, if a man and a girl are just platonic friends, the Dutch Treat plan may work. But even if you succeed in finding a platonic friend (the hardest job on earth for a woman) he seldom wastes his evenings on you. He confines all his attentions to afternoon calls or an occasional friendly cocktail, before rushing home to doll up to take some less platonic but more huggable girl out. Something kissable-but-dumb!

Modern men and women ought to be able to be pals—but the men just won't play! They are wary of that old "pal-game," and know only too well that platonic friendship leads all too often to the altar.

* * *

The predatory, man-stalking girl, with her machine-gun tactics, has made men bridal-shy. The present-day open pursuit of man has him fighting with his back to the wall. I know one popular man who makes his exit by the back door of his hotel, in order to escape the feminine buccaneers waiting to waylay him.

* * *

Some day, in the sweet bye-and-bye, when women have discovered the fallacy of stalking the male and men have wearied of the kissable-but-dumb, men and women may be able to enjoy honest companionship and friendship.

* * *

Then, a woman will be able to call up a man and invite him to share a lamb-chop with her, without rousing his suspicion that she is planning to paste a marriage-certificate on him. And a man will be able to say "NO!," without feeling like a brute.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 21.—Among perpetual down and outers and seasonal drifters on the Bowery these days is a distinct army of men who do not belong. Only a world collapse could have brought about their submergence. They are reminiscent of so many sheep stunned by a sudden bolt.

Like most of the Bowery's tarnished, they become inarticulate. Such tight-lipped and side-of-the-mouth monosyllabic talk is wrongly classified as the umbrageous jargon of the underworld. It is found wherever men seek to obliterate the past. In Nome or Port Said.

In one mission there are seven men of respectable families who never drank. Five years ago their salaries ranged from $7,000 to $20,000 yearly. All not only lost their jobs but savings through bank failures and investments in shoddy securities.

Ambition has been burnt out. They have become so utterly passive to the world of activity they do not read the newspapers. Most of their waking hours they merely sit and stare. At night they toss fitfully in the groping astigmatisms of want on barren floors of flop rooms.

Sociologists have found that these types do not remain economic problems for long periods. Somehow they vanish and are believed to be those who remain among the unidentified on the slabs of the morgue. There have been more than 500 during the past year.

* * *

Hand kissing was once looked upon as a gesture of heiress-hunting noblemen. Count Boni de Castellane, airy and birdlike, minced his mignon way through Fifth avenue drawing rooms smacking shriveled dowager hands during his courting of Anna Gould and became The 400's white-haired boy. But the press laughed. Today hand kissing, like the wrist watch, is no longer jeered. American gallants indulge this salutation everywhere—in theater foyers, cafe ante rooms and at the opera. A night recently I even saw a gang gorilla greet a night club hostess in the continental manner and felt like hippety-hopping away with an arm akimbo.

* * *

The nabob of exclusive organizations at the moment seems to be The River Club, which like Beekman and Sutton Places, nestles along the glowering East River. It offers all sorts of extraordinaries, including a blue-blooded membership list that would have delighted Harry Lehr. Kermit Roosevelt is head man.

* * *

A friend was shopping in a flower store when a fugitive thief dashed in and, trapped by trailing police, shot himself, falling lifeless at my friend's feet. When his brain functioned again two hours later he was at a stool and counter place, eating soft boiled eggs, although it was 9 p. m.

* * *

A shower beats against the panes and the Sealyham with divine naivete and an ear cocked, sits at a door waiting to pounce at something he imagines is on the other side. Expressing the same epitome of morology, if you call him suddenly he runs off as though the voice might come from an opposite direction. With one dog totally deaf and the other with lop-sided hearing—but what does it matter? The world is screwy anyhow.

* * *

Every once in a while the deaf Boston for no reason whatever will spring out of a sound sleep and come dashing into the workshop, his hair in a porcupine bristle. He then, submitting to a disciplined instinct, stretches, looks foolish and goes back to his nap. With a good trapeze act and my card trick we have the makings of a circus.

* * *

And each hour of the day there is something to muss up the sober reflections I struggle so hopelessly to transmute to print. Just now, for instance, plops a postcard of Eiffel Tower in a flame of incandescence and Bill Hamilton's scribble: "Of all the sillies, lighting up an oil derrick."

* * *

From a Texas weekly: "Six of the college boys had only 10 hours in New York, leaving for Washington around midnight. They spent much of their time hunting up O. O. McIntyre for a call and considering all the cost of travel was a rather expensive visit."

It will be cheaper this summer. They are going to start running dollar excursions to me.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

I broke my necklace. The beads rolled about on the floor.

A second before they had all been together, strung on one string, part of one lovely, shining whole.

Now they were nothing—only shattered bits of brightness; and, scattered like that, they meant nothing.

I sat holding the broken string in my hand, thinking.

A man's life is like that, I thought. A man's life is like a necklace—so many little things strung on one string!

Little acts, little experiences, little thoughts, desires, plans, moods, all strung on one string—one secret string of purpose, or faith.

And when they are strung together like that, a man's life means something; even the smallest part of a man's life has value and significance.

But if a man's life isn't strung together—if there isn't one purpose in him, or one faith, that runs through everything—why, then, his life is as meaningless as a broken necklace—just scattered beads flung aimlessly about.

And I thought of the empty, unhappy faces I pass every day; of the empty, unhappy people who write to me, asking me if life is worth while—asking me what life is all about.

It is so plain that many of their lives are about nothing.

They have nearly all the things that other lives have.

They have friends, work, health, food, clothes. They go places and do things. They even appear merry at times—feel a little excitement.

And yet—there is something wrong. They aren't getting anything out of life. Life doesn't mean anything to them.

Life has no meaning for them because they do not put any meaning into it. They have no purpose, no plan, no strong, central belief, or desire, or faith, on which to string their separate acts and desires.

They have things. They do things. Things happen to them, and in them. But the things do not hold together. There is nothing to hold them together. So they amount to nothing. They are like bright beads, scattered aimlessly about.

And there are other people—sometimes very simple people who have very little, do very little. Yet their lives have great meaning for them. Even the smallest experience means something—

For they have something in them that gives meaning to everything!

Sometimes it is LOVE—a love that warms and colors every smallest act and desire.

Sometimes it is AMBITION—an ambition that puts everything to account.

Sometimes it is WORK—the pride of doing a good job; the thought of serving the whole world through that job.

Sometimes it is HUNGER FOR TRUTH—and if there is that hunger in a man, his soul will feed on every scrap that comes its way. Nothing is too ugly, or too dangerous, or too mysterious, or too trivial for such a man's consideration.

And sometimes—and this, I think, is the strongest string of all on which a man's life may be strung—sometimes it is FAITH IN GOD.

If Faith runs through a man, nothing can tear him apart. Life, for him, can never lose its meaning. Behind every hardship, every success, every loss or gain he will see a Presence looming—he will feel a Hand.

Love, ambition, work, faith, the hunger for truth—these things hold lives together.

What holds YOUR life together? What gives YOUR life meaning?

And if it hasn't meaning, is this, perhaps, the reason?

My Thought of You

There is no need to kneel
And make abject appeal,
To voice the urge I feel.

No need is there to praise
The beauty of your ways,
The triumph of your days.

You are so good, so true,
How can I ask for you:
God guide in all you do?

Your feet have been so sure,
Your heart has been so pure,
So valiant, to endure.

You need no fond desire,
No love's bright beacon fire
To guard you from Life's mire.

Your spirit is so fair,
So wise, past all compare,
My thought of you is prayer!

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

8—Five-billion-dollar Federal loan for public works and to relieve unemployment.

The Way Out

No. 1—Prosperity Loan.

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

THE prolonged business depression and far-reaching unemployment constitute a broad challenge to political and business leadership. Instead of decrying the lack of leadership, the Hearst newspapers desire to make such contribution as they can to constructive, forward-looking economic leadership. The depression should be attacked simultaneously on all fronts. The emergency calls for the spirit of a field marshal who can co-ordinate and synchronize various remedial campaigns.

Congress, which purported to be guided by the "soak the rich" slogan in formulating in the lower House the hodge podge tax bill, HAS IN REALITY BEEN SOAKING THE POOR, through its negative attitude toward sound unemployment relief.

Lack of jobs for 8,000,000 men and women, desirous of employment, and only part-time employment for millions of others, not only make it impossible for these unfortunate fellow citizens to maintain their standard of living, but also result in the unbalancing of all business which suffers from insufficiency of buyers.

IN the circumstances, Congress should no longer ignore the advice given by 46 eminent economists to the effect that a federal bond issue for accelerating national, state and local public works would help to check the vicious circle of depression, and generate counter forces making for recovery and re-employment of labor.

With its unmatched credit, the federal government is in a uniquely favorable position to break the economic impasse by embarking on a SOUNDLY CONCEIVED, JOB CREATING PROGRAM FOR ACCELERATING PUBLIC WORKS. It could lay especial emphasis on projects with earning power, like toll bridges and tunnels, and perhaps slum removal, which would be self-liquidating.

By speeding up useful public works, in co-operation with local agencies of government, Uncle Sam would re-employ at least a fraction of the idle directly and would also indirectly call to industrial employment numerous others who would supply cement, steel, copper and other materials to public workers.

THE return of at least a part of the unemployed to payrolls would promote buying of consumers' goods, and would in time create a reverse cycle of favorable developments.

The change might well convince the private business executive that the turning point had come when commodity prices were ready to rise, and such a conversion would perhaps go far toward inducing him to restock normal inventories.

It is not a question of whether the government can afford to raise $5,000,000,000 in five annual installments through bond offerings. The inescapable question is whether a government, with immense fixed charges, can afford to stand by and watch the principal fountains and springs, from which taxable revenue flows in time of prosperity, dry up.

In place of apathy toward the La Follette bill, which is in accord with modern economic thinking, Congress should immediately turn its attention to this pivotal project in a campaign for economic reconstruction in the United States.

A LOYAL WATCHDOG

By Winifred Black

Pat Brannigan sleeps under the iceless refrigerator. Pat lives in a pleasant house with plenty of rooms in it. There's a garden and a patio—even a cloistered walk, where he can run up and down to his heart's content, no matter how cold the wind blows.

And there's a little room at the back of the house. Such a darling, shabby little room, full of old pictures, old souvenirs and comfy old chairs! There's a half-worn couch there, too, that ought to be the ideal place for Pat Brannigan to sleep.

But will he go there when it's time for him to stop barking, running in and out, tearing up papers, decorating the front stairs with perfectly good stockings and other even more intimate apparel, and chasing Demi Tasse, the little black cat, and making her pretend to be scared to death of him when she really can vanquish him with one blow of her spiteful little claws? Not he.

Under the iceless refrigerator for Pat—and get him out if you can!

Pat Brannigan is an Irish terrier, wheat-red, as an Irish terrier should be, and as full of life and fun and frolic as every Irishman should be.

He didn't know he could bark till the other day, and he was so astonished when he did it that he sat petrified, in a sort of puzzled terror.

In about an hour he tried it again—found he could still do it—and gazed around in triumph and pride.

From that minute the whole family has had to join in attempts to keep him from exercising his newly found talent at all kinds of inappropriate times.

Pat has a dirty old ball that he loves to catch and run after. He has a new ball, too, nice and shiny, but what does he care for that, I ask you? Not a bark. Not even a whine.

Pat walks on his hind legs like a dancing bear. He knows everyone in the house by the sound of their footsteps. He regards every visiting stranger as a potential enemy, to be terrified with blood-curdling growls, but he wouldn't hurt a flea, not really.

Well, I don't know about the flea. I think he has his opinion on that subject. But you could leave a 6-month-old baby with him, and he would never even whine, even if the baby pulled his ears and his tail, and subjected him to the countless indignities that babies know how to inflict.

But the iceless refrigerator for him, thank you. It's dark in the room where the refrigerator stands, and he has to stretch himself out perfectly flat to keep under there. But he slept there the first night he came to the house, and that settled it.

To be sure, it is a little bit more like a kennel than the comfy sofa; but somehow, I like Pat Brannigan for preferring the hard floor and the iceless refrigerator for his shelter.

Shows character, I think. Don't you?

And who are we to laugh at him—we, who cling to old prejudices and old ideas, old likes and dislikes—we, who nurse old wrongs, and love to remember grievances that are past? Who are we to laugh at Pat Brannigan, the Irish Terrier, with his bold, loyal heart and his restless, bouncing ways—just because he sticks to something uncomfortable for the simple reason that he is used to it?

I ask you.
